—A co-ordinated approach to legislation and regulations in the two countries, covering such areas as water-quality standards, the uses that can be made of Great Lakes water, and the level of pollution of any sort that can be tolerated.

The next major step in the program, informants say, is a one-day meeting at the state department here June 10.

At that time, high-level representatives from both countries are expected to give formal approval to plans drafted in recent months by committees of Canadian and American technical experts.

The informants cautioned against expecting dramatic announcements from the June 10 meeting, but insisted the eventual agreement is likely to be exceptional.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp is likely to head a Canadian delegation that will include Energy Minister J. J. Greene, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis and a senior representative of the Ontario government.

Further meetings of senior American and Canadian civil servants are likely to be necessary before a final agreement is prepared, it is hoped by next fall.

It will not be in the form of a treaty, informants say, because of the time-consuming procedure needed in the U.S. for congressional approval of treaties.

Rather, it appears probable the agreement will be based on the Boundary Waters Treaty of 1909 which set up the IJC but whose provisions against pollution of international waters have not been seriously invoked in the case of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence.

The June 10 meeting will be the second of what is called the "inter-ministerial" group of Great Lakes pollution. The first was held a year earlier in Ottawa, and set up an international committee to deal with the problem. Ten sub-committees were subsequently created for specific areas of concern.

Since then, the IJC has completed a six-year study of pollution in Lakes Erie and Ontario and the international section of the St. Lawrence, issuing a report that calls for stiff regulations to halt a dramatic decline

John C. Parkin Wants Land To Be Community Utility

TORONTO (CP) — Land must become a community utility and not a commodity in order to allow Canadians some choice in how cities develop, a well-known architect said Wednesday.

John C. Parkin of Toronto proposed a system under which buildings would be privately owned but land held on lease. Use of land would be subject to review by an independent board with power to decide its proper use.

He told the convocation at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute that such action was necessary so that future cities would have "what we have not got now — choice."

Canadians, he said, should review their urban ideas to include terraces, row housing and other types of multiple dwellings.

Too often urban life offers a Hobson's choice, he said, take what is going or forget it.

"It seems sickeningly inevitable that all those forests of urban high-rise, springing up right now for the wrong inadvertent reasons, are going to be with us for a long time to come."

Hees Advocates Threat Of Mandatory Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused today of deliberately engineering a rise in unemployment that will have no long - term economic benefits.

Dr. Clarence Barber, head of the University of Manitoba economics department in a brief prepared for the Senate national finance committee, called for rapid action to move unemployment back to a four- per - cent level followed by a two - or three - percent limit on price increases.

The effects of large wage increases could be controlled by a tax nullifying all gains in excess of a specified ceiling.

Indian Post Wiped Out

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government said today an entire 11-man checkpost on the border with East Pakistan had been wiped out in an attack two days ago by the Pakistan Army.

"Our 11 men could not hold against their 100 men," Home Affairs Minister K. C. Pant informed Parliament in the first official disclosure of the incident.

The leader of the right-wing Hindu nationalist Jana Sangh party, A. B. Vajpayee, called the border incident "an undeclared war" and demanded that the Indian army be moved along the 1,349-mile border with East Pakistan, replacing the paramilitary border security force.

Expropriation Bill Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — A section of a bill that would permit the City of Toronto to expropriate land for private developers was rejected Wednesday by the Ontario legislature's private bills committee.

City council may decide to bring the controversial section before the bills committee again with an amendment.

The section that was deleted would have empowered Toronto to assemble land for private developers such as those advocating the Metro Centre for the downtown area.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dalton Bales told the committee he opposed the proposal because it was "in too broad terms to be justified."

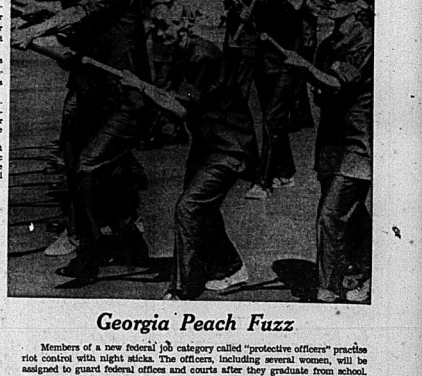
Canada's Needs Different

Trudeau Expects No Arctic Cities

MURMANSK (CP) — Despite the Soviet success in building cities such as this centre of 300,000 within the Arctic Circle, Prime Minister Trudeau foresees "no great building of cities" in the Canadian north.

He told reporters Wednesday that the city of Norilsk, which he visited Tuesday, was "obviously unique" because of vast mineral reserves found here.



Norilsk has open-pit mines for nickel and other metals with giant slag heaps that resemble Sudbury, Ont.

Trudeau, who later flew on to Leningrad with Mrs. Trudeau, said he did not believe in providing incentives just to induce Canadians to go north.

Their productivity must be greater there or the country must derive a greater social benefit than if they had stayed south.

When he was reminded he had called on Canada's young to settle in the north, he said: "I meant as far north as Mont Tremblant (100 miles or so north of Montreal) or something like that. . . . North of the narrow band of population living on the American border.

At his press conference aboard the world's only nuclear-powered icebreaker, the Lenin, Trudeau for the second time on Soviet soil expressed concern about the extent of American influence in Canada.

Sewage Plant Expansion Costly

TRENTON (Staff) — This town is proud of its abundant supply of water but yesterday it was learned that some of it could best be done without.

Ground water seeping into the sewage system, sometimes at an alarming rate, was revealed as a leading factor in the need to build a mammoth $2.6 million addition to the municipal sewage treatment plant here.

The disclosure was made by John Argo, representative of Gore and Storrie and Trenton's sewer works consultant, during the Ontario Water Resources Commission's public hearing into proposals for expansion of the local plant from its present one-million-gallon-a-day capacity to 3.5 million gallons daily.

There was no question among the various parties that a solution must be found to the grave overloading situation at the plant.

According to Mr. Argo, flow through the east side treatment centre averaged 2.18 million gallons daily between January and July 1969 and was recorded at 1.94 through April 1970.

However, during the meeting, it became clear that much of this was not raw domestic and industrial sewage but water making its way into the system through faulty sewers. This problem has also beset Belleville, according to the Gore and Storrie representative.

Town engineer Arthur Campbell concurred with Mr. Argo, saying "infiltration is a very large problem" and the heavy spring runoff this year proved it.

Is it possible to eliminate the seepage and avoid building so large a plant?

Len Pitura, assistant director of project development for OWRC, told the hearing that a search for sewer defects would be very costly involving installation of television equipment in the sewers. He doubted that such a venture would be successful in any case.

Town officials did not rule out giving the sewer search a try but Trenton clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said it was clear "it may be cheaper to accommodate the seepage than to eliminate it."

Even if council and civil servants dismiss the novel search idea, they will not be rushing to accept the full building scheme as presented by OWRC yesterday.

To make the plan a reality, the commission suggests it assume the town's debt of $264,000 on the present plant, build and manage the new one with the town collecting money from the taxpayer to pay the shot.

Of the $2.6 million total cost to boost capacity and add secondary and tertiary treatment of wastes, about $1.3 million is accounted for by actual expense for the new facilities, including engineering fees and a contingency fund. The remainder is made up of outlay for an added feeder main to serve the plant, improvements to the Dundas Street sewage pumping station and an outfall line into the Bay of Quinte.

Both Mayor Duncan McDonald and Clerk - comptroller Larry expressed alarm at the effect the cost of the addition would have on Trenton taxpayers, with the mayor asking that consideration be given to building the new works in stages over five years. The OWRC indicates a possible completion date of December 1972 in its schedules.

"Unless it can be done in stages or we can find a different means of paying, I am not sure we will be in a position to pay," the mayor said.

The average taxpayer here now pays $17 annually for sewage treatment service but with the expansion of the plant, this amount would climb to more than $62 or 34 cents for each 1,000 gallons of sewage treated.

Clerk Larry agreed with the mayor that staging should be considered, adding "we have to take a long hard look at the people's capacity to pay."

He told the hearing directed by OWRC vice - chairman John Root, that six or seven businesses have folded in downtown Trenton recently, the population has dropped measurably in the last five years and now the community faces threats from new commercial enterprises in Belleville.

"The crux of this thing is money," the clerk said, with Mr. Pitura pointing out that it would be far cheaper to do the whole job "in one shot" than to break it up in parcels as suggested.

OWRC officials estimate that the new expanded treatment centre would serve the needs of Trenton until about 1992, when a population of 24,000 is anticipated.

in the quality of those waters.

Both Sharp and U.S. State Secretary William Rogers praised the IJC report when it was issued, in January, and sources here indicate the earlier preparations of a joint program for the Great Lakes were given added urgency and importance b the IJC recommendations.

The IJC, whose role in the past has largely been one of backstage negotiation and diplomatic pressure, had asked in its January report for a more active part to play in ending an almost uncontrolled flush of municipal sewage and industrial pollution which has already "killed" parts of Lake Erie and threatens Lake Ontario.

Informed sources indicated that both countries had backed away from any suggestion of creating a "police" power for the IJC—in the sense of having powers of enforcement—because of the implications for national sovereignty and because adequate policing powers are said to exist already in each country.

But some new methods by which violations are brought to public and government attention are likely to be included in the final program.

Panel Debates Whether Planning Should Be for Cars or People

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Town planners preparing land - use plans for existing communities are working from the wrong end, delegates to the 22nd Ontario Traffic Conference in Belleville was told Wednesday.

Andy Lamb, traffic engineer for the city of Niagara Falls, as panel member for a discussion "Does the motor vehicle destroy the community?" told the conference that planners should start by defining transportation systems and follow up by their land-use proposals.

He said the road system should be planned first without doing too much damage to the existing development and then the decision made where shopping centres and other facilities should go.

When planning was done the other way around, too often it was found that new shopping centres or high-rise apartments overloaded the road system making extensive road widening necessary.

Also, Mr. Lamb said, the provincial government should subsidize municipalities for the preparation of official plans.

He said the highways department subsidizes municipalities for transportation studies, but doesn't contribute a nickel for official plans.

All panel members generally agreed that the motor vehicle was destroying the community but didn't feel the situation was hopeless if there was proper planning.

John Bousfield, planning director for Proctor, Redfern, Bousfield and Bacon, said the main confrontation between people and the motor car was not the expressway cutting through people's backyards, but was rather within the municipalities on arterial and local streets.

Too often, he said road patterns in existing municipalities made the use of the automobile almost imperative and at the same time discouraged walking.

Using the new Erin Mills community proposed for west of Toronto as an example, the planner illustrated how new communities can be planned with proper roadways and walkways so they will not wind up with the same problems as existing urban centres.

Properly planned "finder" streets, walkway systems and proper location of shopping plazas and industrial areas would minimize the use of cars and result in a happy marriage of cars and people.

Robert J. Keir, manager, information services Ontario department of the environment, said that people and cars seemed to be at cross purposes.

He questioned whether it was necessary to pave the face of the earth so man can be behind the wheel.

In the interests of traffic, more and wider highways were necessary but this is done at the cost of trees being slaughtered and deterioration of the environment.

He called for faster progress in research to control auto emissions and said if something was not done soon cars perhaps would destroy the environment.

Donald Patterson, president of Paterson Planning and Research Ltd. noted that urban settlement patterns were linked by road systems which he said was the very lifeblood of urban communities.

The problem was that as communities grew it was necessary to expand road systems, come up with alternatives or eliminate the side and bad effects of the auto.

Rapid transit was not the cure-all, as it depended on concentrated volume of traffic.

But the problem would not go away by simply refusing to build more highways.

Possible answers might be to shift from the present reliance on transportation in favor of other forms of communication or hasten the shorter work week and staggered work times to take rush period loads off the highways.

Milton Harmelink, Ontario department of highways, informed the new communities that as blood highways and transport department the enforcement of effects of transportation would be considered.

He said that any mass transportation system providing the same efficiency as the auto could be provided only at tremendous cost. But costs of individual car ownership were also tremendous when all aspects were considered.

Mr. Harmelink said a "balanced" transportation system was needed.

Close to 150 delegates are in attendance at the traffic conference which will be addressed by transportation and communication Minister Charles McNaughton at a civic dinner Thursday evening.

Clean-up Program To Employ Up to 35

Members of the Mississippi Valley Conservation Authority voiced full approval for the implementation of a provincial government program, known as SWEEP.

Speaking to the group was Alex Ansell who attended a Toronto workshop in mid-April concerning the movement which is designed to assist students looking for summer employment by providing them with environmental clean-up jobs. The authority will involve 35 students in its summer program.

Mr. Ansell advised the meeting that conservation week will be held in September although no definite date has been set as yet. He also reported that copies of the Mississippi Valley Conservation Authority brochure are now available for distribution.

The board moved that a recommendation be made to the executive committee that secure routes, as proposed in the authority report be started. A proposal for the purchase of a portable electrical display unit, not to exceed $400, is to be presented to the executive committee.

Officers To Visit Friday

Top management officials of the British Oxygen Company, International will be in Belleville, Friday, May 28 for tours of the local CANOX branch of the Dolero Steilite plant.

Growth of CANOX in the past two years, particularly in regard to the acquisition of Dolero Steilite Ltd., has been aided by BOC's annual meetings which are designed to promote short and long range planning by providing delegates with a first-hand knowledge of the political, economic and cultural environment in which various member companies operate.

This year Toronto will host the first BOIC conference to be held in Canada.

Mini-Buses A Good Idea

Milt Harmelink (right) of the Ontario department of highways, following his address on public transportation and planning at the Ontario Traffic Conference yesterday, told Belleville Aldermen E. A. Orr and Harold Ketcheson (left) that Belleville's use of Mercedes-Benz mini-buses was a good idea, a point agreed upon by Mayor J. Russell Scott when he was informed of the DHO man's comment.

Partial Solution Outlined To Downtown Parking Problem

Off-street parking facilities in downtown urban centres don't often pay their way but to some extent they do offset suburban shopping plazas.

And in many centres it is the downtown merchants who pay the deficits through what is known as area benefit assessment.

Provision of off-street parking through area benefits assessment was the topic of a panel discussion Wednesday at the Ontario Traffic Conference being held in Belleville this week.

One of the panel members, J. Douglas Reid of Sault Ste. Marie, said that in his city free off-street parking was provided. He said the free parking didn't prevent vacant stores but it did make some contribution in maintaining the downtown area.

Another panel member said one of the main problems with area benefit assessment was to get agreement among the merchants as to the location of the parking facility.

This problem is sometimes partially overcome through merchants paying according to the walking distance from the parking area to their stores.

The opening luncheon of the four-day convention was held Wednesday with five local banks as sponsors.

Delegates were officially welcomed to the city by Mayor J. Russell Scott.

Barrier Barrels Highlight Of Suppliers' Showcase

For motorists unfortunate enough to slam at high speed into a concrete overpass column, a series of sand filled impact absorbing inertia "barrier" barrels could be the difference between life and death.

The value of the inertia barrels in turning "hard" accidents into "soft" ones has been demonstrated on several occasions in Toronto during the past year.

In what otherwise might well have been fatal accidents, the cars involved have escaped serious damage and the passengers have been able to walk away.

A sample of the life - saving barrier barrels is on show at this week's Ontario Traffic Conference at the Four Seasons Hotel, where considerable interest is being shown by convention delegates.

The plastic barrels are part of static displays being shown by the suppliers of traffic lights and other safety equipment who are attending the conference.

One of the suppliers at the four - day conference is Davis Controls of Islington, Ontario, who are supplying the Monotrol master signal controller now being installed to synchronize traffic lights in Belleville's downtown area.

The equipment will provide a central control for 13 signalized intersections and hopefully provide the answer for faster and safer traffic movement.

Quinte's Queen To Be Unique

BLOOMFIELD (Special) — The distinction of being the only Apple Blossom Queen in Ontario goes with the title of one of the three princesses selected for the final judging on Friday night.

The queen's contest was introduced in Amliasburg when the festival was a 20 township level six years ago.

Then the spring event was expanded to take in all of Prince Edward County.

Recently, the festival was renamed Quinte Apple Blossom Festival to take in the whole area.

Here last night, Lyle Vanclief, festival chairman and master of ceremonies of the variety show, revealed that the new Quinte queen would be the only one in Ontario, since the festival sponsored by Georgian Bay fruit growers had been discontinued.

Three semi - finalists were selected from the field of eight in the contest for the 1971 queen of the Apple Blossom Festival here last night.

The judging was the highlight of the variety show held in the auditorium of Pinecrest Memorial school to a large turnout was indicative of the county-wide interest.

Chosen to contend for the queen's title in the final judging at the Blossom Ball at Keste School on Friday night were Anna Lynn Walker, 17, Milford; Mary Lee Handley, 18, RR4, Picton, and P a m Murrell, 17, RR2, Amelias-burg.

Other contenders last night were Monica Conley, 16, Hillier; Nancy Clossen, 16, RR7, Belleville; Kathy Ross, 16, RR4, Picton; Penny Wecse, 16, RR1, Carrying Place and Marie Munday, 17, Wellington.

Coronation of the 1971 queen climaxes a week of activities which started with a pie baking contest at Albury church on Saturday. Last year's reigning queen, 19-year-old Elizabeth Dostee, Dorsee's Corners, will crown her successor.

The judges last night were Prince Edward county wardens Allan Anderson, Mrs. Doris Freeland, Belleville - and Phil Flagler, radio personality of Belleville.

BAYSIDE OPENING SAID ON TARGET

Bayside Secondary School will be completed by the end of this year, trustees were assured at the board of education meeting Tuesday night.

Director of education Eric Runacres took sharp exception to rumors that the school's opening would be delayed.

"My experience is, that barring a strike, we will be in that school by the end of the year," he told trustees.

Controller of plant, K. H. Hawkins, said the superintendent with Convey Construction on the site had been relieved of his duties and another permanent superintendent would begin work June 1. Construction is now four weeks behind schedule for the completion date of September, 1971 and the lost time may be picked up this summer.

"The morale and quality of workmanship has improved," observed Mr. Hawkins.

The architect and head of the construction company will meet with the board and administration in the near future to give a further report on construction progress.

Whither Quebec?

Should Quebec become an independent state, and there are those who believe it will come to that, we shudder at the mechanics of it all.

Montreal for example is now the principal terminal for air travel in and out of Canada. What a mess it could be if travellers had to go through two sets of customs, one to say Montreal and again at their final destination in Canada. The same with persons arriving by sea at the port of Montreal. Then again, there would be customs stations at border points with Ontario and New Brunswick, not to mention New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

Consider all the services Quebec would have to establish on its own. Commercial dealings and communications with the rest of Canada would continue as usual, but think of the chaos that would ensue in sorting things out generally. Imagine Quebec with its own armed services and the host of other institutions it would have to set up.

We suppose it could be done, but is it really worth while? Why can Quebecers not regard themselves as Canadians like everyone else? Their culture is their very own we know, but it is Canadian as well as French, and no more unique than its fellow provinces, each in its own way.

Would Canada survive as a nation without Quebec? Only time would tell. Suffice it to say that a Canada with one of its provinces declaring itself a separate state would be a something less than effective national entity than it is today.

Spring Activity

It is a poor sort of a Spring season that we are passing through, to be sure, scarcely a fitting image for a lilac or an apple blossom. But then we would not even have them to enjoy were it not for the rain that helped give them birth.

And if the sun has been shy there are compensations associated with the Apple Blossom Festival over in Amelíasburg: pretty girls, square dancing, wagon tours and all the rest of it.

In fact it has been an unusually busy time for social and competitive activity in the Belleville area of late, what with the Ontario Open Chess Championship, the Eastern Ontario Half-Arabian Horse Show, and in neighboring Tyendinaga, the annual celebration of the Mohawk landing at Deseronto.

At the latter ceremony it was interesting to observe renewed interest in Indian culture, music and dancing. Encouraging too that the Mohawk language, in addition to the native dance forms, is being taught in the reserve schools.

Soviet Spread

Prime Minister Trudeau has been visiting the Soviet Arctic after stops in those legendary centres of Soviet Asia: Tashkent and Samarkland. A look at the map and the location of these places is a reminder of the vast size of the Soviet Union, the only country on earth which make up the largest country in the world.

And speaking of size, Canada, as every schoolboy or girl should know, is the largest with 3,851,309 square miles, then the United States with 3,615,211 square miles and Australia with 2,967,909 square miles. These figures, which seem to vary among different authorities, are taken from the World Almanac.

The Soviet Union then has the mostest, from the standpoint of terrain, and within its confines there are peoples of many different backgrounds, as well as a climate ranging from the bitter Arctic winter to the sunny regions bordering the Black Sea.

Inside Story

Mrs. Pierre Trudeau did not attend a ballet performance in Russia recently for understandable reason that she was "pooped." The Soviet tour sounds interesting, but it must be something of a grind too.

We shall probably never know, but it would be interesting to have Mrs. Trudeau's personal impressions of the tour. What is the Soviet Union like from a young Western woman's point of view?

What was the accommodation like — the guest house in Moscow for instance — and the plumbing? One hears for instance that Soviet hotels lack such basics as stoppers in the wash basins.

What about the flights in Soviet jets, the food and service on board and so on?

Could it be that the guest house rooms were bugged too . . . oh, come on, maybe that is stretching things a bit. But who knows?

Benson Gets It From All Sides

Finance Ministry Is Roughest Post in Government

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — Who in his right mind would want to be Canada's minister of finance?

Yet, prime ministers at Ottawa have not found a lack of candidates for this troublesome portfolio, albeit they have not always been able to get the ideal man for the post.

But the record of tribulation experienced by the last three finance ministers demonstrates that this job is a thankless one and that, almost inevitably, it is a disaster politically.

The present incumbent, pipe-smoking Edgar Benson, gets regularly cussed out across the country, probably more than any other minister in the Trudeau cabinet.

Benson is blamed for high taxation, for low profits, for unemployment, for inflation — you name it — he did it.

Incidentally, it is intriguing how Mr. Benson's broad shoulders get to carry this unhappy load. There was a time when the ministers of labor used to get what-for because of high unemployment. Or even today, if Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey can use his Irish charm to evade the blame, why does not Manpower Minister Otto Lang get more of a barrage?

Sharp was finance minister when the Pearson government in the happy centenary year of 1967 was in a lush spending mood. Millions of dollars for Expo 67, more millions for the centenary. There were sums for subsidare and a tidal wave of labor wage boosts set off by some curious intervention into disputes by the Pearson regime.

In the end, Sharp's chances of becoming leader of the Liberal party and prime minister were ruined because he was the finance minister. He switched support to Pierre Trudeau and got External Affairs as a reward, thus salvaging something from the wreckage.

Remember Walter Gordon. He had some new wrinkles for the budget. He was going to stand up to the Americans. He even brought in outside advisors to help him, much to the chagrin of the Ottawa civil service. Just about everything went wrong for Gordon as it turned out, including some embarrassing re-writing of the budget.

But his key error was more political. He advised Prime Minister Pearson to call the 1965 general election, campaigning for a Liberal majority in the Commons. Pearson got his election but no majority. The finance minister resigned because of his "bad advice".

Then there was Donald Methuen Fleming. By his own account no one ever worked harder at being finance minister than he did. The lights burned late in his office. Some say his dedication was such that he did not even stop for lunch.

Mr. Fleming though shortly fell victim to hard times and heavy spending by his boss, John Diefenbaker. He piled up deficit after deficit — surely a terribly painful experience because it owes a passion for balance a budget. It was Donald Fleming.

There was the badly-handled dispute with Bank of Canada governor James Coyne which hurt the Diefenbaker government. And then in the middle of an election clime that humiliated experience of having to devalue the dollar. Those pesky Liberals came out with the Diefenbaker head it damaged the Conservatives even though in the long run the change in dollar value was a great boon to Canada.

Messrs. Sharp, Gordon and Fleming have had their purgatory in the Finance Department. Benson is still there, getting it from all sides. He is tough, but how much more can a man take?

Canadian Economy and Foreign Competition

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Mr. Benson is being blamed for the unemployment situation in Canada, but is he solely to blame? The following are a few observations:

1. I notice more and more imports in stores, from Korea, Japan, India, Spain, China, Jamaica, Poland, Hungary, Italy, and others. When you ask why, you are told labor is cheaper in these countries. If this is so, why is the merchandise priced so high? Shoes from Spain and Italy run from $20 and up. High winter boots from Italy last winter cost from $20 to $35, while in Italy labor is up in arms about wages being so low. An article in a Toronto paper said in China they receive from $24 to $60 per month and are given one month's holiday, but the holiday is spent in an Army training school. The politicians say Canadians must compete with world markets, but they never say how, under the above competition.

2. The dairy business across Canada is being forced to close. At one time not too long ago, Belleville had about 14 or 16 dairies, now we have one local dairy still operating. It was said at the time they started closing, once the milk was in one company it would cost less to handle and would be cheaper in the long run. However, now we've gone up steadily. Dairy farmers were forced out of the business and those left seem to be having great difficulties according to the news we hear. And gone are the summer jobs for the young people. On a newscast not long ago it was mentioned that 65 per cent of farm produce is being imported.

3. Canada with all its wood is importing plywood from Japan, or perhaps raw material is being shipped and finished in Japan.

4. Apples are being imported from five countries and from a farm paper report; apple concentrate is being imported for apple juice from behind the iron curtain. Will the continuing of this practice force many apple growers out of business?

5. Canada has been known on world markets for good cheese. The cheese factories are also being forced to close and I presume Kraft and others will take over this good Canadian product. We read and hear how Canada should keep her identity, and how the United States is tiking over our resources. Perhaps we should add Europe is taking over Canada's finished product market.

6. I watched an interview from Peterborough. A lady was interviewing a manufacturer and she said if she were shopping and the article made in a foreign country was cheaper she would buy it to save a dollar. While she is saving a dollar buying a foreign made product, she is being paid through Canadian taxes working for the CBC. And while business is forced to close and machines take over from human beings, everyone, including her, will have to pay to support the unemployed.

7. On top of all this we have technology working and figuring out how a machine can take the place of a human being. Spending millions of dollars on more and more schools for students to receive an education and at the same time planning a machine that will not require them.

Who is to blame for the situation we are in, Mr. Ben s o n, yes, and we the public, are we partly to blame? The businessman is he also partly to blame? The manufacturer, is he putting big profit ahead of the country? We must deal with other countries but do we have to flood the country to the point where it is forcing unemployment and forcing Canadians out of business?

Hot Pants Create Stir in Commons

From Hansard

Arnold Peters (NDP — Temiskaming): Mr. Speaker, I rise on a question of privilege deriving from an incident which took place a few moments ago when our protective staff made the decision to throw a young lady out of the gallery. Apparently, persons visiting the Parliament, particularly students, are prevented from using shorts as a form of dress or wearing shorts.

I have been observing, as I am sure have other hon. members, that there are much more b r i e f costumes than shorts these days. Nevertheless, when the decision has been made by someone that persons wearing shorts are not admitted into the galleries, I have no reason to discuss women's s t y l e s. I understand women can wear whatever they wish to wear. Everything is in order. Nothing is out of place anymore. Shorts are permissible for evening wear as are many forms of attire. Last week a constituent from my riding was thrown out of the gallery with a great deal of publicity and I am sure her family were not in the least pleased about it.

I suggest that if we are to enforce this regulation concerning dress in the galleries we should at least supply the National Capital Commission and Hansa copies of Parliament, with copies of these rules in order that visitors may be spared embarrassment. The type of dress objected to is worn on the street. It is perfectly acceptable in the high schools of our nation. Students do not realize that under our rules it is prohibited. I think they are offended by being thrown out, and if that is so, then I am offended on behalf of these constituents. In order to spare visitors this kind of publicity and embarrassment, I suggest the National Capital Commission, which helps Members of Parliament to conduct school tours, be supplied with information which could be passed on to students by the schools before they come here, outlining the regulations as to dress which apply in the galleries, restaurants and cafeteria.

Some Hon. Members: Hear, hear!

Mr. Speaker Lamoureux: I thank the hon. member for Temiskaming for bringing this matter to the attention of the Chair and of other hon. members. I believe no new rule has been made. It is rather, the style which has changed. There are new 'items of ladies' apparel which perhaps I should not refer to at this time. In any event, it appears it is this new style which causes some confusion as far as the application of the rules is concerned. The point is well taken. The Chair will discuss the matter with the Sergeant at Arms, who has the responsibility for applying the rules as to the style of dress to be worn in our galleries, and I am sure some kind of compromise can be reached, which will prevent a recurrence of the unfortunate incidents to which the hon. member has just alluded.

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear!

Justice Minister Joh Turner (Ottawa-Carleton): I do not want to become involved in the question of privileges, but I should like to assure the hon. member for Temiskaming that the young lady he mentioned is a great credit to him and to his constituency.

Canada Could Contribute To Upkeep of the Monarchy

Hamilton Spectator

Recently the Queen asked Britain's Parliament for more money to meet an estimated $2 million annual budget (the present allowance is more than $1 million). If all the relevant facts were made public, however, they would undoubtedly show that the Monarchy costs far more than $2 million, that the Queen herself spends millions of her personal fortune each year helping pay for its operation.

Considering the fact that Her Majesty is also the Queen of wealthy countries such as Canada and Australia, it seems unfair to expect the hard-pressed British taxpayers and the Royal Family to shoulder the entire burden of such an enormously expensive, vitally necessary institution. Canada, certainly, should be more than happy to pay a sizeable share of the annual cost, if only because most Canadians are well aware that every time the Queen visits us the communities of her itinerary enjoy the luxury of a major jubilee celebration.

We feel sure that the majority of Canadians would be willing to pay $1 million a minimum of $1 million yearly toward the expenses of the Royal Family. Even if this amount conveniently disregard the validity of the ties-that-bind sympathies, it would be impossible to ignore the fact that from a purely practical, dollar - and - cents standpoint, it would be money well spent.

Trent Cruise Plan Gets Wide Support

TRENTON (Staff) — A brief proposing Trent waterway cruises was presented to two members of parliament here yesterday by a pair of Trenton students.

The paper, a bid for federal government grants under the Opportunities for Youth Program or any other, was prepared by John Merfley and Paul McClobking and outlined while David Weatherhead (L, Scarborough West) and Norman Kaffick (L, Ontario) paid a brief visit to the town.

Supporters of the plan were with the pair as they discussed the scheme with the government members, they included Dick Plumen, proprietor of Quinte Machine and Repair Ltd.; Hal Mennies, socialist College extension director and Bill Mennies, a Hydro employee, declared Liberal candidate in Quinte riding, and long-time exponent of such river trips.

Mr. Mennies told the MPs his family had lived on the Trent since the 1930s and he is the first member of his family to cruise down the river. He said he is as enthused about the riverboat plan he is willing to invest money in it.

"It is ridiculous to keep the river just for a few private individuals. It is high time the Trent is opened up for commercial boating again," he said.

By the plan, the government would grant the young men enough money to build a 65 by 20 foot houseboat that would accommodate about 20 passengers for weekiong Trent voyages.

Mr. Plumen indicated that his company could build the craft and both Mr. Mennies and Mr. Butterill said they were willing to serve as directors on a management board to operate it.

The brief states "we have 50,000,000 people living within a day's drive of Trenton and they would all be potential customers for these cruises on the Trent if the cost is reasonable. The present system of renting or owning boats rules out 95 per cent of the possible customers." Estimated price of a Trent trip would be about $100.

Response of the parliamentarians to the proposal was favorable but they pointed out that the final date is past for reception of applications under the Opportunities for Youth Program.

However, they suggest trying the research and development branch, department of trade and commerce, Mr. Kaffick invited the young men to Ottawa to discuss the proposal with relevant agencies.

Belleville Liberals last night elected Thomas Lally (centre) as their new president. On hand at the meeting to field questions on government policy from party stalwarts were two federal members of parliament, David Weatherhead (left) and Norman Kaffick (right).

Hellyer's Plan Said 'Doomed to Oblivion'

Paul Hellyer's Action Canada is "doomed to oblivion", Belleville Liberals were told last night.

Norman Kaffick, MP for Ontario riding, told listeners at the annual meeting of Belleville Liberal Association that Hellyer is advocating nothing "new and different" and "I can't understand what has taken part in his mind to move him to this course of action."

Mr. Kaffick and David Weatherhead, MP for Scarborough West, were guest speakers at the gathering of about 30 party members at the Kiwanis Centre.

Mr. Kaffick reaffirmed his confidence in the normal processes of government and political action.

"A backbencher can have a bell of a lot more impact (in Parliament) that I ever suspected before I went there," he said. "I have seen the course of government change because of one simple thing," he added, referring to a citizen's complaint or query "filtered through the party and member to the government.

"We have lost faith in our institutions, not because they have failed us, but because we have failed to use them," he asserted.

Mr. Kaffick said many Liberals are in favor of fighting unemployment by tax cuts to put more money into circulation and by wage and price controls.

"I'm very, very, disturbed about the degree of unemployment," he said. "The psychological effect on a person who cannot provide for his family today is worse than the affect in the dirty 30s, when everyone else was in the same shape."

He told his fellow party members that he was hoping the new federal government budget would have some answers on the unemployment situation.

Mr. Weatherhead said the unemployment insurance fund is now in good shape, with more than a quarter billion dollars in the fund. He added that the government is spending $200 million a year on Manpower retraining schemes, "more than we ever spend on winter works."

Mr. Kaffick defended wage and price controls and the unemployment insurance policies of his government against attacks from the floor by people who claimed such measures were tending toward a controlled socialistic economy.

"The government has a social responsibility on your behalf to care for the unemployed, but the solution is not unemployment insurance, but to get people employed," he said. "But to create employment by the government's putting more back into the economy than it takes out is a slow way to achieve a dubious objective."

Mr. Kaffick outlined his solution: a fund with $1 billion capital available for grants and loans. The money would be lent or granted to small businesses in direct relationship to the number of people they could put to work.

Many small businesses have work they would like to undertake, but they can't get the capital to begin," the speaker said.

New officers elected for the Belleville Liberal Association were: president, Thomas Lally; vice - presidents, Robert Ord and Mrs. Phyllis Foster; secretary, Tony Warren, and treasurer, K. J. Soden, Jr. K. J. Soden Sr. is past president.

Conference Delegates Hear Of Transport of Future

Rapid rail transit between municipalities; silent - running hovercraft, overhead monorail trains attaining speeds of up to 200 miles an hour; exclusive lanes for buses, and a service providing buses at customers doorsteps simply by dialing a telephone.

Delegates to the four - day Ontario Traffic Conference, attending a 1½-hour discussion on transportation and planning, were given a detailed rundown of modern public transit methods and experiments by Milt Harmelink, of the Ontario department of highways.

"In many cases it is environmental inacceptability of modes (of transportation) that pushed them underground," he told delegates at the Four Seasons Hotel.

With the new ideas in public transit, "these costs could be cut one tenth to one fifth of the expense of subway systems," he said.

Mr. Harmelink explained this would be possible due to the reduced operating and maintenance costs. Air cushion support systems would replace the heavy steel wheel, therefore, lesser expense for roads and rail supports.

He forecast futuristic transit systems with inter - city systems whipping commuters along in air - cushion comfort of overhead monorail coaches, already in use in Japan; travelling from store to store along moveable sidewalks or conveyor belts, similar to ones located in Dorval International Airport outside of Montreal; hovercraft providing links between overseparated cities; special highways, as in Washington, D.C. and New York City for public buses and mini - rail trains taking travellers across cities and between neighboring cities.

The transit specialist showed slides of these and future plans, including a Japanese monorail being developed to attain speeds of up to 500 miles an hour.

Closer to reality was the proposed dial - a - bus system. To prevent wasted cruising, bus companies would be called by prospective passengers. The bus would arrive at the caller's home and the vehicle would make rounds from there, delivering passengers to their destinations and then return to the bus barns.

It was this method that Mr. Harmelink suggested might solve some of Belleville's transit problems.

"This is a convenient service, governed by peak conditions," he told Alderman E. A. Orr who contested it was "rather unrealistic to see our buses running around empty some times."

Mr. Orr told the DHO speaker "we gave up to Mercedes Benz buses because they (advisors) said they were more expensive than large buses for operation."

Mr. Harmelink said "there's not that much difference . . . you've got one operator and one bus," plus the factor that a smaller vehicle is less costly to operate than a big gas-burner.

In fact, he told delegates, the Toronto regional GO train system presently employs several small modified vans to transport passengers to and from the GO trains.

"I guess our only answer is to hope that the provincial government will come across with bigger subsidies," said Mr. Orr.

Mr. Harmelink said "our minister has stated our departments are more heavily engaged activities other than highway and road development . . . transportation is a total concern. Subway construction subsidies are an indication of interest in the transit problem."

Cost of Supplies Principals' Worry

PICTON (Staff) — Surprise expenditures in instructional supplies last night prompted a principals' delegation from Prince Edward's elementary schools to urge the Prince Edward County Council to give consideration to approve an increase in the $10 per pupil allotment.

D. Rainey, president of the group and principal of Pinecrest Memorial School, Bloomfield, noted that many costs have been presented by the introduction of a French programs, a fifty-cent charge for films and a deduction from the schools' 1971 budgets in the form of stock-room inventories at the beginning of the year.

At a recent meeting of the principals' association, members suggested a cushion of $1.50 per pupil to compensate for these new areas of expenditure.

The delegation was informed by business administrator E. A. Shortt that the $10 allotment figure was reached after discussions with the principals concerning instruction supplies' costs.

Referring to the annual inventory which trustees take in each elementary school, Mr. Shortt stated that theoretically any surplus supplies should be returned to the board of education.

But he termed this task "a lot of work for nothing." Instead, if principals wish, the supplies can be purchased and charged against the following year's inventory. He said the schools were not charged in 1970, but money was taken off for the inventory on hand.

"You weren't double-charged for the supplies," stressed Mr. Shortt. The administrator commented that the principals had counted on a $10 pupil allotment in addition to the supplies on hand. "That just isn't the case," he said.

Carl Reid, principal of Queen Elizabeth school, Picton, suggested that the fifty-cent film charge, plus the approximate 90 per cent per pupil charge for a French program would represent "a considerable loss" in his $10 allotment.

Mr. Shortt promptly assured him, "If you retain the inventory it comes off, if you don't, we don't touch your $10."

Director of education for Prince Edward county, John McNeil, suggested that if $.50 per pupil were alloted to those participating in the oral French program, initial expenditures could be met,

Bit of Luck

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — 26 years ago Norman and Virginia Still left the 100th anniversary old house that had been standing in West Des Moines since before 1900. To their disappointment, the house was not for sale. Today the house is theirs — for free. The owner decided to give it away to the Stills when it got in the way of a new development he planned. The Stills are to move the house for a short distance and preserve it much as it was.

J. M. Cousins to Retire

J. M. Cousins, associate superintendent with the Hastings county board of education, will retire at the end of December, 1971, after 46 years of teaching in Hastings county.

A superintendent with the Belleville Public School Board until formation of the county board in 1969, Mr. Cousins began his teaching career here in 1931. He served overseas as a lieutenant - colonel in the Royal Canadian Artillery from 1940 to 1946.

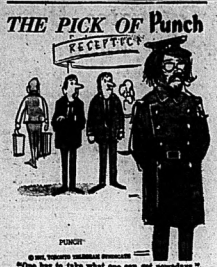
In 1950 he became a principal and in 1959 an inspector.

In accepting Mr. Cousins' resignation, chairman Donald Williams remarked that "nobody can go out to a rural area and get along with all the people the way he can."

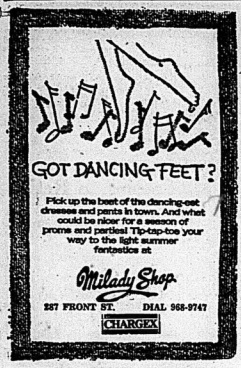
Mr. Williams added that Mr. Cousins had been a great asset to the county board in its first, formative years, and his presence would be sorely missed.

Munro Will Try to Cut Cost of Prescriptions

OTTAWA (CP) — A program designed to reduce the cost of prescription drugs by making doctors more aware of acceptable low-cost substitutes for brand name products was announced Wednesday by Health Minister John Munro.



The $2.36 million program, based on drug testing and inspection of manufacturing facilities, represents extension of a program begun earlier this year at the federal food and drug directorate, which now publishes test results regularly and inspects drug plants once every three years.



Under the expanded inspection program announced in the Commons, the directorate will increase visits to each of Canada's 194 manufacturing plants to once a year by 1973.

The expanded analysis program would concentrate initially on the 80 top-selling drugs that account for 55 per cent of prescription sales.

Selection would be based on sales volume, medical use, precision required in prescribing and the known risk of contaminants showing up in the final product.

In addition to the content analysis program, drugs will be tested for effectiveness.

Farm Labor Contractor Held After Dozen Bodies Are Found

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A farm labor contractor is charged in a mass murder case that has yielded the hacked bodies of 12 men found buried in northern California peach orchards.

A search continued today for more possible victims of the assailant who hacked each of the 12 in the back of the head with a machete or a large, heavy knife.

Juan V. Corona, 37, a migrant labor recruiter for 15 years in Yuba City's peach and prune growing region, was held in isolation.

Corona was taken before a judge Wednesday for a brief, closed hearing on 10 counts of murder. Two bodies were found after those papers were drawn.

But he said he knew of no motive.

"All of the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head," the sheriff said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon.

"It could have been either a machete or a heavy knife."

Corona was arrested shortly at his home after officers had dug nine victims from sandy orchard graves three to five feet deep.

The sheriff and his deputies refused to say what evidence pointed to the husky 5-foot-11 Mexican-American.

A police officer said the victims were "mostly winos—most of them were alcoholic types."

Christ Church ACW Hold 'Blossom Tea'

Large white bowls and redwood baskets filled with flowers formed miniature islands of color amidst the sea of people who attended the Christ Church ACW - sponsored Blossom tea and bazaar held on Wednesday afternoon. Flowers were in abundance everywhere, setting the window sills, table centres and top of the piano ablaze with their brilliant colors which were set off to perfection in artistic arrangements interspersed with ferns and green foliage.

Tulips, gladioli, 'mums and a large variety of flowers of every description were in evidence and towards the centre of the hall, a carved church pew holding a bowl of fragrant flowers, with another beside it was most eyecatching. Huge gold artificial sunflowers were fixed to the dark green curtains while the bazaar section was separated from the tea area by a partition, made of sunflowers tied together with cords.

The centrepiece at the main tea table consisted of an elaborate arrangement of 'mums, gladioli and tulips intermingled with foliage nestling in a boat shaped redwood basket between red and yellow candles in silver holders. Some of the smaller tables were centred with replicas of this arrangement while others were decorated with flowers in novel vases made of dainty high - heeled shoes painted a dazzling gold.

Mrs. L. Lennox was responsible for the floral arrangements. Pouring tea were Mrs. E. Hickey, Mrs. G. Winter, Mrs. W. Kennpston, Mrs. F. Lazier, Mrs. W. Adams and Miss F. Fitzgerald. The tea room convener was Mrs. G. Pringle while Mrs. J. Cousins, Mrs. R. Wallbridge and Mrs. J. Wright served refreshments. Behind the scenes Mrs. H. Pitt was the kitchen convener and Mrs. W. J. Hinchey replenished plates.

The bazaar section featured a novel "parcel post office" with Mrs. C. Bishop in charge. Guests could buy surprise packages at this booth which was set up to resemble a post office wicket.

A delicatessen convened by Mrs. J. Wills sold a variety of tempting dishes including salads, chilli con carne and meat loaf. The conveners of the other booths were Mrs. K. Fargey (gift boutique), Mrs. G. Nix (candy), Mrs. E. Bradshow (home baking), Mrs. H. Wright (sewing), Mrs. J. Hill (aprons) and Mrs. T. W. Day (toys and dolls).

The over-all conveners were Mrs. G. H. Dimest and Mrs. L. Hall. Guests were received at the door by the ACW president Mrs. R. H. Godden and Mrs. R. B. Wright the rector's wife. Mrs. M. Button was in charge of the tickets while Mrs. J. Vesterfelt looked after the accounts.

Any Mail for Us?

Miss Luella Morton tries to coax little Mark and Robbie Fargey to collect a parcel from the "parcel post office" booth at the Blossom Tea and Bazaar sponsored by the Christ Church ACW on Wednesday afternoon. Guests could buy surprise packages at this booth which was convened by Mrs. C. Bishop.

Club Activities

MADOC CALF CLUB

The second meeting of the Madoc Calf Club was held at the Madoc Township Hall earlier this month at 8.00 p.m.

The meeting was opened by the president, Eric Bailey, who began by all saying the 4-H Pledge. After the minutes of the last meeting were read by Elaine Wannamaker, the meeting was turned over to the leaders.

Harold Chambers of Stirling was the guest speaker and he told and demonstrated how to make a rope halter.

The members of the club then took the task to make this halter and with some difficulty, managed to get them made.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the 4-H Calf Club at the farm of Club Leader, David Foley, on June 28 at 7.00 p.m.

Women Entertained at Conference

Even though the weather man has not been too co - operative, the women attending the Ontario Traffic Conference as guests are enjoying an excellent program under the chairmanship of Alderman Jean Smith assisted by Alderman Robin Jeffrey and Mrs. Donald Soutter.

On the agenda for today's program is a visit to the Ontario School for the Deaf followed by an apple blossom tour of Prince Edward County with a noon hour luncheon at the Kitley Club in Trenton. Previous to their return to the Four Season Motel in preparation for the civic banquet and ball scheduled, the group was taken on a bus tour along the Trent Canal.

The women in attendance have also enjoyed a "Get - Acquainted" wine and cheese party held on the opening night of the conference with a full schedule of activities on Wednesday including a tour of Brooke Bond Foods Ltd. with luncheon at the Belleville Yacht Club. The women were given a choice of activities in the afternoon including golfing at the Bay of Quinte Golf Club, a boat ride on the Bay of Quinte or attending an auction sale at the Dick Ellis Rink.

Wednesday evening's program was most interesting with a tour of the Canadian Forces Base at Trenton with a buffet meal hosted by Warden Kenneth Smith and members of the Hastings County Council.

Friday's schedule of activities will be limited to enable the visitors a time for shopping in the downtown area of the city with a farewell luncheon at the Four Seasons Hotel before departure at 3 p.m.

Hostesses Appalled By Bad Manners

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago you printed a letter about a woman who had a habit that annoyed many hostesses. Mrs. Clodville considered herself an authority on fine silver and china. Whenever she attended a tea, a lunch or a dinner, she examined everything as if she were appraising it for sale.

This reminded me of a priceless story which is true. My mother, tells it about her late sister-in-law. It was not uncommon for Aunt Elizabeth, while visiting for the first time in the home of a new acquaintance, to take a magnifying glass from her purse and hint for a hallmark on a piece of silver. Needless to say the hostesses were appalled by her bad manners.

One day my mother and a friend decided to teach Aunt Elizabeth a lesson. They took her to a tea in the home of a Radcliffe classmate who had moved from Boston to Virginia. They told Auntie about the woman's lovely heirloom possessions. They also tipped off the hostess.

When tea time came, my mother saw to it that my aunt "The Appraiser," was the first one at the tea table. As everyone expected, she furtively turned the plate over to see the marking. In large block letters she read the messag which had been pasted on: "He Knew You'd Look."

Aunt Elizabeth was so mortified she never looked again after that. — WESTON, MASS.

* * *

DEAR WES: A painful cure, but she had it coming. Thanks for a delightful story.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I have the last word on snoring? For years my husband snored intermittently — when he had a cold, too much to drink or was extremely tired. It happened eight or ten times a year. I'd toss and turn, give him a kick in the leg or an elbow in the side. Then I'd drag my pillow and blanket in the living room and spend the night on the couch. The next morning I complained bitterly.

Now I snore. In fact I snore so badly at times that I wake myself up. My husband has never said one word about it. I know he must hear me. He isn't deaf. His patience and understanding has made me truly ashamed.

Now his snoring no longer bothers me. It's all a matter of adjusting one's thinking — and since I've become a snorer, my thinking has adjusted considerably. — JOINED THE RANKS.

* * *

DEAR JOINED: Who would have imagined that snoring could make closer bedfellows? Thanks for writing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married my husband seven years ago he was converted to my religion. By his own admission it was no great sacrifice since he had no feeling about religion one way or another.

I have been trying to get pregnant for five years. Six months ago my husband and I decided to adopt. We were interviewed by two agencies connected with our church. When the social worker asked about our religious convictions my husband said he was an athiest — that real religion was a crutch for weaklings. I was embarrassed to death but there was no stopping him. We did not get a baby.

We are being interview next month by another agency. I'm afraid if my husband continues to talk along these lines we will lose out again. Any suggestions? — EMPTY NURSERY.

* * *

DEAR E.N.: Not all adoption agencies are church affiliated. Your best bet is to try one of those.

Dream Moments Help to Siphon Off Emotions

By DORIS CLARK

Dreams are important, we are being told. Psychologists go so far as to say that our dream moments help us to siphon off emotions and frustrations which pile up during the day.

Students of psychical phenomena consider them important too, and I now have a page entitled "The Art of Dream-Catching". This supplies an idea or two for remembering and recording things which might seem significant in your dreams. Sometimes, they say, a dream foretells an event to come and may even mention quite important people and occasions.

This page, which is supplied by the Toronto Society for Psychical Research, also lists some suggested reading on the subject of dreams and prophecies. Want a copy? Write in for "The Art of Dream - Catching" enclosing 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

* * *

Dear Doris: My father who is 83 and alone, lives 2,000 miles away. He has spent the winters with me since my mother's death until this year. The reason is my husband who, although there were never any words between them, made him feel very uncomfortable by ignoring him. Wouldn't even sit at the table with us. My father had a bedsitting room and my husband even took out the easy chair and replaced it with a camp chair.

My husband's parents visited us often! They never paid a cent, but my parents always paid board.

The time has come when I must decide to spend time with my father, against my husband's will, or leave him to his last years alone. I am devoted to my father and also feel duty bound. There are no children at home. — At My Wit's End

Dear Wit's End: The wonder is that you have taken so long to rebel. In human decency a person makes a boarder comfortable in his own room. Your husband must have been frightfully jealous or even a bit sadistic.

Whatever the true facts, I'd suggest frequent visits — as frequent as you can make them, without neglecting your home. Your husband's objections to ordinary kindness are simply not valid. Some day he will be old himself and wanting his children's attention. What then?

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Almond, Cherry Cake Popular

By MARY MOORE

A Tuck Cake is a cake that you tuck in your son's tuck bag when he leaves to return to boarding school after the holidays.

The recipe came to me from Annie Gray of Gray Port Passenger Services in Southampton, England. Her mother, Mrs. Ruers, told me of its original use.

This cake is called Almond and Cherry Cake and when I tasted it at a reception for Annie Gray at her sister's home when she was here on a visit, I eagerly asked for the recipe. After Annie's return to England she mailed it to us.

When I made the cake it was so popular I had to hide it at the back of the bottom shelf in the refrigerator to find out how well it kept. It keeps very well and will be useful to you to slice from for your afternoon tea or snack time. It is a rare beauty.

ALMOND and CHERRY CAKE (Tuck Cake — keeps well)

1 cup (½ lb.) butter
2 cups (½lb.) icing sugar
3 eggs
2 cs. (1 cup not packed) almonds ground to a powder (1 buzzed mine in blender — see note)
2 cups (½ lb.) stirred but unsifted cake and pastry flour
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. pure almond extract

½ to 2-3 cup quartered, drained maraschino or glace cherries

Into beater bowl measure butter and sugar and beat until pale and light — about 10 min. Beat in eggs with almonds. (NOTE: If desired you may use half and half ground almonds and walnuts.) Add flour, baking powder and almond extract and beat in until batter is smooth. Remove beaters and stir in quartered cherries. Batter is stiff and tastes wonderful.

If possible use a round high tin. (If not use a loaf pan.) I used the medium-size round tin belonging to my three-tiered wedding cake pan set. Line bottom with wax paper and butter it and sides. Turn in batter smoothing top. Put waterpan in oven below cake. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. 3 hrs. replenishing hot water in pan below as needed. Cool on cake rack. Slip into triple plastic bags when cool and store in refrigerator for slicing from as needed.

A highly recommended company cake.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Ted, for goodness sake get up. I called you a half hour ago. You'll be late for school again."

Ted: "I didn't hear you call me."

Mother: "You are old enough to get yourself up in the morning and I can't keep nagging you about it. Set your alarm, as I am not going to call you after this."

Let youngsters take responsibility for their own schedules as much as possible. Even a sound sleeper will rouse when he hears the alarm, once he realizes no one will bother to call him.

Family Honors Couple On 25th Anniversary

About 200 friends, relatives and neighbors gathered at Club Cedars, Cannifton, recently, to mark the occasion of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Jarrell. All of the couple's five children joined with them in the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarrell arrived at the Club Cedars totally unaware of the event planned. Amid a shower of confetti they were greeted by the family who presented their mother with a corsage and their father with a boutonniere.

Dancing to the music of the Drifters Orchestra was enjoyed and at midnight a buffet luncheon was served. Members of the family were seated at the head table which was appropriately decorated with pink and white streamers and centred with a three-tier anniversary cake flanked with candles.

Mr. Ed. Jarrell was in attendance of the bridegroom and Mrs. Ed. McDermott for the bride. An address was read by Ron Putman and the couple received many lovely gifts.

Following the celebration the guests returned to the couple's home to conclude the evening with a social get-together.

Peterborough Housewife Has Garbage Game Beat

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — One Peterborough housewife has the garbage game beat.

On garbage day, when her neighbors line the road with bulging green plastic bags, Astrid Nordholt puts two grocery-size brown paper bags of waste into her garbage pail.

"It's impractical to have a lot of garbage," says the 31-year-old mother of four children, aged 10 months to seven years.

"I've never deliberately cut down on our garbage. I just seemed to find more efficient ways to dispose of things."

Mrs. Nordholt saves all her glass jars for home-made jams and pickles, and every tin can is flattened or filled with wet garbage. Her family shops at a co-operative food store which has attempted to cut down on excess packaging.

"I take all my egg cartons back to the store to be re-used," she says. "I buy pop in returnable bottles and I pack my groceries in cardboard boxes which are also returned to the store."

A compost heap takes care of organic food wastes such as orange peels, vegetable scraps, egg shells, coffee grounds, and tea bags. The family dog, a golden retriever named Baron, eats bones and table scraps.

Even the children help to squash paper boxes and cartons. They use styrofoam containers to make puppets, and old newspapers for papier mache.

His wife uses few "convenience foods" and throws bones and lettuce heads into home-made soups. Flour and potato bags are used to hold other garbage, and plastic containers become containers for children's toys or starting pots for flowers.

Plastic bags are used and reused, and the family recently stopped using the green plastic garbage bags because they are not bio-degradable. A roll of paper towels lasts a month and aerosol containers are taboo.

"I guess we just don't like garbage," says Mrs. Nordholt.

Clean-up Carnival Held

TWEED — A clean-up carnival sponsored by the Tweed Horticultural Society was held last week in Tweed. The centre of the greatest activity was on the lawn of the president, Mrs. Larry Wilson South Victoria Street where a number of wooden barrels were being cut in half. They were also burned out and painted prior to their being set along the main street for use as planters.

Mrs. Wilson expressed pleasure at the way in which many Tweed residents have been cleaning up and planting their lawns and gardens. She feels that the formation of the Horticultural Society will provide the needed impetus to make Tweed an even more attractive little village.

Membership in the Society is open to all and the fee is $1.00 per year, per person.

Next meeting will be held June 8 at the library of the S. H. Connor School. At this meeting two films will be shown, one dealing with spring flowers and the second with home landscaping.

Captain Tells of Frantic Efforts to Save Crew Members

VANCOUVER (CP) — Choking back sobs, Captain Alf Morner told Wednesday how he and his men crawled "like animals" through smoke-filled corridors in an attempt to save trapped crew members when the Norwegian cruise ship Meteor was hit by fire last Saturday.

The fire alarm didn't work.

Thirty-two crew members died but 67 passengers and 59 other members of the crew escaped when the blaze broke out in the crew quarters as the ship steamed through the Strait of Georgia 60 miles from Vancouver.

Captain Morner said he led a small party of men into the fire area in the forward section of the 2,856-ton ship after ordering the Meteor's whistle "blown a large number of times" in place of the defective alarm.

He said he shook some bodies and was shocked to learn they were dead because they had not been burned.

"When I saw them, it looked to me like they were sleeping," he testified at the opening of an inquest into the deaths.

There was no evidence given Wednesday as to the cause of the fire, which broke out in the three or four places. Police have not ruled out the possibility of arson.

Tracing his movements on a chalk diagram of the ship's deck plan, Captain Morner said he could see flames through two doors near the bow width lead down through three decks of crew quarters.

He said he knew a man was trapped in a watch station at the top of the stairs but there was nothing he could do.

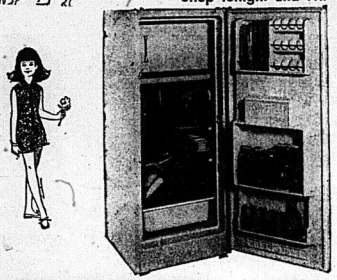
He and his men then began crawling in the smoke-filled port side corridor of the upper crew deck and dragged about eight crew members from their cabins.

The captain said the seemingly unconscious victims were "just lying on the deck."

The jury, which travelled to the drydocked ship and donned overalls and boots to examine the charred interior of the Meteor, heard coroner Glen McDonald read into the record a pathologist's report on the cause of death of 10 of the victims.

Four died from asphyxiation and six from carbon monoxide poisoning. One had a blood alcohol reading of 0.21.

Earlier, the Meteor's doctor, Dr. John Crawford, was questioned about possible jealousies among crew members who slept together.



Asked if any of the crew had been living common-law, Crawford said he wouldn't describe any of the relationships between the crew members as common-law living.

McDonald shot back: "Well, what about indulging in each other's bunk?"

Dr. Crawford acknowledged that such relationships did exist among the crew, but under further questioning, he denied that this led to any "violent jealousies."

Imlach Sends Daley Packing Just Before Trading Deadline

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Sabres and New York Rangers beat the National Hockey League's trading deadline with three last-minute deals which they announced Wednesday.

Buffalo sent goalie Joe Daley to Detroit Red Wings for Mike Robitaille and forward Don Luce while New York dealt Bob Nevin to Minnesota North Stars and minor league goalie Pete McDuffe to St. Louis Blues.

The trading deadline was midnight Tuesday night and all NHL rosters now are frozen until the annual draft meetings in Montreal next month.

The North Stars will send New York a player to be named after the intra-league draft and the Blues will pay for McDuffe by giving up their first-round choice in the amateur portion of the draft.

Punch Imlach, Buffalo general manager-coach, said Wednesday he hated to see Daley go, but "it's a tribute to his improvement that he was able to command two players in return, after being waived just the year before."

In Robitaille, 23, Imlach got the defenceman he had been seeking since the start of last season, when Robitaille was a rookie with the Rangers. He played only 11 games with New York before being traded to Detroit, where he saw action in 34 games. He scored five goals and nine assists.

Luce, 22, also started last season with New York. At Detroit, he played in 39 games, mostly in penalty-killing roles.

Daley, 28, saw action in 38 Sabres' games last season and posted a 2.70 goals-against average. He came to Buffalo from Pittsburgh Penguins.

McDuffe, 26, turned in a goals-against average of 2.77 in 34 games for New York's powerful Omaha team in the Central League.

Nevin, a 33-year-old right winger, led the Rangers in the record Stanley Cup playoffs with five goals and three assists. His 21 goals and 25 assists in the regular season gave him a 12-year record of 227 goals and 360 assists with Toronto Maple Leafs and New York.

Only Biggies Banned

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Sensing the futility of keeping amateur hockey down on the farm, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association voted Wednesday to re-enter international competition in all divisions except those involving world or Olympic play.

"We now feel our policy was a negative one, and it was time to review the stand and begin bargaining," CAHA president Earl Dawson said after the association had given unanimous approval to the motion at its annual meeting.

Canada pulled out of international hockey competition in January, 1970, when the International Ice Hockey Federation reversed its decision to allow Canada use of professional players in world championship play. The CAHA decided then there would be no exchange of teams between Europe and Canada until the Canadian team was allowed to use professionals.

Dawson said the association's stand was not a negative policy at first, but had become that way "because we had made our point."

"Now we have to be sure we're not hurting our friends overseas and we have to start bargaining with some of the European countries for their support when it comes time next year to again discuss Canada's proposals to use any Canadian players in world competition."

Olympic Stand Regretted

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said Wednesday the COA regrets a decision by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that bars Canadian entry to the 1972 Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan.

Shaughnessy was commenting on a statement made Tuesday at Thunder Bay by CAHA president Earl Dawson of Riverside, Man. Dawson said no Canadian team will take part in the Olympics until the CAHA patches up its differences with the International Ice Hockey Federation over the proposed use of nine professionals in world competition by Canada.

Wood Finds Starting Key

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilbur Wood is off relief and Bert Blyleven is back on strike.

The two pitchers are throwing a lot of American League hitters out of work.

Wood delivered again in his new starting role as Chicago White Sox clouted Kansas City Royals 7-2 Wednesday night.

Blyleven staggered Milwaukee Brewers with a 12-strikeout performance in a 4-1 Minnesota Twins success.

It was Wood's third victory as a starter and second straight complete game in a career of 375 appearances. In none had he gone the distance until the last two.

California Angels beat Oakland Athletics 7-5 in 12 innings, New York Yankees trimmed Detroit Tigers 2-1, Baltimore Orioles clipped Cleveland Indians 3-2 and Boston Red Sox turned back Washington Senators by a similar 3-2 score in other league action.

Wood surrendered only six hits, including Dennis Paepke's two-run homer in the Kansas City seventh. But by that time the White Sox had broken up a scoreless duel between Wood and Kansas City's Mike Hedlund with a six-run sixth.

Blyleven encountered little trouble, giving up one fourth-inning run as Minnesota capitalized on Milwaukee mistakes. A Brewers' error helped the Twins break a 1-1 tie in the fifth and another miscue helped them score two more times in the sixth.

Blyleven wasn't satisfied with his performance.

Pinch-hitter Jim Fregosi blasted a two-run homer in the 12th inning to carry California over Oakland.

Roy White's two-out, two-run double off Mike Kilkenny of Bradford, Ont., in the eighth inning helped New York snap Detroit's seven-game winning streak. Mel Stottlemyre earned his fifth victory with a six-hitter.

While's hit followed a dispute between third base umpire Ron Luciano and Tiger manager Bill Martin when Martin tried to go to the pitcher's mound. Luciano ruled that since Martin had already gone to the mound once while White was batting, he couldn't go again to take Kilkenny out until the next batter came up.

Ellie Hendricks stroked three singles to drive in two runs and figured in all of Baltimore's scoring as the Orioles topped Cleveland behind Mike Cuellar. Cuellar allowed eight hits as he pitched his fourth straight complete game and notched his sixth victory.

Reserve catcher Bob Montgomery's third straight single drove in Billy Conigliaro with the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning for Boston.

Stoneman Likes Cool, Turns Heat on Braves

MONTREAL (CP) — Bill Stoneman has often said that he prefers to pitch in cool weather because it helps him to save energy.

What the Montreal Expos' right-hander failed to mention is that sometimes he can store up too much energy and he has to work it off while batting.

Atlanta Braves found that both things were true Wednesday night as Stoneman held them to two hits while striking two hits of his own to spark a pair of Montreal rallies en route to an 11-1 humiliation of the West Division club.

"I like to pitch in cool weather because you waste less energy out there on the mound and you don't tire as quickly," he said after silencing the Braves' bats with a 14-strike out performance for his sixth win in eight decisions.

Stoneman started things off against loser Pat Jarvis, 0-7, with a one-out single in the six-run third inning. He moved to second when Ron Hunt was hit by a pitch and scored the game's first run on Rusty Staub's double down the right-field line.

Bob Bailey followed with a ground-rule double which bounced over the fence in right centre and Montreal led 3-0. Ron Fairly was intentionally walked but Jim Gosger crossed up Atlanta's strategy with the inning's third double, scoring Bailey with the fourth Expos' run.

Reliever Steve Barber came on to face pinch-hitter Clyde Mashore who was intentionally passed to load the bases.

Expos boosted that to 7-0 in the fourth when Hunt led off with a single, moved to second when Staub was hit by a pitch and scored when Felix Millan threw a potential double-play relay past Orlando Cepeda for an error.

Stoneman began the Expos fourth-eighth inning in much the same way as the third with a one-out single.

Hunt was again hit by a pitch, this time by Ron Herbel, before Staub walked to load the bases. Bailey then drove in his third and fourth runs of the game with a single before Herbel uncorked two consecutive wild pitches, the second allowing Staub to score from third. Bailey scored from third with second-inning single and a seventh-inning homer over the right-field fence.

"He caught an inside fastball and got it up into the wind," Stoneman said of the hit which cost him a shut-out.

"I've got to give him credit, it's hard to get an inside fast ball up like that."

Stoneman almost did not make the start as the contest was continually threatened by rain.

At game time, a fine mist was falling and temperatures were in the low 50s with 15-18 mile-an-hour winds but the situation cleared up as the game wore on.

Some 6,363 Jarry Park fans and a national television audience watched as Stoneman pitched his second straight complete game win.

Manager Gene Mauch said after Wednesday's game that Stoneman has pitched "six complete games this year, almost as many as he pitched all of last season."

"He is now pitching consistently like he used to pitch sporadically."

Boyer Sounds Off Against Team Curfew

MONTREAL (CP) — Third baseman Clete Boyer, here with Atlanta Braves for a four-game stand against Montreal Expos, acknowledges that there's been "a big blast" in Atlanta about his condemnation of Braves general manager Paul Richards.

Boyer apparently was at war with Paul Richards, general manager of the Braves, over an interview the player gave to a New York newspaper.

In the interview Boyer was quoted as saying "there shouldn't be any place for a guy like Richards in baseball."

"For such a lousy player Boyer does a lot of talking. I'll give him his release today, if he'll write out a cheque for 60 days' pay."

Outlar said he telephoned Boyer and the player and told him he had not been misquoted in the New York dispatch and that Richards had been in touch with him by telephone. He has been sidelined against the Expos by a sore knee.

"Yes the general manager called me," Boyer said. "But I don't see how they can fine me or anything—this is a free country."

Boyer rapped the Braves' management because of a midnight curfew imposed during the team's current trip.

"Personally, I've been in on time every night," Boyer said. "If they don't see you checking in down in the lobby, they call your room.

"But that doesn't mean I have to like it. Just because San Francisco (Giants) got off to a good start, they push the panic button."

Atlanta currently is locked in a two-way tie for third place in the National League's West Division, 10 games behind the Giants.

Variety Seen in 14 New Hall-of-Famers

TORONTO (CP) — A world champion bowler and a veteran golfer still active were among a record 14 persons named today to Canada's Sports Hall of Fame.

In announcing the newcomers to the Hall in a release by W. Harold Rea, chairman of the Hall of Fame's board of governors, the selection committee noted that the unusually large number stems from a backlog of nominations "and the outstanding talents and contributions made to this country by those in the nomination lists."

The 14 named this year are the largest group elected in any one year since the Hall's inception in 1955.

Graydon (Blondie) Robinson of Toronto earned automatic recognition for capturing the world 10-pin bowling championship at Tokyo in 1969. This is the last year a world championship or qualifiers as automatic entry into the Sports Hall of Fame.

Nick Weslock, Windsor, Ont.-born golfer, is still at 54 one of the world's outstanding amateurs and a perennial contender for amateur golf laurels in Canada.

Included in the list were three in the builders category who contributed to the growth of sports, both amateur and professional: Tommy Ryan of Toronto, founder of five-pin bowling; Charles Mayer of Montreal who was active in many sports programs as writer, broadcaster and administrator, and Bill Simpson of Toronto as soccer administrator and player.

Speedskater Fred Robson, Toronto;

Swimmers Phyllis Dewar Lowery, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Elaine Tanner, Vancouver;

Harry Jerome, Vancouver, Bill Crothers, Toronto and Eric Coy, Winnipeg, all for their contributions to track and field.

Chenier, Bain, Robson and Mrs. Lowery are dead.

Robinson was 41 when he turned in his championship performance against bowlers from 34 countries, becoming the oldest competitor ever to win the world title.

The two-time Canadian champion staged a dramatic final with Ut Lenavat of Thailand, finishing with four straight strikes to defeat the Thai by six pins.

Weslock, who now makes his home in Burlington, Ont., has been a member of Ontario's Willingdon Cup golf team 21 times, including 11 straight years from 1957 through 1967.

He has been Canadian amateur champion a record four times, Ontario champ eight times, Ontario senior champion three times, Ontario Open champion seven times, a member of Canada's international America's Cup team six times, on the Canadian World Cup team three times and a long-time member of Canada's Commonwealth team four times.

Ryan, acknowledged founder of five-pin bowling, was too busy in 1908 to patent the idea. He settled for watching it grow into a recreational pastime enjoyed by millions.

A promising baseball player in his youth, born in Guelph, Ont., he opened a 16-pin bowling alley above an exclusive Toronto jewelry store in 1905 that was frequented by several prominent businessmen.

Because of the time involved and the energy spent in wielding a 16-pound ball, Ryan reasoned that fewer pins would speed up the game and a lighter ball would lessen the fatigue. Following up his ideas and ironing out the subsequent flaws, Ryan developed the game of five-pin bowling.

Ryan, who died in 1960, was also a keen supporter of amateur sport and was a director of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union for many years.

BILL CROTHERS

ELAINE TANNER

Scottish-born Simpson played and coached soccer in the Toronto area and was president of the Toronto and District league for 16 years before resigning in 1965.

He served as secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Soccer Association for 17 years, was president of the Canadian Football Soccer Association for four years, and served as Canada's representative to the Federation of International Football Associations.

Chenier, born in 1907, learned his trade while employed as a bellhop in Detroit then applied his prowess on a world-wide basis while living variously in Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria.

Considered one of the five top pocket billiard players in the world, Chenier held the North American snooker title from 1938 until his death just before Christmas, 1970.

Though born in Belleville, Ont., in 1894, Bain moved with his family to Winnipeg six years later and began to make his mark at 13 by winning the province's three-mile roller skating championship.

He successively won the all-round gymnastics title in Manitoba, figure-skating championships in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Canadian trapshooting championship and was outstanding in lacrosse, snowshoeing, golf and hockey.

As a hockey player, he played on two Stanley Cup Championship teams with Winnipeg Victorias (1896 and 1901) without relinquishing his amateur status.

Robson held nine world speedskating records, a Canadian speedskating mark and was the Canadian barrel-jumping record holder. His running high jump on skates of four feet, two inches was just one inch below the world's best.

He dominated the speedskating world for more than a decade but probably enjoyed his greatest fame from 1913 through 1916.

Mrs. Lowery was 18 in August, 1934, when she set four British Empire Games swim marks at London, England, including individual freestyle records at 100 and 440 yards. Her team marks were in the medley relay and relay.

As Phyllis Dewar, she was named Canada's outstanding female athlete in 1934 and at that time held almost every Canadian freestyle record for women from 100 yards to one mile.

Miss Tanner earned the name Mighty Mouse for her accomplishments in the water and in 1966, at 15, was named Canada's outstanding athlete, pro or amateur, with good reason.

During that year's Commonwealth Games in Jamaica, she collected seven medals—four gold and three silver in both individual and team events. In her brief but meteoric career, Miss Tanner held several world records in assorted expressions —butterfly, freestyle and backstroke.

But the one that eluded her was a gold in the Olympics although she was runner-up at Mexico City in 1968 in both the 100-metre and 200 metre backstroke events.

He won a gold in the discus, and a second-place silver in the shot at the 1938 British Empire Games and was record holder or Canadian champion in all three events at various stages of his career.

HARRY JEROME

Jerome and Crothers are of a more recent era, Jerome as a sprinter and Crothers in middle-distance running.

Jerome became the first native Canadian to officially hold a world track record when, at 19, he ran the 100 metres at 10 seconds to become co-holder of the mark with German's Armin Hary. He also shared the world mark at 100 yards and in the 440-yard relay.

He ran for Canada in three Olympics—1960, 1964 and 1968—and in all Pan-American Games from 1959 through 1968.

Patterson Bides Time

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson won a unanimous decision Wednesday night over Terry Daniels of Dallas, Tex., in a 10-round boxing match at the Cleveland Arena.

It was Patterson's fourth victory in as many bouts since coming out of a two-year retirement last October in a bid to win the world heavyweight title for a third time.

Patterson, 36, dominated the punching, waiting for Daniels, 26, to leave himself open for devastating rights and lefts to the head.

Daniels appeared weary as the fight progressed through the full 10 rounds. Patterson opened a cut over his right eye with repeated left jabs in the fifth round, then worked on that area for the next three rounds with hooks and upercuts staggering Daniels repeatedly.

In the ninth Patterson unleashed a right hook that knocked Daniels down for a count of nine. Patterson tried for a knockout finish but Daniels hung on and weathered the storm.

FLOYD PATTERSON

NFL Adopts 'Clean Hands' Rule for Fumbles

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners adopted Wednesday a "clean hands" rule involving penalties called during a play in which possession of the ball changes from one team to another.

Under the old rule, if a team intercepted a pass or recovered a fumble and offsetting fouls were committed on the same play after the interception or fumble, the play was nullified.

The owners felt the rule penalized a club which made an interception or fumble with "clean hands" up to the time they actually gained possession of the ball. Under the new interpretation they will retain possession even if penalties are incurred after the ball changes hands.

In an afternoon session the owners decided on two other rules changes.

One will permit attempted field goals to be out of the end zone. In the old, offensive fouls such as holding, clipping and illegal use of the hands, each 15 yards will be marked off from the line of scrimmage rather than from the point of the foul.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mushmand Ali said on local television Wednesday that his next fight will be against Jimmy Ellis. Ali, here to speak at the University of Minnesota, did not say when or where the fight would be but did say a formal announcement would be made tonight. Ali was scheduled to drive to Chicago this morning.

CHICAGO (AP) — Offensive tackle Tom Beynon has decided to retire, the Ottawa Rough Riders announced Wednesday. Beynon, 27, a native of Waterloo, Ont., came to Riders in a trade with Saskatchewan Roughriders in 1968.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — The favored United States, stunned by loss of all four of the morning foursome matches, stormed back in the afternoon Wednesday to take a 6½-to-5½-point lead over the British in the Walker Cup golf competition.

The U.S. team defied driving rain and cold wind over St. Andrews' fabled Old Course in recording victories in six of the eight singles matches, losing one and drawing one.

The sharp reversal of fortunes made the U.S. team a strong choice to retain the cup when the four foursomes and eight singles are played today.

Americans have won 21 times since the international amateur series was started in 1921. They last only once, in 1938, and tied once, in 1965 in Baltimore.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester Lancers, North American Soccer League champions, played Scotland's touring Hearts of Edinburgh to a scoreless tie Wednesday night.

It was the Scots' second tie against an NASL team and left their record at five victories, two ties and one defeat for their current North American tour.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats have signed five newcomers to 1971 contracts, the Canadian Football League club said Wednesday.

Among the five were Scott Henderson, 22, a linebacker with University of Texas Longhorns last season, and Garry Grady, a defensive halfback who signed with Miami Dolphins of the National Football League in 1969 as a free agent. The others were Tom Krawcyzk, released from the team in 1969 after playing on specialty lines, Peter Bender, a flanker-defensive back from McGill University at Montreal, and Bill Pasel, a fullback-linebacker who played with Burlington Braves of the Ontario Junior Football Conference.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bobby Fischer of the United States defeated Mark Taimanov of the Soviet Union on the 31st move of an adjourned game Wednesday to take a 4-0 lead in their world chess championship quarter-final elimination match.

First player to score 5½ points in the match advances to the semi-finals of the challengers' round.

The Quinte Exhibition and Raceway — for all intents and purposes the Belleville fair board — hope that at least some of their racing plans go to the dogs.

That does not go for the group's weekly Saturday night harness racing card, which has just been cancelled for the third time. A shortage of qualified horses has forced the postponement of the season's opening Belleville meet to June 5. Originally set for May 8, the Belleville card was put back to May 22 to allow the fair board to meet a $30,000 track improvement ultimatum of the provincial agriculture and federal justice departments.

A shortage of entries forced another date change to this weekend, but the prospects of a 32-horse field Saturday changed plans again.

The dogs? Well, the fair board has got in on the ground floor of what they hope will become a regular feature of their fixture calendar.

For $800, the board has made this city one of four Ontario communities that this summer will be sites of "coursing" exhibitions, better known as greyhound racing.

"We heard about it last fall and put in our bid," says fair board general manager Ev. Gowsell. "They're going to be coming in August 17th and 18th — that's the Tuesday and Wednesday of fair week."

Mastermind of the program is Mike Dix, a Scarborough type who organized the Canadian Coursing Group last December to promote dog racing in Canada. Working with the Canadian Association of Exhibitions, Dix is arranging for a series of races at fairs around Ontario this summer.

In addition to Belleville, fair boards in London, Welland, and Kitchener have expressed interest in staging the "demonstrations."

No Bets Allowed

The emphasis is on "demonstrations," since betting in Canada is only permitted on horse racing. In Florida, as in Ireland and England, pari-mutuel betting is allowed on dog races, owners stand to win large purses, and the sport flourishes.

The CCG will bring about 15 greyhounds to Belleville, and in addition to afternoon and evening races the public will get a chance to mingle with the dogs and their owners and handlers. "If the crowd reaction is good, they feel they can petition the government for a change in the criminal code to permit betting," says the fair board's Ev. Gowsell.

"If it catches on, we'd like to make it a regular feature here — just as regular as harness racing has been. There are about eight centres bidding for races. There won't be more than ten because there wouldn't be enough dogs to go around."

For those who have only seen dogs chasing cars, the incentive for entrants in the Fido Stakes is a radio-controlled mechanical rabbit. The dogs will use about half the Fairgrounds half-mile oval in their dash after the artificial hare. "If a circuit is established for next year, they bring their own lay-down track that goes right inside ours," informs Gowsell.

But the prerequisite for pushing hound-racing past the experimental stage is still the required amendment to change the Criminal Code's horse-only wagering stipulation. As Dix says, "Without the betting, you just wouldn't get the public to come out and watch."

One of the most frequently asked questions by local track and field followers this season has been, "What makes John Sheppard run ..... and run. . . and run . . . and run?"

The "work" that is often used to describe his long distance exploits is "amazing". But is it really?

Amazing that a 14 - year - old runner could place 11th in grueling Ken Colling Memorial run against the top long distance runners in the area? Amazing that a King George Public School student - who isn't technically eligible to compete could easily outdistance the record - setting midget 3000 metres winner at the Bay of Quinte high school meet? And is it amazing that someone who had run competitively for only about five months could walk away with the 1970 juvenile provincial cross country championship?

Actually there's a pretty simple formula for Sheppard's considerable accomplishments — it consists of one part inspiration and nine parts perspiration.

The inspiration is both long and short term. "I'd like to run in the Olympics someday," he says of his long range plans. "Everybody says 'you'll never be able to do it,' but if I keep working then maybe I'll be able to."

He has his immediate sights set on someday out - legging Prince Edward Collegiate runner Paul Cory, a three time Ken Colling winner, and perhaps the premier distance runner ever to come out of this area.

"He knows that I'm good and I know that he's good, but someday I'd like to beat him," says the slender grade eight student. "I was talking to Paul at one of the meets and he said that he wished that he'd started running as early as I have. I hope that I can keep it up."

So much for the inspiration, his "amazing" success has been the result of little but hard work.

John currently trains twice a day, getting out of bed before seven each morning in order to work out on the Quinte Secondary School track for an hour before his classes start at nearby King George.

He says that his evening workouts "are a bit longer. I work from about six o'clock to 8:30 each night, starting out with a couple of 220's then a couple 440's, two 880's and then maybe a couple of miles."

During the winter months he ran indoors at the Belleville Police station track "just to keep the feel of things" and then moved outside in February to resume serious training, running from 3-5 miles a day.

The 5'7" 122 pounder manages to stick to the rigid schedule despite the absence of a regular track coach, although he did receive supervision last summer as a member of the Belleville Kinsmen Track Club and has received encouragement from Quinte cross-country coach Mike Hall.

"So far as desire is concerned he has to rate number one among all the runners that I've coached," notes Hall. "Concerning his future development, I think that it depends on how much he is able to mature physically and competitively."

John's unofficial clocking of 9:44.8 at the Bay of Quinte COSSA track meet last week was over 32 seconds faster than the previous midget 3000 metre mark and he held a close to 200-yard lead over Centennial standout Ron Brown, who also broke the previous record.

John hopes to be allowed to run as an unofficial competitor at the COSSA championships to be held in Peterborough Saturday and is currently pointing his training toward the Hastings County Public School meet in June.

Distance Demon

King George Public School student John Sheppard laces up his track shoes for one of the two daily workouts that he holds on the Quinte Secondary School track. Among his accomplishments this season have been an 11th place finish in the Ken Colling Memorial run, a fifth in the Quinte Secondary School harrier and an unofficial record-setting performance in the Bay of Quinte 3,000 metres last week.

Frost Nips Falcons

The Batawa soccer field may have been all wet last night, but the visiting Belleville Parsons squad certainly wasn't as they trounced the Bata Braves 7-0.

First year coach Bob Watson, who performed with the Belleville Eagles last season, appeared to have his young team in top form as they banged in five unanswered goals in the first half.

Graham Egerton led the way with a pair of counters while single markers by Tony Goncalves, Charlie Nesterovski and John O'Neill accounted for the early lead.

Parsons, last year's Bay of Quinte champions, are now looking toward their meeting with arch - rival Belleville United next Wednesday.

In the other game contested last night the Belleville Falcons were "knockbiter" as United forward Ken Frost counted a hat trick to help pace his teammates to a 4-2 win.

Frost drove in a high 25-footer and converted an errant Falcon drop pass to give United a 2-0 edge at half time.

The junior team stormed back in the second period, however with Kevin Parry outracing the United defenders to cut the lead to 2-1.

Action see-sawed throughout the contest in a hard tackling but cleanly-played game that was kept well in hand by referee John Cowie's exceptional work.

Frost converted a pass from Dave Hadley for his hat trick and Hadley sandwiched the fourth goal around another Falcon counter to give United the victory.

Canonero Latest Rags-to-Riches Horse

NEW YORK (AP) — The story of Canonero II, unwanted as a yearling and sloughed off for a mere $1,200 to a dealer, is just the latest rags-to-riches saga that makes thoroughbred horse racing so glamorous.

Perhaps the most spectacular bargain was Carry Back, who fired the imagination of racing fans as the "people's horse" a decade ago as Canonero II has done this year.

Carry Back, who cost Jack Price an estimated $700, ended his racing career with earnings of $1,241,165—fifth place on the all-time money-winning list.

Carry Back, just as Canonero II did this year, scored spectacular victories in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. Canonero II, the Venezuelan invader, has his chance of sweeping the 1971 Triple Crown by winning the Belmont June 5.

Carry Back, however, missed the 1961 Triple Crown when he injured a hoof and finished out of the money in the Belmont to Sherluck, the surprise $132 winner.

Carry Back usually came from far back to win with breathtaking stretch runs, but like Canonero II, he showed he could go right to the front and beat speed horses at their own game.

Carry Back, considered as coming from the wrong side of the tracks because of unfashionable breeding, was sired by Saggy out of an obscure mare, Joppy. Price, who ran a farm near Cleveland at the time, acquired Joppy for $150, plus another $150 for Joppy's board bill, or $300.

On the way to Florida, Price stopped in Maryland in 1957 and had Joppy and two other mares bred to Saggy for $1,200 or $400 apiece.

Saggy's one claim to fame was his surprise victory over Citation on a rainy Monday at the Havre de Grace track in the Chesapeake Trial. It was the only setback for Citation as a three-year-old in 1948, when he won the Triple Crown, a feat no colt has done since.

Midgets Keep Noses Clean

The Belleville midget all - stars stayed out of the penalty box and on the scoresheet as they handed Cobourg a 6-3 exhibition setback last night.

Belleville was assessed only four of the game's 14 penalties and the penalty box avoidance payed off as they led 2-1 after one period and 3-2 at the end of 40 minutes of play.

Andy Ricketts was the individual standout for Belleville coming up with two goals in addition to his fine all-around play. Kerry Reid netted another pair of Belleville markers with single goals going to Bob Lorimer and Dan Nuttall.

Provinces to Help Detect Hazardous Products

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial authorities have agreed to help the federal government ferret out hazardous products, Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford announced Wednesday.

In an interview following the final closed session of the federal-provincial conference on consumer affairs, he said provincial delegates have indicated that fire officials, coroners and other experienced persons will be consulted about hazardous products and their views will be passed on to him.

Under the Hazardous Products Act administered by Mr. Basford's department, the government can regulate or prohibit hazardous products. Since it was passed two years ago, it has been used to increase toy safety and accentuate warnings on hazardous household chemicals.

Now the federal minister wants to establish a systematic way of collecting information on the reption of hazardous products to accidents as well and has asked for provincial co-operation.

He said in a statement rough estimates show that one to two million injuries annually are associated with consumer products other than vehicles. Possibly 100,000 to 150,000 of these injuries led to hospital treatment.

By collecting information on harm caused by hazardous products, the most serious product-associated hazards might be identified and the effectiveness of remedial actions studied.

The conference also agreed to priority treatment for a wide range of issues relating to product performance.

Questions of major consumer concern included minimum performance standards, fuller information about products, manufacturer acceptance of responsibility for their products, warranties and guarantees, repairs and servicing and consumer recourse to compensation for unsatisfactory product performance.

The delegates discussed drug pricing, particularly the trend to permitting pharmacists to make substitution of equivalents for drugs prescribed by brand name.

Before announcing to the Commons an expanded program to analyse drugs and test their effectiveness, Health Minister John Munro briefed the conference delegates who, later in a communique, welcomed the move.

In an interview, Mr. Basford said consumers who buy drugs regularly should if possible shop different pharmacies to gain real savings. Consumers also should ask thier doctors, if they have a choice between equivalent drugs, to prescribe the less costly one.

The conference also agreed that full consumer protection in the credit field requires close federal-provincial consultation and that consumers need more information about laws made to protect them.

The conference called on major retail stores to experiment with unit pricing—marking the price per unit of weight of a product. The federal department intends to do research on the practice to determine whether it would substantially aid comparison shopping.

Legion Plans Convention

WATERLOO (CP) — Lt.-Gov. William Ross Macdonald of Ontario will officially open the 27th bi-annual convention of the Ontario provincial command, Royal Canadian Legion, Sunday.

More than 2,000 Legion delegates and their wives are expected to attend the five-day convention, which begins Friday.

Davis Says Economy Has-Been Inhibited

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis charged Wednesday that the "socialistic philosophy" of the federal government has "inhibited" Canada's economy.

He said incomes and unemployment have gotten out of hand and it is the responsibility of the federal government to overcome the problems.

"It's damn time people were given the opportunity to work."

The premier's latest attack on Ottawa's fiscal and economic policies came at the annual meeting of the Oxford County Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Davis said:

"I don't indulge in personalities but I can't personally accept the socialistic philosophy dressed up in any name you wish. I want no part of it."

He said although Canada's economic problem is "of a serious nature," there has been steady economic and social growth in Ontario in the last few years "because of the stability of government and leadership of the Progressive Conservatives."

Hellyer Alleges Inner Circle Rules

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rebel Liberal Paul Hellyer said Wednesday three or four federal cabinet ministers and perhaps a dozen high-ranking civil servants exercise "phenomenal power" and are using the governmental system to put their ideas to work.

Mr. Hellyer, explaining th goals of his new Action Canada movement to a Canadian Club luncheon, said some "important government decisions are made by a minority within the cabinet.

He said on one such decision the vote was 19 to 4 and the four carried—on another it was 7 to 1 and the one carried."

The former Liberal cabinet minister, who bolted the ranks of the party last week to sit as an independent Liberal, did not disclose the issues involved in the votes.

And he told a news conference later he would not name the "power elite" which dominates the cabinet, adding that it should not be difficult for anyone to figure out.

Mr. Hellyer said a small group who have been civil servants for many years have "real power" in Ottawa. If they failed to accomplish what they set out to do with one government, they waited until the government changed and put it through before anyone realized what was happening.

He said civil servants in high places should be changed every four years, or when the government changes.

Action Canada, unveiled at an Ottawa news conference Tuesday, hoped to "shake the present power structure."

It planned to go to the people to learn what Canadians—including both French and English-speaking Quebecers—expect from the federal government.

All Canadians are "alienated" from the governmental and economic systems, said the 47-year-old member of Parliament for Toronto Trinity. They need a "new feeling of people power—freedom" and must declare war on the system and national problems.

Economist Favors Floating Exchange

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should go all the way to a freely-floating foreign-exchange rate for the Canadian dollar to help insulate the country from the full impact of price inflation from abroad, says international economist Harry Johnson.

But he warned a Senate inquiry that the Bank of Canada would oppose the beneficial use of a floating exchange rate in the interest of maintaining its power over government policy.

The Toronto-born economist, 48, a professor at both University of Chicago and London School of Economics, rejected the idea of direct economic controls such as a program of pay and price restraints as "nonsensical and not feasible."

Troublesome inflationary pressures emanate from the United States and are exported almost automatically to all Western countries, he said. Canada, closely tied to the United States by trade, is especially vulnerable.

"If a country wishes to retain the benefits of integration with the world economy while controlling inflation, the only possibility is to adopt a floating rate of exchange and let it float," he said.

Unemployment Has Had Virtually No Effect on Wages - - - Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — What has happened to wages and salaries since high unemployment struck the land?

The short answer, says Dr. John Young, head of the prices and incomes commission, is: "Not much—yet."

There are signs that new wage contracts being negotiated by the larger labor unions do not contain wage increases as large as a year or six months ago.

But there hasn't been any significant decline in hourly wage rates, weekly wages and salaries, or total labor income. Rather, they have increased.

When the government made inflation the No. 1 target for economic policy and began to slow inflation's rate of increase, it knew that higher unemployment would result.

The economic record for more than 100 years has shown the only way to fight inflation is by open-market, free-enterprise economy is to force an economic slow-down. That stops or at least slows the upward surge of prices, but means reductions in production and, consequently, unemployment.

Production has slowed. The index of industrial production has not moved substantially in more than a year. Until there was a spurt this spring, manufacturer shipments had varied little for about two years.

Wholesale prices generally have been steady for more than a year and, while consumer prices are still rising, the rate of climb has been sharply cut to less than two per cent a year from about five per cent a year ago.

Unemployment has surged ahead, with a remarkable bump up last month to 629,000 or 7.8 per cent of the 8.4 million people in the labor force. But analysts say there was a declining trend in the six months from last September to this March.

Official statistics indicate the effect of all this on incomes appears to be minimal.

Total labor income is running at more than $4,000 million a month, compared with $3,800 million a month early last fall. While unemployment is high, there are more people working this year than last, and at higher rates of pay.

Average earnings for workers in manufacturing this spring ran to about $3.39 an hour, compared with $2.95 early last year.

Taking all wages and salaries reported by employers of 20 people or more, the average pay cheque was $130.25 a week in January this year, compared with $122.66 in January last year.

But the labor department reports some slowing in the rate of wage and salary increases negotiated by major labor unions.

Reorganization Bill Approved After Two Amendments Beaten

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons passed the government's reorganization bill Wednesday, approving establishment of an environment department and empowering the prime minister to create new ministries of state.

Approval was given on an informal voice vote after two opposition amendments were defeated. The vote followed 23 days of debate.

James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) wanted the deputy minister of the environment to carry the added title of deputy minister of fisheries.

Under the bill, the present fisheries department would be eliminated.

Liberals defeated the amendment 108 to 73, standing against the three opposition parties.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) wanted public service pension provisions in the bill altered to give full pensions to public servants laid off after age 50.

Liberals stood alone again to defeat that one 185 to 67.

Standing in the 264-seat House: Liberal 148, Conservative 71, New Democrat 23, Social Credit 13, Independent 2, Ind-L 1, vacant 5.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The Commons cancelled today's sitting to allow committees to reduce a work backlog.

Major clauses of the reorganization bill would:

—Set up a department to take over environmental tasks now spread among several departments;

—Permit the prime minister to create new ministries to handle specific jobs such as urban affairs;

—Permit appointment of ministers of state for temporary assignments and to assist existing ministers;

—Permit appointment of as many parliamentary secretaries as there are ministers;

—Provide early retirement benefits to top public servants.

After passing the bill, MPs attacked the government's proposal to put rye, flaxseed and rapeseed under Canadian wheat board jurisdiction.

Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) said the move would cause farmers a long wait for payments from the board just as they now do for wheat.

Robert Simpson (PC—Churchill) said the change would put the northern Manitoba port of Churchill at a disadvantage compared with other ports because it has no facilities for grains such as rapeseed.

Debate on the reorganization bill echoed the dispute begun by Atlantic-region MPs when the bill was introduced last December: The elimination of the fisheries department.

The government finally bowed to opposition pressure Tuesday by giving the environment minister the extra title of fisheries minister.

The government also agreed to an amendment permitting Commons debate on each new ministry of state the government wants to create.

In return, the opposition agreed to lift the limit of five ministries that could be set up at any one time, and to pass the bill Wednesday.

Despite the revised title for the environment minister, Mr. McGrath said he found it hard to understand why the deputy minister could not also hold the fisheries title.

"We're too low on the totem pole," added Lloyd R. Crouse (PC—South Shore). Fisheries protection required more government action, not less.

Nobody Will Admit Inability to Love

Thoughts at Large:

The trouble with most knowledge is that it will not stop at what it does not know; and this is precisely the place at which wisdom begins.

• • •

The best lawyers are those who comprehend most fully the case that the other side is able to make out; thus, the person who knows only his own side of the case is the poorest defender of that position.

• • •

A father who wants his son to be a "credit" to him is unconsciously treating the child like an asset, and has only himself to blame if the boy rebels into a liability.

• • •

Two persons who didn't care much for each other at school may meet 30 years later with cordial embraces, not signifying friendship so much as a kind of mutual self-congratulation that both are still alive.

• • •

There are only two things no one will willingly admit: a deficiency in the ability to love and a deficiency in humor; yet, objectively speaking, it seems as if half the population is defective in one or the other; else our society would be far warmer and merrier than it is.

• • •

We are still in the infancy of civilization, if we use that word as precisely as Bernanos, when he observed: "Civilization exists specifically so that there may be no 'masses,' but rather men alert enough never to constitute masses."

• • •

The faculty that is most taken for granted by most of us is actually the rarest ability — and that is, to see what we really see.

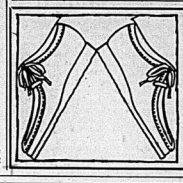
• • •

Despite Bobbie Burns, if we were given the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us, we would lolly denounce the protrait as an arrant forgery.

• • •

The egotistic person aims at eliciting respect from those around him; what he fails to understand is that anything deliberately done to elicit respect immediately cancels itself out and forfeits that respect. (Self-consciousness immediately turns any virtue into its counterfeit.)

• • •



Those who blindly oppose cybernation and the use of robots in production, because they take the place of human employment, should instead rejoice that inhuman and subhuman jobs will now be given to mechanical "slaves," freeing men for more creative and responsible tasks.

• • •

"Success stories" make deplorable biographies, for nobody but a saint can be said to be a "success"; as Ortega pungently puts it: "Every life is, more or less, a ruin among whose debris we have to discover what the person ought to have been."

• • •

It's strange and sad how millions of so-called, Christians haven't the faintest idea of what Jesus was talking about: they imagine He came to save those who were breaking the commandments, when His mission was to rebuke those who were keeping the commandments for the wrong reasons.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"This $2 check, Mrs. Parker...How do you want it—in large or small bills?"

Ottawa Orchestra Impresses

By EUGENE LANG

One of the newest symphony orchestras on this continent is the recently formed National Arts Centre Orchestra of Ottawa, which made its debut in Belleville last evening at Centennial Secondary School before a showing of area music lovers who made up their numerical deficiency by applauding efficiency.

Formed in 1968, the 44-piece orchestra made its debut less than two years ago under the direction of its young conductor Mario Bernardi, who has since seen it raised to international stature by its remarkable quality of performance.

The young musicians, all under 40, have been culled from the major orchestras of Europe and America, being the final result of the screening and auditioning of over 200 players who had applied to join the orchestra. This is a group that combines youth with vitality and freshness in their approach to their ever-increasing repertoire.

From this seedling should sprout a great orchestra of universal renown in the years to come. If what we heard last night was the result of two years, what will two decades bring? One can only surmise and wonder.

The program was tailored to an orchestra of this size, but variety shone through in the choice of selections by Mozart, Rossini's well known overture to An Italian Girl in Algiers was given a vibrant reading that forthwith dispelled all doubts that any listener might have had as to the group's musical mettle. That Rossinian trademark, the inexorable mounting crescendo was played with exciting tenseness that ended in jubilant sonority from the full orchestra.

Two offerings by Canadian composers were presented, both being "firsts" for Belleville audiences. The string section of the orchestra attested to their warmth of tone and mobile unison in the two Sketches on French Canadian Airs by Sir Ernest MacMillan. Toronto composer John Weinzweig's Divertimento for Flute and Strings proved to be a most interesting vehicle for Flautist Robert Cram to demonstrate his proficiency on the golden-voiced reed at his command. This idiomatic piece in three short movements was framed in melodiety at beginning, then limitless spacial tonality accompanied soloist in second section and finally whimsy and grotesqueness joined hands to terminate the work.

The balance of the program featured two well known symphonies by masters two centuries apart — Mozart of the 18th and Prokofieff of the 20th. Of the trilogy that makes up Mozart's final excursion into symphonic creation, the G Minor Symphony was the second. Here Mozart reached out to new horizons of structure, thematic *development, and emotional expression that had never been envisioned before. This is a work of supreme genius throughout and one that can make or break an orchestra by its many stumbling blocks doled hither and yon in the score. Mr. Bernardi guided his musicians on a journey of discovery in their traversal of this masterwork that bespoke a trip of LSD (Love, sincerity and devotion) in every measure. In a glowing rendition their love of the work showed in sincerity of approach and devotion to the smallest detail. Strings excelled in fluency, woodwinds articulated with clarity and the horns radiated mellowness, especially in the trio of the minuet. Precision of attack left the first movement seamless yet carried clearly the rugged sculptural themes of the finale. All in all a very rewarding performance.

Prokofieff's Symphony No. 1 in D. Major was an attempt on the part of the composer to reconcile the structure and instrumentation, along with the style and simplicity of the Classical Symphony of Haydn and Mozart with modern harmonic and melodic idioms. His aims were achieved so successfully in this work that saw its premiere in 1917 that the title "Classical" has appropriately been its title ever since. The old and the new were marvelously synthesized in each of the four short movements. Besides this, the work is a difficult one in every aspect of performing, but this proved no obstacle to the orchestra, as they delivered an exciting realization of the composition. Mr. Bernardi emulated his performance of the earlier symphony once more in this work, with each choir of the orchestra bringing balance and co-ordinated control to the full design of the music from crisp opening to frenzied finale.

The Quinte Arts Council is to be complimented for bringing the National Arts Centre Orchestra to Belleville, and if and when they return again, we do hope to see less upturned seats than were so noticeable last evening. What a shame a fine concert had to be so sparsely attended.

Old Proctor House Said in Bad Shape

BRIGHTON (Staff) — In a special report to the Lower Trent Conservation Authority, a firm of consulting engineers has concluded that the Proctor House, recently acquired by the authority is in an advanced state of deterioration.

The LTRCA had been planning to refurbish the old residence, said to be the oldest in Brighton, but the cost of this is fast looking prohibitive.

Totten, Sims and Hubicki, the Cobourg-based engineering company, was called in by the authority to examine the house, which was being considered as a new LTCRA headquarters and museum.

John Kanen, a representative of the company, revealed his findings to a private committee meeting of the conservation group here Tuesday.

He outlined a series of faults with the building. The walls are unsound and need replastering, the roof needs reshingling, major beamwork has dry rot, the basement requires damproofing and much of the exterior woodwork must be replaced.

Although no firm cost estimate for a restoration of the structure were given, it is estimated that repairs to the roof alone could total $15,000.

Despite the negative engin ering report, the committee has not totally dismissed proceeding with renovation of the Proctor House. An additional study will be made on more detailed aspects of the structure and a complete cost estimate will be prepared.

It is expected this definitive report will be presented at a special meeting of the full authority now slated for early June.

Some members of the authority are known to be against the restoration, particularly now that the cost appears to be steep.

In the meantime, the proposed

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Diuretics Drain Potassium Away

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've had a heart and kidney condition for some time and have been taking diuretics for swelling in my legs. I have felt fairly well until lately when I began to complain of such fatigue that the term "dead tired" describes it well.

Perhaps it's my fault as I haven't seen the doctor in at least two months and have been taking the diuretic medicine right along. Is my tiredness likely due to my heart trouble or to the medicine? — Mrs. H.

* * *

COMMENT: Readers must get tired of my recommendations to "see your doctor" when a specific answer is required in diagnosis or treatment. But, Mrs. H., you have practically answered your own question by saying that you wonder whether being away from the doctor for so long may be a part of your dilemma.

In your case, either the heart condition or the medicine — or a combination of both — may be the reason for your fatigue. But let me just guess that it's due to taking too much diuretic medicine without supervision.

As you know, the purpose of diuretics is to remove excess fluid. I won't go into the long complicated explanation of sodium and potassium balance— and their effect on kidney excretion. But I think you should know that when the diuretic acts on the kidney to rid the body of excess sodium, it may also take away too much potassium.

When this happens, patients often complain of extreme weakness. Especially when strong diuretics are used over a long period of time. Your doctor will order blood tests and tell you whether or not this is part of your problem.

Let's suppose it is. Then you will have to replenish potassium. One way is to take bitter, unpleasant potassium chloride salts.

Another and more pleasant way to increase potassium is by diet. Here is a partial list of foods high in potassium:

Prune juice, orange juice, pineapple juice.

Yam, squash, lentils, potato, cauliflower.

If your trouble is due to deficiency of potassium, Mrs. H. your doctor will either change the type of diuretic you've been taking or lessen the present dose — or stop it altogether for awhile. He will also tell you what portions of high potassium foods to take.

I'm not being facetious: Before you get too tired to pick up a phone for an appointment, better see him as soon as you can.

* * *

For Mrs. V.: Curvature of the spine in youngsters is often overlooked until they get into their late teens. By that time it becomes a fixed problem.

The time to discover it is at growth — between the ages of 10 and 12. It is more common in girls.

Scoliosis (curvature) can often be controlled by appropriate exercises (swimming is good), special braces, and in some cases by surgery. Early diagnosis is important.

The trouble is we don't often take a good look at our growing children — or they are not inclined to show off their bodies for parental inspection.

Plan Urged To Train Abroad

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government should consider sending some students who cannot meet the "abnormally high" entrance standards for Ontario medical schools to medical schools in England and the United States, Vernon Singer (L —Toronto downsview) said Wednesday.

He made the suggestion at a meeting of the legislature's committee on human resources which later approved the $990 million estimates for the department of health for 1971-72.

Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence said the scheme would have "no quick impact" on the number of doctors in Ontario.

Deputy Minister Dr. K. C. Charron said Norway had tried the scheme but in Ontario it is considered preferable to build up the facilities for training doctors in the province.

The committee was told there are about 8,000 doctors practising in Ontario. Last year 928 were added to the registry of the College of Physicians and Surgeons—388 from outside Canada, 340 graduates of Ontario schools and 200 from other provinces.

Mr. Lawrence said in past years Ontario has stopped the "luxury" of immigration of doctors from other countries. But he warned that such immigration cannot be expected to continue to the same degree.

Land Deal Inquiry First Test for Davis

TORONTO (CP) — A controversy over Niagara Escarpment land deals represents the first taste of serious trouble for the new government of Premier William Davis.

In power only three months, Mr. Davis faced his first major governmental crisis by ordering a judicial inquiry into the province's purchase last March 31 of 606 acres of prime escarpment land from a company with prominent Conservative supporters on its board of directors.

The inquiry will be concerned only with the integrity of the deals and not with the broader issue of whether or not government land-buying policies are adequate to save the escarpment from private developers.

Opposition parties in the legislature said these policies so far have brought exaggerated profits to Caledon Mountain Estates Ltd., a public corporation and major landholder with 2,500 acres on the escarpment.

The escarpment is a unique geological formation which stretches 250 miles from the Bruce Peninsula in Georgian Bay to Queenston Heights in the Niagara River.

The government purchases were in the Caledon Hills area at the forks of the Credit River, about 40 miles northwest of Metropolitan Toronto, and near Brampton.

Conflicting reports on important details, and whether there were information leaks, prompted Mr. Davis to seek an impartial investigation to clear the air, although he maintained that cabinet studies prove the government is innocent of any wrong-doing.

Canada Backs Soviet Bid For Parley on Europe

Paring Armed Forces Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada today joined with the Soviet Union in calling for a reduction of armed forces in Central Europe, and also allied itself with the Soviet plan for a European security conference.

A communique issued at the end of Prime Minister Trudeau's 11-day visit to the Soviet Union said discussions between the two sides had revealed that Canada and the U.S.S.R. hold similar views on a number of international problems.

And they were convinced that "good-neighborly relations"—a favorite Soviet expression—correspond to the national interests of Canadian and Soviet peoples and also help safeguard peace.

The communique was released for publication while Trudeau was in the air en route back to Ottawa from Leningrad, final stop of his visit, the first ever made to the Soviet Union by a Canadian prime minister.

Thursday night, Premier Alexei Kosygin—Trudeau's official host—phoned him from Moscow to say goodbye. Their conversation lasted 10 minutes, Canadian sources said, with Trudeau telling Kosygin that Canada seriously intends to strengthen its relations with the Soviet Union.

This would be in accordance with the protocol signed last week in Moscow, calling for a new regime of consultation and collaboration between the two northern neighbors.

Commons Debate Arranged

OTTAWA (CP) — The protocol between Canada and Russia signed during Prime Minister Trudeau's visit to the Soviet Union is scheduled for debate today as the Commons resumes after a one-day adjournment to allow MPs to catch up with committee work.

Under debate will be a motion by Heath Macquarrie (Hillsborough), the Conservative foreign affairs critic, that "this House regrets the refusal of the government to bring before the House for consideration and decision the U.S.S.R.-Canada protocol in order that all aspects of the relationship can be considered before implementation."

The motion, which under House rules does not have to be a vote, follows an exchange in the Commons Wednesday in which External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told Gerald W. Baldwin, the Conservative House leader, the opposition could bring the protocol before the House on one of the days on which it chooses the subject for debate, normally a government prerogative.

Prisoners Said Beaten

Eleven Guards Facing Charges

TORFONTO (CP) — The aftermath of the bloody riot at Kingston penitentiary last month took another twist Thursday when 11 guards at the new Millhaven penitentiary were charged with assaulting prisoners involved in the riot.

Ontario's Attorney - General Allan Lawrence made the announcement in the provincial legislature and said the guards, facing a total of 22 charges, would appear in court at Napanee, Ont. next Thursday.

The charges were laid by Clayton Powell, a Crown counsel in the attorney-general's department, who said in an interview later that they involve incidents against eight prisoners transferred to Millhaven April 19, 20, 21.

After the announcement, Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer said in an interview in Ottawa that all eight would be provided with legal counsel from his department, as is usual with guards and members of the RCMP.

He said his department does not plan disciplinary actions against the accused who remain on their jobs.

The riot, which started Wednesday night, April 14, resulted in two deaths.

The body of Brian Enser, 26, of Hamilton was found badly beaten when the riot ended four days later and five guards held hostage were released.

Bertrand H. Robert of Chatham, Ont. died in hospital May 16 of injuries suffered in the riot.

Mr. Lawrence refused to release the names of the guards who were charged.

Outside the legislature, he said the charges are "pretty unique" because they are based on the credibility of prisoners' statements about the alleged beatings.

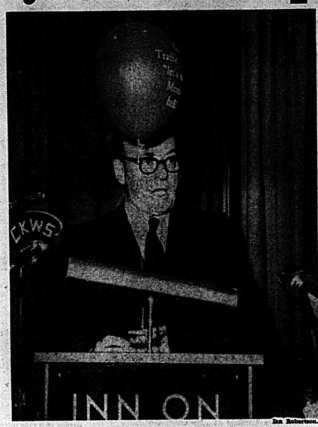
Meanwhile, at the federal level, Penitentiaries Commissioner Paul Faguy told the Commons justice committee that Robert had applied last September for a transfer from Kingston but later changed his mind.

Robert, imprisoned in September for disciplining his children by placing them on a hot oven, was placed in an area of the penitentiary where he was separated from prisoners who might harm him.

He was in the protected area when the prisoners rioted. The area included child molesters, informers and others who might be harmed by other prisoners.

Railway Firemen Get Pay Increase

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways signed agreements Thursday ending a dispute for substantial wage increases and improved fringe benefits for 2,300 locomotive firemen.



The railways said in a joint statement that the agreements, signed with the United Transportation Union, are still subject to ratification by union members.

The agreements call for a 6½ per cent wage increase retroactive to Sept. 1, 1970 for CP Rail firemen while CN firemen will get a similar increase retroactive to July 1, 1970.

The CNR agreement runs until Dec. 31, 1972, while the CP Rail settlement expires Feb. 28, 1973.

The negotiats call for yearly increases of 4½ per cent after the first year and 3½ per cent after the second year.

The railways said the agreements also contain major improvements in health and welfare and vacation and holiday benefits.

Albert College Gets Leave to Split Land

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Committee of Adjustment has given conditional approval to the application of Albert College for a land split to allow it to sell two acres of property in the Wellington Crescent area which is currently used as a city playground.

The four conditions imposed by the committee are:

1. that the site plan for development be approved by city council;

2. that a roadway to Highland Ave. be provided if the city traffic committee deems this necessary;

3. that the north-south leg of Wellington Crescent be widened to the city's requirement, and

4. that the usual five per cent park value dedication be given the city.

The proposed sale of the vacant Wellington Crescent property by Albert College has seen strong protest by West Hill residents who asked that the property be retained as parkland and that the area be rezoned from "B" to "A" to block construction of further apartment structures.

The fear of Wellington Crescent residents is that the property will be sold to a developer who would construct apartments causing traffic congestion and overloading of the sanitary sewer on their street.

The city traffic committee will be asked to review the matter to determine if development of the vacant property would cause traffic problems on Wellington Crescent.

Two petitions and several letters of objection were received by city council asking that the subject property be purchased and retained as a playground and greenbelt area.

Council, however, decided that the price being asked made the property too costly for park use.

Russia, Egypt Sign Alliance

CAIRO (CP) — The Soviet Union and Egypt signed a 15-year treaty of friendship and co-operation Thursday night, renewing their close alliance in the wake of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's purge of his rivals for power.

The pact signed by Sadat and visiting President Nikolai Podgorny provides for continued Soviet military, economic, political and scientific aid. The two governments also pledged "non-interference in the internal affairs of each other," which could be interpreted as a Soviet abandonment of the leftist leaders ousted and arrested by Sadat in the recent Egyptian power struggle.

The treaty, which provides specifically for the training of Egyptian personnel to man Soviet-supplied weapons, was seen by observers in Cairo as a bond which will link Egyptian and Soviet policies for decades to come.

The Russians promised the Egyptians arms and military training to enable them to win back the Sinai desert from Israel. The treaty said arms and equipment would be supplied to Egypt "with a view to strengthening its capacity to eliminate the consequences of aggression as well as increasing its ability to stand up to aggression in general."

Pakistan Food Shortage Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Pakistan's High Commissioner in Canada said Thursday that law and order have been "completely restored" in East Pakistan and that outsiders should not complicate the situation "by listening to distorted stories and tendentious reporting emanating from not so friendly sources."

M.S. Shaikh was obviously referring to India, which had been asked "to stop its blatant interference in the internal affairs of Pakistan."

He said there is enough food in East Pakistan for three months and the country now has the machinery to distribute it. The government is drawing up a list of priorities "and we would be approaching governments and international organizations in due course for material and financial assistance."

He said that refugees who fled East Pakistan following the recent rebellion—which he said was helped by infiltrators—have been urged to return home "and lead normal lives." The normal process of law would apply to those who had committed criminal acts.

Mr. Shaikh said reports which numbered these refugees at 500,000 were "grossly exaggerated."

"There, there, Mitch! Everything's OK now, Daddy's home!"

45 Persons Die as School Special Train Hits German Freight

WUPPERTAL (AP) — Forty-five persons, most of them school children returning from a study tour, were killed Thursday night in the worst railway accident in West German history.

Railway officials said at least 94 others were severely injured when a special two-coach diesel passenger train and a freight train collided on a single-track line between the Wuppertal suburbs of Oberbarmen and Radevormwald.

The dead, officials said, included 40 pupils in senior classes of the Radevormwalder junior high school, two teachers, an accompanying chaperon and two rail employees. The classes had been on a study tour of the north German city of Bremen.

A spokesman for the prosecutor's office said it was clear human failing was involved.

The freight train was on a regularly scheduled run from Radevormwald to Wuppertal and the passenger coaches headed in the opposite direction when the accident occurred shortly after 8 p.m.

The authorities said the freight train engineer, who escaped injury, told them he had taken a sign from a stationmaster as the signal for the freight train to pull out.

The stationmaster, however, denied giving any such signal and tried in vain to signal the freight to halt, authorities said. When this failed, the stationmaster was quoted as saying, he warned all rescue stations along the line of the impending collision.

Many parents were waiting at the Radevormwald station for their children's return. When news of the accident reached them, panic broke out on the platform. Parents ran to their cars and raced to the accident scene as firemen, police and volunteers were prying dead and injured from the twisted wreckage.

Townhouse Units Pass Committee

Residents in the north Belleville area of College and Gilbert Streets objected last night in an attempt to block the construction of two seven-unit townhouse developments in their area.

Two area residents, claiming to represent 100 per cent of the property owners in the immediate district, appeared before the Belleville Committee of Adjustment in opposition to the request by B.E.P. Construction Ltd. for a variance of 6.94 feet, the frontage requirement to allow construction of townhouses on two vacant lots at the corner of College and Gilbert Streets.

The objectors said the erection of townhouses would reduce the value of their residential properties, that the cars of tenants would increase the traffic congestion.

Alderman Gerald Joyce, as president of B. E. P. Construction, told the committee that his firm planned to construct two seven - unit townhouses of two and three bedrooms each, on opposite sides of Gilbert Street.

He said the units would be built for rental by the owners and would not be sold and hopefully would attract good tenants.

The units would be of good appearance and construction and would have paved parking and greenbelt area, he told the committee.

The lots on which the two townhouse developments would be constructed have a frontage of 83.06 feet on College Street while the bylaw requirement is for 100 feet. The variance requested was for 6.94 feet in the frontage requirement to allow for construction of multiple family housing.

Albert

Yesterday, Edgar Bateman, committee of adjustment chairman, said his committee had no authority to question the type of development proposed for the subject property nor to direct that the property be retained for greenbelt use.

The objectors have 14 days to appeal the committee decision to the Ontario Municipal Board.

He said the developer would have to abide by zoning regulations.

In addition to the petitions and letters of objection received from West Hill residents, Wellington Crescent resident Kenneth Peoples attended the meeting to make a personal objection.

The committee of adjustment also approved the application of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greatrix for a land split of their Highland Ave. property to allow construction of a single family residence on a new vacant area.

Another land split approval given by the committee on an application from Quinte Sanitation to divide its property on West Dundas Street to provide for construction of a new carwash.

Charged with break, enter and theft is Barry William Ferguson. A television and camera stolen from the apartment of Sally Gilbert was recovered at the time of the arrest.

Belleville Man Injured in Crash

PICTON (Staff) — A Belleville man is in Kingston General Hospital today with head injuries sustained last night in a one - car collision one mile east of Waupton.

Injured was Herbert Nelson, 39, of 247½ George Street, a frontseat passenger in a car driven by Donald Lyle Charlton, 34, of Washburn Street, Picton.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said Mr. Charlton was treated and released at the Prince Edward County Memorial hospital following the collision.

The car was eastbound on County Road 4 when police say it struck a culvert. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300.

Salute to an Old Soldier

Local 357, the Belleville Federation of Musicians of the American Federation of Musicians, saluted Jack Green (centre) last night in the yacht club by presenting him with an honorary gold membership to the federation. Doug Aselstine, president of the local (standing behind) made the presentation in the attendance of Gurney Titmarsh, secretary of the Toronto Musician's Association and Joe Burchill, secretary of the Belleville local. Mr. Green, an accomplished musician of Belleville, was a teacher of music for the Salvation Army throughout Canada and Bermuda.

Short Hops Interest Province

Demonstration exercises for Short Take Off and Landing aircraft travel could be under way as early as September, Charles MacNaughton, Ontario minister of highways and transport announced at a press conference following his speech to the Ontario Traffic Conference last night.

The minister told newsmen "six potential STOL operators" are presently preparing for the fall trials.

The demonstrations would be undertaken following examination of the "feasibility of STOL-aircraft and STOL-ports for inter-city travel," he said.

During the interview he told The Intelligencer "we believe we can learn more in actual terms" on a trial basis.

"We are concerned about the need for a more adequate regional air service system in Ontario and are concerned about the declining benefits our provincial ports are deriving from the St. Lawrence Seaway."

Mr. MacNaughton also expressed concern regarding the federal government's location of a second major airport for the Toronto area and "the consequences its decision will have for our provincial development objectives."

In reply to a question originally asked by Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott, the minister said if Belleville "is interested (in obtaining such service) you should submit a comprehensive brief."

He also told newsmen the provincial government is working hand in hand with major car manufacturers and the federal government in studies dealing with even more regulations governing the sale of used automobiles. He told delegates 12,000 unsafe vehicles had been removed from Ontario highways since implementation of the safety certificate program in the fall of 1968.

Mr. MacNaughton offered his "personal assurance of the the commitment of my new department toward the continuing improvement of safety measures.

"By carefully synchronizing various modes of transportation, we hope to encourage our slow growth areas into the mainstream of our economy and society and to stimulate the balanced growth of our province and its communities. We are exerting our presence in rail, air and water services because we believe all modes of transportation must contribute in a co-ordinated way to the development goals we have set for our province."

He told the more than 250 delegates, representing police forces, municipalities and traffic safety programmers from across the province, that "transportation must serve people and their community interests."

Community service programs being forwarded by the provincial government include their push for a minimum rail passenger service with the federal government, increased medical and psychiatric restrictions on drivers, regulating of the Canadian trucking industry, traffic congestion (he proposed separate bus routes could easily be established similar to ones in the U.S.) and refinements for existing services.

The communique issued today said that the decision of the reduction of armed forces and armaments in areas where the military confrontation is particularly dangerous, and especially in Central Europe."

The wording is identical to a passage in a speech made by Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev at the 24th party's 24th congress last March 24, though it omits a preceding reference to the dismantling of foreign military bases.

The communique also said Canada and the U.S.S.R. believe detente and stability in Europe would be promoted by a "properly prepared" conference on European security and co-operation, at which both Canada and the U.S.S.R. would be represented.

Trudeau, the communique said, outlined to Kosygin and Brezhnev the consideration in favor of mutual and balanced reduction of forces by NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

The two sides agreed to expand the "exchange of experience" between Canada and the U.S.S.R. in northern development, said the communique.

"Both sides share the view that they have special responsibilities and corresponding rights with respect to ensuring the safety of navigation and preserving the natural balance in the Arctic regions."

The things you used to do,
Without a chance to say goodbye.
Without a chance to see you die.
Though out of sight, you're ever,
And memory will serve.
You will live with us in memory,
Forever and ever.

Bike Too Large for Rider Is Biggest Cause of Accidents

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

A bicycle too large for the rider drastically increases the danger of accident.

And there is no difference in the safety factor for standard bicycles and the so-called "high-rise" machines.

These were but two of findings resulting from an extensive investigation by the Ontario Department of Transport into the causes and patterns of bicycle accidents involving motor vehicles.

The author of the report, Ed Brezina, safety and environmental division of the transport department, Thurs d a y presented the findings of the study at the safety officers' committee session of the Ontario Traffic Conference being held this week at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Mr. Brezina told convention delegates that the size of the bicycle in relation to the rider was the biggest single factor in bicycle accidents.

"If the rider can't reach the ground comfortably from the seat he is getting into trouble," Mr. Brezina said.

Also, he said, there was no problem with the new high-rise "bikes." But owner-modified bicycles with their elongated front forks presented a higher risk factor than the standard machines.

The conference today is considering a request that the Canadian Standards Association study bicycles in order to set standards for bicycles and equipment being sold in Canada.

The study showed that boys were more prone to bicycle accidents than girls; that the frequency of riders in the age range 6 to 13 years involved in collisions was uniformly high; that 96 per cent of collisions occurred within a mile of home and 57 per cent within one block of home.

Twenty per cent of the collisions occurred during a trip to or from school while in another 12 per cent while the cyclist was playing a bicycle game in a roadway with most of the riders under 10 years of age.

A sudden lane change by the bicyclist was given as the greatest single cause of bike accidents.

Other major causes were turns at intersections with bike riders failing to obey stop signs; entering roads from driveways and sidewalks and crossing intersections from a sidewalk.

Convention delegates were told that to reduce the number of bicycle accidents, education was needed.

It was not until the age of 11 or 12 years that children are able to comprehend and follow complex traffic rules.

"It is just not enough for a parent to buy a seven - year-old tot a bicycle and let him go out on the street with only a warning to be careful."

School crossing patrols and those responsible for crossing protection was another topic for discussion at the morning conference session.

Fraser Reavell, Highway Safety Branch, told delegates that some school boards were wholeheartedly in favor of student school patrols while others denounced them.

One of the points of objecting boards was that the school had no authority to accept responsibility for children beyond school property; another was that school patrol duty was too much responsibility for an elementary school child and still others were concerned with the possible financial responsibility.

Mr. Reavell said he could appreciate the stand taken by these school boards but at the same time didn't accept a negative approach.

School boards were in need of guidelines for their direction, he said.

(In Belleville, student school patrols are not used, with school crossing protection being taken care of by adult crossing guards).

Ross Gillett, traffic co-ordinator for Sarnia, agreed that kindergarten children were too young to accept the responsibility of getting to and from school safely, but said by the age of 10 or 12 they should be competent pedestrians.

Safe routes to school should be planned with the objective of reducing to a minimum the number of crossings, while signalized intersections should be used wherever possible.

When adult crossing guards were utilized, Mr. Gillett urged that only able - bodied people be hired.

"It's very nice for a municipality to give a retired person a part - time job, but I have seen instances where the children were more able-bodied than the guard."

Mr. Gillett said all have a genuine concern for the safety of school-children but said studies have shown that the most meaningful notice for motorists is the presence of school children, either on the sidewalk or on the shoulder of the road.

"I have yet to hear of a case of the motorist running into a child; the child either ran into the motor vehicle or jumped immediately into the path of a motor vehicle."

He said parents must not continue the herding of untrained school children and expect them to graduate to high school as competent pedestrians.

Bikes For Poster Winners

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie presented Linda Johnson, 11, of 34 Robertson Lane, Belleville, a grade six student at Sir John A. Macdonald School, and Tom Stather, 13, of 80 Rollins Drive, a grade seven Harry J. Clarke student with bicycles at the Ontario Traffic Conference banquet at the Four Seasons Hotel.

The youngsters were presented with the bicycles in recognition of their contribution of posters to Bicycle Safety Week, May 10 - 15. The safety week was organized by the Belleville Bicycle Safety Committee and the bikes were donated by local merchants.

MacNaughton Critical of Police Leniency

By IAN ROBERTSON

Charles MacNaughton, minister of highways and transport and minister of communications for Ontario, speaking at the four-day Ontario Traffic Conference last night, castigated judicial members of Ontario police forces for clipping excessive speeding tickets to be, in his words, more "lenient."

He said there was enough evidence of speeding tickets being adjusted to cause him concern.

"In many circumstances you will find drivers apprehended on the highways going at a substantial excess speed over the posted limit.

"When he's apprehended you will find those constables, for reasons unknown to me, say to a driver in a 60 - mile zone and clocked at 84 miles . . .'I'm going to give you a ticket but I'm going to be lenient to you. I'm going to give you one for 70 miles'," he told the more than 250 banquet guests at the Thursday night awards dinner.

He deemed this sort of action one of the chief reasons many drivers have little or no respect for posted traffic speeds.

"I suggest that type of driver is never going to pay attention and you can't blame drivers because if they have no respect for the importance of penalties or the enforcement of the posted speed limits, then I don't really know how we're going to give effect to what we're trying to do," he stated in an afternoon press conference.

"I suggest that the deterrent potential of our legislation would be enhanced by more consistent application.

"I wonder whether any purpose is achieved when the level of excess speed is reduced on occasion, so that the offender will not lose demerit points or suffer severe fines," he said.

"The only way we will control speeding effectively and ensure greater safety from those irresponsible people is to enforce the law consistently and fairly."

He told delegates there "should be some uniformity of stands for the imposition of fines . . . they're not uniform across the province."

The highways and transport minister told delegates it was his purpose to offer assurance of the commitment of his new department "toward the continuing improvement of safety programs that will protect the people of this province from the hazards of our growing volumes of traffic."

In referring to the increasing traffic problem, Mr. MacNaughton expressed interest in the American expressway policy of posting and enforcing a minimum as well as a maximum speed limit.

This system "is working well . . . I think there's much merit in it and I can assure you we're going to be studying it."

On this basis, traffic would be required to travel at no less than 40 miles per hour and no more than 70 miles per hour.

In Ontario, there is no designated minimum limit . . . the discretion of the officer in most cases rules charges on this basis.

"A slow driver can be just as dangerous as a fast driver," he stated, backing up an allegation presented by E. S. Wiley, director of traffic for the city of Windsor.

For these and other studies, the newly appointed minister told delegates "the legislation for our new department has received third reading and now only awaits royal assent and I expect that to take place next week."

Other studies under way include establishment of a minimum rail passenger service, more adequate regional air service systems across the province, joint federal-provincial regulating of the trucking industry (he told delegates a special federal - provincial council has been established to deal with this problem), traffic congestion, increased controls over sale of used cars on transfer of ownership and removal of unqualified drivers from the roads on medical grounds.

"In our continuing search for better ways of isolating potentially hazardous drivers, we no doubt will be required, at some time in the future, to consider the psychiatric competence of motorists.

"We are intensifying our research and knowledge in this important area of driver control," he added.

One area of control recently proven most successful was the discontinuation of studded tires on Ontario roads as of April 1.

He referred to this step as "initiative" on the province's part. He told the gathered police representatives, municipal officials and traffic developers this step was undertaken "following a complete analysis of the safety aspect of studs after their use was permitted on a trial basis in 1967.

"We could not avoid the conclusion that the hazards created by studs far outweighed the safety factors claimed for them."

The minister forecast "that by next winter other jurisdictions in Canada and the northern States will have followed Ontario's lead in prohibiting studded tires."

With increasing safety features, Mr. MacNaughton expressed concern for increasing traffic injuries. Although in 1970, fatalities on Ontario roads and highways declined by 8.8 per cent, and in 1971 deaths were down by five per cent in the first quarter of the year, injuries were up by 14 per cent.

"Obviously we have a great deal more work to do in traffic safety."

To further promote concern for traffic safety, Mr. MacNaughton last night announced that the 1971 grant to the Ontario Traffic Conference had been expanded by $2,000 to a total of $7,000.

The minister then presented president John Crosby with a $7,000 cheque for Queen's Park's 1971 contribution.

The Chinese Scene

President Nixon noted recently that he hoped one day to be able, in one capacity or another, to visit Communist China. He was speaking in the wake of the visit to Peking of table-tennis teams from the United States and other western countries including Canada.

His words "in one capacity or another" of course suggest he was taking the long-term view, meaning it may be some time in the future, and as a private citizen, that he would have an opportunity of making such a trip.

Meantime there is always the possibility that our own globe-trotting Prime Minister may make it there first. After all, Canada has given a lead to this part of the world by recognizing the Peking government. For one thing, China likely would not want to be outdone by the Soviet Union in this regard.

Should Mr. Trudeau make such a trip he will find a society apparently more dedicated to hard work than most — and work in which even the boss does not take their turn in the fields. It is as if Mr. Trudeau and his cabinet colleagues, not to mention the executive force in our industries, had to put in a day clearing land, planting and so on: the Ottawa crowd as say the Experimental Farm on the city's outskirts, while here in Belleville the decision-makers perhaps would do their stint landscaping the new section of Zwick's Island park!

Imagine that!

But as might be expected, the Chinese way of doing things is not all beer and skittles. One might think everyone would be tremendously fit after such work. Rather, The Globe and Mail's Norman Webster describes them mainly as an "overworked, harassed" lot.

He describes the worker-executives thus: "A man named Wu in the countryside near Canton is probably not untypical. Thirty-eight years old, thin, a chain smoker, he said he averages half of each month helping administer the prosperous Pingchu People's Commune and half working with his hands in the fields or in one of the commune's small industries."

There are also long hours spent in studying the works of Chairman Mao, including such gems as: "The cadres of our party and state are ordinary workers and not overlords sitting on the backs of the people."

Last winter, Webster points out, high Peking officials took a turn digging and hauling in icy weather on a river-taming project near the capital.

Healthy? Well, we suspect this kind of back-breaking schedule would begin to pall after a while. Webster speaks of the constant strain on handling big administrative workloads as well as having to spend time on manual labor and political work.

All the same, there are lessons here for some of our more leisured citizens here, like the young bachelikers (correspondingly, the Chinese civil servants get to their jobs on bicycles), and job hunters, and for the Government trying to find work for them.

Busy Period for International Diplomacy

U.S. Shows Cautious Approval of P.M.'s Soviet Visit

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The field of diplomacy, wherein change traditionally is wrought slowly and often tediously, has been hit by recent weeks by a series of shake waves that have pretty well redrawn the political map of the Atlantic.

The Canadian-Soviet pact unveiled on Prime Minister Trudeau's Moscow visit last week plays no small part, say observers here, in the new set of balances that have suddenly evolved.

Coming as it did in sequence with the new ping-pong diplomacy between Washington and Peking, and the apparent break in the Washington-Kremlin impasse over disarmament, it was enough to boggle the minds of many a veteran observer.

But with all that, many point to several recent Senate votes as perhaps the most significant of all in the new run. Although that body rejected the idea of the U.S. unilaterally cutting by half its 300,000-man troop deployment in Europe, the closeness of the margin clearly indicated that the day is coming sooner rather than later when the American presence there is going to be pared down sharply.

The Washington Post, saying Washington can hardly avoid remaining the leader of the West, adds however that "increasingly the West will not be acting as an American-directed whole, as it so often did in the post-war years."

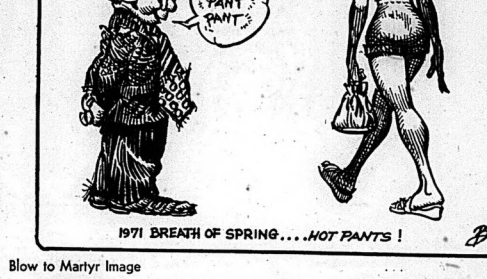
While Washington was busy making new friends in the Communist world, and Trudeau and Prime Minister Kosygin were shaking hands over their new agreement, Prime Minister Heath of Britain and French President Pompidou were agreeing to agree on the Common Market.

Final negotiations next month should clear the way for British entry they concluded. This year-ranging some vital ebbs and flows in Atlantic trade patterns.

Perhaps because of all this activity, the Canadian-Soviet agreement did not cause as much comment here as it might otherwise have.

While the state department had an official—and predictable "no comment," most observers and commentators seem generally to applaud what one paper termed Canada's indulgence in "late-blooming nationalism."

They were relieved by Trudeau's reiteration that Canada would continue to treat the U.S. as its "closest friend and ally." The promise of regular Soviet-Canadian meetings at a high level could not help but be of some value—how much remained to be seen in the context of ever-all East-West relations. It couldn't do much harm.



The Americans underline the fact that the pact specifically states that it would in no way affect either government's agreements with other countries. These would include, in Canada's case, alliances with the U.S. in NATO and the North American Air Defence Command.

Thus there was an inclination to sympathize with the Canadians in their efforts to avoid free of the smothering embrace of the U.S. and to make new friends elsewhere. The New York Times brought forth the interesting idea that each Canadian move was overdue and came not so much as a result of the personal diplomacy of Trudeau as the recent turn of events in Canada. It says:

"In all probability, Anyone becoming Canada's prime minister in 1968 (as Trudeau did) would have taken a more openly independent attitude toward the United States than Lester Pearson had done. It was a time of great Canadian disillusionment over the American adventure in Vietnam, mounting doubts about this country's capacity for coping with its racial problems and growing Canadian fears about American domination and loss of national identity."

Reflecting the view of many American observers, The Times concludes:

"If the agreement makes the United States less inclined to take Canada for granted and more sensitive to Canadian concerns for protecting the Arctic and avoiding American domination, it will be all to the good."

Blow to Martyr Image

Acquittals Pull Rug from Under Black Panthers

By STEPHEN SCOTT

NEW YORK (CP) — The militant Black Panthers may end up the losers because of two landmark victories in United States courts this month.

It is ironic but the radical Negro group which many say preaches violence may fade into obscurity partly because it was impossible to convict some of its members on charges of violence.

The group has won worldwide prominence because of its tough talk, its continuing dispute with police throughout the U.S. and an atmosphere of martyrdom considerably enhanced by two long trials that now have come to an end.

Early this month 12 Panthers, most of whom had been in jail for more than a year, were acquitted in New York on charges of conspiring to bomb department stores and police stations and to murder policemen.

Even members of the jury were surprised at the speed with which they reached a decision after an eight-month trial and legal proceedings that are estimated to have cost more than $1 million.

And then this week in New Haven, Conn., Black Panther chairman Bobby Seale and Ericka Huggins won dismissal of charges laid in the death of another Panther following another long and costly trial.

The jury in the Seale trial could not reach agreement and the judge dismissed charges against the pair after saying it would be impossible to get an unbiased jury in a retrial.

These legal proceedings, plus the trial of the Chicago 7, which at one time included Seale, generated considerable discomfort in the United States.

The Panthers had been looked on with suspicion and hostility by many whites and blacks, but acquired an aura of respectability as many respected persons charged that they were being unfairly dealt with by police and that the court cases against them were unwarranted.

The Panthers could say, and get listeners, that it was impossible for them to get fair treatment in the U.S. Over the last year they got miles of news paper publicity out of the trials alone.

They could charge police brutality, often with justice, and their remarks were well received in some quarters because American police have acquired an unfortunate image as the result of demonstrations around the country.

Seale is a case in point. He was not well known when he was arraigned in California 19 months ago on the New Haven charges.

He came east by way of Chicago where he was charged with others with inciting to riot during the 1968 Democratic party convention. He became downright famous there for his actions in the trial and the fact that he was bound and gagged by the judge at one stage.

He was sentenced to four years in prison for contempt of court there, a matter that is up for appeal.

The Chicago trial soured some liberally-minded people on the U.S. judicial system. Now after the two Panther trials in the East, a different kind of remark is being heard.

An example was the statement by Jack Greenberg, counsel director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, following the New York trial:

"The verdict really runs contrary to all popular misconceptions," he said. "It's an indication that the jury system is considering the facts and the law."

A New York official of the NAACP said that "this will show those on all sides that it is possible to get a fair shake within the system."

That kind of publicity the radical groups can do without.

At the same time New York newspapers, covering the shooting of four policemen, two fatally, are reporting statements of praise and sympathy for the police department from the predominently black Harlem district.

There certainly appears to be a backlash developing against radicalism that threatens police officers—a change for the "pigs" who have been the object of wrath in recent years.

In the past black radical groups have risen and then subsided in the U.S. Not many years ago a well-reported group was the Students Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee. That group has changed its name and faded into obscurity.

It is time to wonder whether the Panthers also will fade, or disappear into respectability, as they lose publicity, continue the internal bickering that has split Panther ranks, and as another radical group makes the scene.

Already there is talk within the Panthers of dropping violence and working through the churches—within the system.

Pakistan Chaos

Reports from East Pakistan suggest that conditions there remain chaotic. The army has been ruthless in its crushing of the rebellion and in its treatment of the civilian population. There has been indiscriminate killing, by army units as well as by opposing civilian factions. Thousands have fled across the border to India and the flood of refugees is continuing.

India of course has population problems of its own, not to mention difficulty in feeding them. And there is tension between the two countries as a result of border clashes. To complicate matters ,there are the long-standing religious differences between Pakistan, a Moslem state, and India, which is largely Hindu. It was such differences which led to the partition of the sub-continent into the two countries in 1947.

What is happening in East Pakistan is the kind of human tragedy which has no comparison in the western world. Nevertheless it should concern us, for Pakistan is part of the Commonwealth. Just what might be done to restore order there is another thing, however.

It is disturbing to note yet another traffic fatality in Prince Edward County. There have been three in all within a week, two of them involving small children. Let us all exercise more care and watch out for children in particular.

Census Will Cover Six Million Homes

Edna Hampton in the Globe and Mail

June 1 is census day in Canada. The once every decade task will cost $35-million and will be one of Canada's big gest peace-time operations.

It will require about 50,000 workers and electronic equipment to process the questionnaires from 6,000,000 households.

The census, says the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, "will in effect be a stop-action snapshot of Canadians on June 1, 1971. In many ways it will tell us how far we have come. It will also help us to plan where we want to go."

The information that citizens give is secret. "Nobody, but nobody, has access to information except for DBS officials," Mrs. W. S. C. Boswell, regional publicity co-ordinator, explained yesterday.

"DBS is not interested in what one person says. We're interested in the statistics from all the information."

Some people may find those words reassuring. For the first time, most Canadians will be their own census takers. Each person's name, address and telephone number will be on the form that he will mail back to DBS. The phone number, says Mrs. Boswell, is merely given so that further information can be acquired by phone if necessary. The number is not fed into the computers. Nor, is the name and address of a person, although the name will appear on microfilm stored in a DBS vault.

It will be the most inquisitive census to date. One out of three households will get a longer questionnaire asking such questions as whether plumbing facilities are used by one or more households and whether they have a block and white or color television set, an electric refrigerator, and a dishwasher.

"This information," explains DBS in a booklet it will have with each householder, "is important to housing authorities. It's a ju to indicate the standard of housing and thus assist in identifying areas that require urban renewal or redevelopment." Possession of household equipment indicates where there is a need for electricity and fuels.

But the bulk of the questions will indicate how many people live in Canada, where they live and the kinds of homes they live in.

The 1971 census, which marks 100 years of national census taking, will be a combination of population and housing, agriculture and merchandising censuses.

Farmers must not only account for their family members but for livestock, machinery and other aspects of the farming business.

Detailed questionnaires which will go out to businesses will indicate more about business trends than any previous census, including whether this corner store is holding its own against the chain stores.

The law says that Canadians must be truthful in their answers. DBS says that women seem to be bashful about birthdays and men are often reluctant to say how much they earn.

Following the 1961 census, a Vancouver man confessed that he had made a false statement about his income. He explained that he had said his salary was smaller than it really was because his wife had been listening.

Painting Process Said Super-Tough

DESERONTO (Staff) — To drop a dime into a vending machine and receive nothing in return has in most cases led to kicks and cuffs in an attempt to persuade the dispenser of soft drinks or other lease the product.

This rough treatment often results in an unattractive hunk of tin covered in scratches.

Deseronto's Ideal Venders have installed a new paint spray process which is designed to almost double the metal finish life on the machines, and at no extra cost to the buyer.

The new phosphate coating applied during the prepaint treatment provides the extended life expectancy and the company predicts the surfaces will last up to 15,000 hours in outdoor conditions before resurfacing is required.

Ideal Venders, a division of Eddy Match Company Limited, began operations here in 1940 and presently makes 17 models of coolers and vending machines, in a choice of 10 decorator colors. The company now also sells vending machines which dispense milk and bread, designed for large apartments.

GEORGE PUGH, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pugh, Palmer Rd., Belleville recently graduated from Queen's University with a Bachelor of Science degree (electrical engineering). Mr. Pugh, who plans to continue his studies at Queen's University to obtain his Master of Science degree, attended Queen Mary and Avondale Public Schools here and was an Ontario scholar on graduation from BCI and VS.

Resolution Endorsed

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County council last week supported a resolution urging a detailed study by the province of the regional government structure in Niagara before further local government reforms are implemented.

Forwarded by St. Catharines city council, the resolution suggests regional government has "certain basic faults which make it inefficient, and impractical and, in implementation it has resulted in inequalities, duplication and rapidly increasing costs." The city council said its members consider establishment of the regional structure in other areas of the province is premature since it has not been proved that regional government can work efficiently, economically and beneficially.

It was proposed the provincial government execute a "critical and detailed examination to provide information essential to further planning".

Copies of the resolution have been sent to Ontario premier William Davis, the Hon. Dalton Bales, minister of municipal affairs, Hon. Robert S. Welch, minister of education and other government officials. The resolution also was forwarded to the councils of all regional municipalities in Ontario and to the councils of other incorporated municipalities and to the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves.

What does your plumbing have to do with planning Canada's future?

The census questions don't seem so drippy when you know how we use the answers.

What do we do with these fascinating facts you give us? We give them back in the form of statistics. And these statistics are used to plan a better future for all of us. (Even the question which asks "Is there piped running water in this dwelling?" is important).

Once all the census information has been fed into computers, you'd be amazed at how complete a picture it gives of Canada and its people.

What will this be used for?

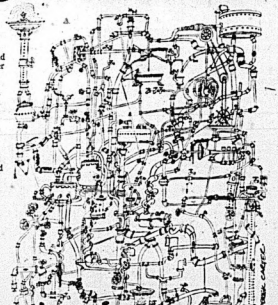
City and town planners use these statistics to decide where to build new schools, hospitals, roads, housing developments, community centres, parks, transportation systems — practically everything.

Business and industry use them to plan for new office buildings, industrial sites, shopping areas, new products and new services.

Social agencies and governments use them to determine how much and what kind of assistance is needed to help give all Canadians a decent standard of living.

Another thing. Many government grants and assistance programs are allocated on a per capita basis. So, for every person who doesn't get counted, the community loses.

What if your neighbour gets a long census form and you only get a short one?



Don't feel offended. It works this way. Only every third census form is long. So every third household, no matter who it is, gets the longer, more detailed form. It doesn't mean they're more important.

But no matter which form you get, please complete it. Your answers are important for Canada's future.

Trust us. We trust you.

Mutual trust is what a census is all about. The Statistics Act makes it law that everyone in Canada has to be counted in a major census every ten years. It also makes it law that the information you give has to be kept in complete confidence. We can't tell anyone or any other government department a single, solitary fact about you personally.

So, please tell us. We have to get our facts straight. Even the ones that may seem drippy are important.

Weekend Away Saves Mom's Sanity

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was delighted to read that you are in favor of married couples escaping from the humdrum of daily living and checking into a motel for the night. I can tell you from experience it has kept our marriage from boggling down — or maybe even from falling apart.

My husband and I have been married 12 years. We have three healthy, normal children, but they are a handful and I need to get away from them periodically.

Two years ago when the baby was six months old, I—felt as if I was cracking up. Everything got on my nerves. My doctor suggested that my husband and I take a weekend trip. "Just drive off somewhere," he said.

I'll always believe that weekend saved my sanity. The simple luxury of sleeping late for two glorious mornings in a row made a new woman out of me. That experience was so wonderful my husband and I decided to go again in 90 days — and we did, but just for one night. (We couldn't afford to pay a sitter for longer.) After the second trip we made up our minds to treat ourselves to one night away every 90 days and not let anything interfere.

We get a great kick out of it when the desk clerk gives us the eye. We know what they're thinking and we feel wicked and malge each other.

Our best talking is done on these one-night trips. At home there are too many interruptions — too much to do — or we are too tired. It's wonderful to be for 18 hours with no kids yelling, no phone ringing, no housework or cooking. Nothing to do but enjoy one another's company.

For those couples who think they can't afford it, let me say it's cheaper than a nervous breakdown — or a divorce. One night in a hotel can be the best Marriage Saver in the world. And the value of that can't be measured in dollars and cents.— MR. & MRS. SO HELP ME.

DEAR M. & M.: I received many letters such as yours, and I think you — in behalf of the Holiday Inns and Howard Johnsons from coast to coast.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have known each other for ten years. He says he is in love with me. I know I am in love with him. We have all the important things in common: religion, education, age, physical attraction. The problem: I can't nail him down. No matter what approach I use he simply refuses to make a commitment.

I've told him on several occasions to get out of my life if he doesn't want to marry me, but he won't. And I guess I don't want him to. He is the only man I have ever loved and he knows it. I am not interested in going out with anyone else. Neither is he. How did a sensible girl like me get trapped like this? What can I do about him? — NEW HAMPSHIRE.

DEAR HAMP: You can't do anything about him — as evidenced by the history of your romance — but you can do something about yourself. Face the facts. Do you want to be a wife and mother? If so, you'd better drop this bird while your reproductive machinery is still functioning. If, on the other hand, he means so much to you that you simply cannot envision a life without him, you'll have to settle for the relationship on his terms, and hope that one day he will change his mind and want to marry you.

Proceeds of Sale Used for Service Work

TWEED — The Tweed Kinette Club held its semi-annual rummage sale, April 21 and 22 in the Township of Hungerford Hall, in Tweed.

There was a large array of used things, including clothing, but though the sale was not as large as has been recorded, according to Mrs. Carols Bleecker, the chairman of the project, it was financially successful.

Mrs. Bleecker's two helpers on the committee were Mrs. Carol Norris and Mrs. Marion Cope, but most of the Kinette body as a whole, aided in the sale, when they staggered hours, to keep some on the job, but not continually.

The left-over merchandise was not lost however, but was sent to the local United Church, where some of it will be included in their bale for other countries, more was sent to the Humane Society in Belleville, and the remainder went to the Meadows House, at Combermere, Ontario, where nothing is let go to waste, they even save the buttons and zippers etc. from garments that are no longer of use, they serve a number in that immediate area.

The proceeds from this rummage sale, will be used for service work, mostly in the immediate area, and it has been proposed that part of it will be made in a donation to the Tweed Recreation Committee, which will help in swimming and sports.

HOLY ROSARY CWL

Holy Rosary CWL met at the Georges Vanier School, for the annual mother-daughter potluck supper. The supper was preceded by Mass celebrated by spiritual director Rev. Father Sweeney and the installation of the new executive was also performed at the Mass.

After the meal, president Mrs. D. Guest, thanked everyone for coming and reported that the bridge dessert was a success and that a dessert and euchre would be held in the fall. The bazaar date is set as Dec. 1, 1971 in Georges Vanier School, there will be two children's picnics in June, one for Georges Vanier and one for Holy Rosary pupils.

Special guest speaker, Mrs. H. Brown, was introduced by Mrs. M. Waller. Mrs. Brown with her husband had just recently returned from 5½ months' stay in India where they were working for the Government, of Canada, teaching the Indian people new and modern techniques of construction.

Mrs. Brown showed beautiful slides and explained each dealing with Indian life and culture.

Mrs. Brown was thanked by Mrs. J. Darlington and presented with a donation to be used for her favorite project in India.

Two delegates will represent Holy Rosary at the convention May 29 and 30.

Successful Living

Mother Must Overcome Bereavement

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My mother took it very hard when my father was killed suddenly in an accident. This was a year ago.

I have a strong desire to live in Europe for a year or two and now I have a chance to do it! Trouble is, mother is very lonely and has bad nerves. If I leave her I will feel guilty. I tried to make arrangements for her to live at my uncle's or brother's home but she flatly refuses.

I want to make a life for myself but if she should have a nervous breakdown I think I'd blame myself forever after. — Tied

Dear Tied: I have seen too many young people ensnared by a mother's over-possessive love to urge you to give up your dream. Whether she likes it or not, your mother is going to have to stir herself and look to the future, rather than mourning over the past.

Find out from the doctor just what her condition is and if he thinks she can be left on her own, proceed with your plans. She may find that once you are gone there won't much fun in nursing her sorrow alone.

You must not drift, reluctantly into the vocation of lifetime nursemaid.

Dear Doris: We have a son 35 who lives with us and pays no board at all. I work full time and my husband is an old age pensioner.

When our boy moved in with us he paid board every month, although we often had to ask for it. Now he owes us over $1,000. When I asked him to do it! Trouble is, my husband is getting behind in his bills and he has enough money to go out several nights a week.

Why should I support an able-bodied man who is earning more than I do? — Overworked and Overdrawn.

Dear O. and O.: You should not. You seem to be acting like a Mrs. Milquetoast. If he refuses to pay board, plus back payments, find out more about those debts. Let him know you are prepared to have his wages garnished; and pack his bags.

* * *

Dear Doris: When we are on the bus a boy will come to sit with me, and he's a nice girl friend a look before sitting down. At that moment I see a jealous green eye from her face but I can't help it.

In the summer when we walk down the street, my girl friend waves at all the cars with boys in them, and I tell her to stop it but she doesn't. What can I do about this? — Miserable.

Dear Miserable: It seems you are popular and she is not. I'd say, just don't make a big thing of it. You can't keep her from being jealous, but you can drew her into your conversations.

She will just have to learn for herself that waving to boys in cars is not the way to make them fall all over you.

Lasagna for the Wedding Party

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you please give me a recipe for Lasagna for eight or 10 people that was in your column about four years ago? I depend on it but have mislaid the recipe and need it for a rehearsal party. — Mrs. M. A. Mc.

ANSWER: I am quite sure you are referring to Old Mill Lasagna and here it is. It was approved by so many readers will repeat it. I think you have had a good idea to serve it for a party after a wedding rehearsal.

OLD MILL LASAGNA
(serves 8 generously)
2 tbsps. butter
1 lb. ground lean beef (I used ground chuck)
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic finely chopped
One 15-oz. can tomatoes (or nearly 2 cups)
One 6-oz. can tomato paste
1 cup water
One 10-oz. can button mushrooms
1¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. oregano
½ pound lasagna (broad) noodles
8 oz. Canadian Mozzarella cheese (2 cups shredded)
1 lb. Ricotta (or cottage) cheese
About 2 oz. grated Parmesan cheese (half of a 4 oz. can)

In a very large frying pan or saucepan melt the butter and brown the meat lightly, breaking it up as it browns. Add onion and garlic and saute gently until they are limp. Add tomatoes and tomato paste, water (using it to rinse out tomato paste can), mushrooms, salt, pepper and oregano. Simmer 45 minutes uncovered.

Boil noodles in 3 qts. boiling water with 1 tsp. salt for 15 min. Drain through colander.

Have ready a large shallow baking dish. (I used a Corningware one 13 x 8¾ x 2¼".) Cover bottom with one-third of the noodles, cover them with one-third of the meat sauce, cover it with one-third of each of the cheeses. Repeat these three layers. Cover all with last third of the noodles. Now spoon all remaining meat sauce in a broad strip at centre, lifting up mushrooms to top. Around the meat in a border sprinkle remaining Mozzarella cheese, top it with the Ricotta or cottage cheese to give a white contrasting border and sprinkle this with remaining Parmesan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. ½ hr.

Quinte VON Involved In Home Care Program

Members of the Quinte branch of the VON met at the YMCA for their May meeting with a full quota of members present. President Grant Harrison, reporting on the national meeting at Ottawa, said that there are now 35 branches in Ontario and that VON nursing care is now available to 87 per cent of the population of the province and that one third of VON income is derived from participation in Home Care programs.

During the business period secretary Joan Gray reported on previous meetings and the treasurer's report was given to an average of 47 patients each month.

Discussion disclosed that extensive VON involvement in the newly instituted Home Care program has precipitated additional requirements in areas of personnel and transportation facilities. Donald Maybin was appointed chairman of the personnel committee and Rex Hunter was named to be in charge of the car committee. The by-laws were also voted upon and passed by those present.

Valerie Truax, reporting for the staff, listed a total of 620 visits during March and 720 visits during April giving nursing care to an average of 47 patients each month.

The inaugural meeting of the Quinte branch will be held on June 7, 1971 at the YMCA.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Oh, dear, what a hard fall. Are you hurt, honey? You must be careful so the hard floor won't bump you. Don't cry. I'll kiss the bump and make it well."

If a toddler falls and cries, give a helping hand or a bit of comforting. However, if you don't make a fuss over every bump and tumble, your little one will take most of them in stride.

Tiny tots, just learning to walk, take a lot of falls, but few of them really hurt. However, a child can become fearful of falling if Mother seems anxious about the results.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

"Which is the best deal — a plastic space capsul or a rubber duck?"

Stanfield and Givens Variety Club Comedians

TORONTO (CP) — Belly-laughs rolled through a Variety Club meeting here Thursday when Robert Stanfield and Philip Givens got together for lunch.

"The lovable Ed Sullivan of the jockey short set," was the description Mr. Givens tacked on the national Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Stanfield said the list of speakers was carefully worked out—"It's the first time in months that Phil Givens has known clearly who he was following."

Mr. Stanfield said Prime Minister Trudeau has an honest affection for Canada that was once a wilderness. "Why otherwise would he try so hard to restore these conditions?"

Of the resource policy of Energy Minister J. J. Greene, he said: "I understand he is going to publish his collected speeches—with the help of Masters and Johnson—called How to Really Enjoy Several Different Positions."

Mr. Stanfield then referred to the recent resignations of former cabinet minister Paul Hellyer and cabinet minister Eric Kierans:

He understood the prime minister was planning a visit to Ottawa "to do a head count." The Press Gallery had told him the only minister still with Mr. Trudeau was Billy Graham.

Of Finance Minister Edgar Benson:

"Who else in the government can terrorize the entire Liberal caucus simply by promising to stick with the government?"

Mr. Trudeau had said people can freely join the Liberal party and also freely leave. "I guess it's only between joining and leaving that there's no freedom at all."

Mr. Givens said there had been problems in the production of a Robert Stanfield wristwatch. "They couldn't find one that ran so slow and was always right."

The slow-talking Mr. Stanfield replied that he would never take a Senate appointment. "I would probably be a distracting influence in the Senate—I speak too fast for them."

Chippewas Want Fishermen to Pay

KETTLE POINT, Ont. (CP) — The Chippewas of the Kettle Point Reserve on Lake Huron have decided to enforce what they say are their reserve boundaries and charge non-band persons $2 a season to fish the lake.

The council adopted a bylaw last week that claims land underlying Lake Huron 10 miles out from the reserve located 22 miles northeast of Sarnia.

Chief George Shawkence said Thursday RCMP have been asked to patrol the restricted water boundary, and if they don't the band will.

'Keith, You Blew It' Editor Tells Davey

KITCHENER (CP — A Western Canadian newspaper publisher told Senator Keith Davey Thursday that the "flip, glib, smug" language in the first volume of his Senate committee's report on the mass media damaged an otherwise thoughtful assessment of the newspaper industry.

A. R. Williams of the Winnipeg Tribune made the comment during a panel discussion with Senator Davey on the three-volume report at the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference. Other participants were Toronto Star publisher Beland Honderich and T. E. Nichols, recently retired publisher of the Hamilton Spectator.

"Keith, I think you blew it," Mr. Williams said in commenting on the first volume, titled The Uncertain Mirror, which was a written summation of surveys and documents in the last two volumes. The report was published late last year.

Mr. Williams accused Senator Davey of using "language and subjective opinions" in The Uncertain Mirror which did not support the facts spelled out in the second and third volume.

"The thing is full of astounding cliches," said the Winnipeg publisher.

He applauded the second and third volumes as a useful guide to the industry and an accurate compendium of hitherto unknown facts about it.

Senator Davey said the report was written so that it would be readable. He noted that it is now completing its third printing. A fourth printing is scheduled and the full report will be used as a textbook in university journalism classes next semester.

"I think we state your case extremely well," the Liberal senator told Mr. Williams. "I'm not shaken by what I've heard today, and I don't think that the first volume is that wide of the mark."

Mr. Honderich said he agreed with most of Senator Davey's recommendations, if not the style in which they were presented in The Uncertain Mirror.

Smallwood Backs Vote Ousting Son

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood joined in a unanimous vote to bar his son from the legislature for a week Thursday night after William Smallwood threw punches at an opposition member on the floor of the house.

"I attacked him because he attacked my mother and if he attacks her again I will attack him again, either inside or outside the house," the premier's son said after the scuffle.

The 42-year-old Liberal member for Green Bay, was suspended after he hit William Marshall (PC—St. John's East).

Mr. Marshall, 35, received at least one blow near his ear. He warded off a second punch with an upraised arm.

The incident occurred when Mr. Marshall sat down after an attack on government housing policies during which he mentioned the premier's wife while reading a list of persons described as slum landlords.

"There's something I'm not going to put up with," William Smallwood shouted and strode across the floor to swing two punches at Mr. Marshall.

Harold Collins (PC—Gander), who was sitting nearby, grabbed Mr. Smallwood.

Bert Hemmens, the sergeant-at-arms, then took Mr. Smallwood by the arms and escorted him outside.

Grin and Bore It

One of Warkworth's 325 prisoners finishes production of a fine industrial bearing in the large Warkworth machine shop. Machinist trades are only one aspect geared to the economy job-training program at the Northumberland county complex.

A Close Shave

A prisoner-barber gives a fellow inmate a close shave in the institution's well-equipped barber shop. The Warkworth barber shop serves as a practical training centre in which prisoners may achieve government certified barbering licences.

Getting It Together

The garage at Warkworth is an ideal place for prisoners to learn a wide variety of automotive skills. Not only general vehicle repairs, but also front-end alignment and brake system maintenance courses have been added to the curriculum.

Productive Rehabilitation Warkworth's Prime Aim

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

WARKWORTH — With more individuals incarcerated in Canada on a per capita basis than in any other western nation, and a higher return - to - prison rate than many other countries, one can only conclude the Canadian penitentiary system is ripe for change.

Socio - economic considerations and the makeup of the individual offenders must share the blame, but the national prison structure and what it does is also accountable.

Change is coming and in some cases it is already here. In marked contrast to the maximum security bastions, a string of minimum security institutions, like the one four miles east of this Northumberland village of 600, are opening up.

Set in a striking landscape 15 miles north of Brighton, Warkworth Institute, on first appearances, resembles many of Ontario's university campuses, although it remains very much a prison.

Unlike other institutions where the administrations will admit their purpose is security, at Warkworth it is only one of the responsibilities.

Here the accent is on rehabilitation, through a program the success of which has not yet been fully documented.

Norman Meers, Supervisor of Training and Production at Warkworth, says it will take another four or five years before the results are known — the primary indicator being those leaving the institution adjust to society.

Training here is geared to provide the inmate with marketable skills, that necessary ingredient for gainful employment upon release. About half Warkworth's 325 population is enrolled in trade courses of various descriptions.

Not rock crushing and mail bag making but automotive skills, barbering, cabinet making, machine shop and upholstering number among the vocations.

Courses are designed to meet the training standards set by the Ontario department of labour. Most inmates will not advance to the tradesman level before they leave, but hours will count toward apprenticeship programs with private industry.

However, participants in such courses as barbering and welding have received their licenses while still at Warkworth.

Buildings (25 on them) and grounds are maintained by the inmate population in a maintenance system broken down into trades with a licensed instructor in charge of each. Thus, the routine of upkeep on the physical plant has also become a vehicle for giving practical instruction and work experience in sheet metal, masonry, plumbing, electricity and welding.

Hopes are high among some segments of the inmate population — in the shops, welders display their trade licenses and point to newspaper clippings that show their skill commands a $130 a week wage in Hamilton now.

Quality of workmanship meets a high standard, according to Mr. Meers. Classroom and shop equipment is the best and staff-student ratios are low.

There are only a limited number of items manufactured for sale at Warkworth. The bulk of produce is furniture for sale to government departments, non-profit-making institutions and prison staff.

Currently inmates are engaged in fulfilling a 250-item furniture order for Canadian Forces Base Trenton, with each piece carrying a price tag about two-thirds less than regular retail price.

The desks, upholstered chairs and chesterfield suites line the furniture shop here, each bearing a blue label "Quality Crafted at Warkworth Institute."

The prison barber shop, to which all inmates come for bi-monthly haircuts, is as modern as any in the region, facilitating adjustment to the job routine in the world beyond the gates.

New courses are established periodically, particularly when there is an obvious need for certain trades on the job market.

One was conducted last year in bench and structural assembly training in co-operation with the aircraft industry, resulting in six inmates leaving to take up employment in a Toronto aircraft plant.

Two others have started at Warkworth, one in the operation and repair of audio-visual aids, another in automobile front end and brake system maintenance.

The audio-visual program got off to a sound start with a 24-week course conducted by employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The institute now has its own mini TV studio and makes use of video-taping equipment to prepare televised lessons in a number of courses.

Three inmates involved in the audio-visual aids courses visited Belleville's Loyalist College last week to survey Communications Arts facilities there and Warden William Westlake indicates there will be an increased liaison with Loyalist in the future.

Mr. Meers explains he tries to plan prisoner training to meet the needs of the country's economy — if the prisoners' skills can be readily used by society, he has an advantage in his adapting to the world outside.

He says if something is obviously needed he will act up a course in it.

Another aspect of the rehabilitation scheme at Warkworth is the temporary absence program by which inmates are released for short periods while still serving their terms.

Prisoners are allowed to visit family at home, take job interviews and attend lectures and administration here contends it has had a high degree of success, despite the occasional incident arising when an inmate does not return.

During the past fiscal year approximately 925 absences were granted for a total of 1,900 days, realizing a "success rate of 99.2 per cent."

In the foreseeable future, Mr. Meers envisages a program by which selected prisoners may be allowed to go out into the community to work, while still serving their terms.

However, the institution's location, already object of considerable publicity for being picked out of federal political considerations, is somewhat of a drawback to this.

Warkworth's splendid pastoral setting is far removed from the mainstream of Canadian industrial activity. As one prisoner said, "the main thing wrong with the place is that it was not built in the Toronto - Hamilton area."

Nonetheless, in another way the setting is an advantage Here the inmate is not cut off from nature: he is not cut off from sun, sky, expanses of countryside; not overpowered by steel bars, concrete yards and high stone walls.

Prisoners have few complaints. Some say visitation privileges should be extended, others, the food should be improved.

The food is not too good but that is because it is institutional. It would be same in any large institution," said one.

Prisoners polled indicate that the lone of life at Warkworth is conducive to rehabilitation.

One who had served time at Kingston Penitentiary before transfer to Warkworth mentioned that here the majority want to make the most of their stay and that only a small minority do not. This, he said, is quite different from Kingston and contributes greatly to incentive.

Although any prison is a good place to learn more about crime, clearly at Warkworth such studies do not dominate but rather those that will lead to worthwhile employment.

With the inmate population composed of young offenders and specially selected older convicts generally serving their first sentences, the possibility is sharply reduced that those leaving here will be indoctrinated by die-hard criminals and with the enlightened rehabilitation program, the probability increases that their return to society a high percentage of skilled and useful citizens.

First Residents Have Arrived At Prince Edward Heights

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward Heights, the new department of Health complex for the mentally retarded, last week welcomed its first residents.

Administrator Robert P. MacKenzie said today a group of 22 selected boys and girls transferred from Smiths Falls now are learning "to live as human beings" in their new environment.

These residents, whose average age is 18 years, are housed in groups of four or five in homes once used as married quarters for the former Camp Picton. Thirty main staff members now are working at the complex where crewmen from the department of public works are continuing renovations and repairs.

"To bridge the gap between the past and the future could take a month's time for these new residents," predicted Mr. MacKenzie. He added these transferred persons must learn the fundamentals of group living typified by the complex. Newly arrived residents are enjoying county tours, boat excursions, outdoor barbecues, television programs and activities in the school gymnasium while adjusting to their surroundings.

The eleven - room school at Prince Edward Heights will not be opened officially until September when formal learning programs will be organized, Mr. MacKenzie said he expects 60 residents from the Smiths Falls adult progressive activity unit and 60 from its educational unit will be transferred to Prince Edward Heights by September on a progressive basis. The administrator observed students will attend classes for periods of time proportionate to their individual needs and to the ability of the complex to serve these needs.

Initially the school will be staffed by one principal and approximately 10 teachers who will supply the basic curriculum for the training of retardates. Teaching staff members are trained through a special education section of the department of education. The mental age and potential of each resident at Prince Edward Heights must be determined.

The complex will house two functional units — a training and rehabilitation unit incorporating some education factors for the moderately and mildly retarded and the Craig unit described as an activity unit for the more severely retarded with a limited potential for return to the community. Mr. MacKenzie said three years will be required for development of these program units "to a reasonable level."

In three years Prince Edward Heights is expected to employ about 450 persons and to accommodate approximately 600 residents. These residents will receive health care, educational and vocational training, recreation and good accommodations combined with religious and social services. The need for involvement also is stressed among these young people.

Residents at Prince Edward Heights will be integrated with the community as much as possible. The administrator said they will be encouraged to use the local library, shop in downtown stores and enjoy nearby beach facilities. "The ultimate goal is to get them back to the community," he declared. Residents will be prepared for community involvement and will be assisted in development to their full potentials.

Community education concerning the goals of Prince Edward Heights is stressed by Mr. MacKenzie. "The community must be educated through our performance to understand their guilt complexes surrounding the mentally retarded," he said. The administrator noted persons unfamiliar with the factors concerning mental retardation often hold retardates "at arm's length" much as tuberculosis patients once were ostracized.

As the complex begins to function, a full - time consultant psychiatrist, Dr. Mary Benians, will work with residents. She is now a staff member of the Kingston Psychiatric Hospital's mental retardation unit and offers clinic services to Picton and Belleville.

A complete health service will be established at Prince Edward Heights including a dentist's office, a pharmacy, and a 20 bed health service unit. "This is not a hospital, but a health service," stated Mr. MacKenzie. Specialists will be consulted when necessary and residents requiring hospitalization will receive treatment at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital. "It's a complex entity providing the entire gamut of services to these residents," summarized the administrator.

Under the Mental Health Act, Prince Edward Heights will provide out-patient services in the form of day care services and parental relief for retardates living at home in Prince Edward and other areas served by the complex.

A Kind of Fire Work

Frankford volunteer firemen Chuck Lawson, Carman Michaels and Kent Lewis spent yesterday evening unpacking crates of fireworks for a spectacular display to be held Saturday night at the public school on King Street. The 30-man village force sponsors the event annually in conjunction with the Lions Club fun fair which begins on the school grounds at 6:30 p.m.

Brock's Bat Leads St. Louis to Romp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lou Brock, St. Louis' streaking left fielder, cracked three hits Thursday night to stretch his batting string to 23 games as the Cardinals decked Chicago Cubs 10-0.

Zachary allowed only a third-inning double to Jenkins and a sixth-inning single to Chris Cannizzaro.

Willie Davis of Los Angeles extended the National League's second best current hitting streak at 19 games, stroking a fifth inning single in the Dodger success over San Francisco.

Don Sutton, given a 2-0 lead on Richie Allen's first-inning single, pitched a four-hitter as the Dodgers salvaged the last game of the three-game set.

Roberto Clemente and Manny Sanguillen hit home runs as Pittsburgh handed winless Jim Merritt his seventh loss of the year, Merritt, a 20-game winner in 1970, has not won a game for Cincinnati since last Aug. 28.

Dock Ellis pitched a six-hitter.

Sonny Jackson's two-run single capped a three-run burst in the first inning and Atlanta rode Tom Kelley's four-hitter to the victory over Montreal. The Braves' decisive inning came with two out as Hank Aaron singled, Orlando Cepeda walked and Darrell Evans followed with a single for the first run. Jackson then chased home Evans and Cepeda.

Aaron later hammered his 15th home run of the year and 587th of his career.

LOU BROCK

Brock's bash has victimized the National League's top pitching talent—the latest was hard-throwing Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins.

"I hit a ball that wasn't a strike the first time up," said

A member of the Bud Gill bantam house league lacrosse squad shows the checking form that brought his team a 4-0 win as he slams into his 707 Jet opponent in action at the Belleville Memorial Arena last night. The Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association resumed play last night after a layover from the long weekend, with three-bantam games and a novice contest being held.

Bud Gill Grounds Jets

The Bud Gill Appliance bantams refused to let the 707 Jets get off the ground last taking a 4-0 Belleville Minor Lacrosse league decision.

Harry Semark netted two goals for winners with single markers going to Mike Hall and Bill Grier.

In the tightest contest of the night, Bobs Sports squeaked past the Towers Food City Banatms 2-1 on goals by Paul Thompson and Brent Walmsley. The lone Towers tally was counted by Mike Crawford.

The other bantam game saw Simpson Sears utilize the hat trick performance of Kent Manning to stop Queens Motor Hotel 6-4.

Gary Riddell, Roger Chapman and Terry Coons scored in support of Manning's three-goal effort.

Steve Riddell was the big Dairy Queen gun with three goals with the other going to Shawn McDonnell. Gerry Healy notched both tallies for Bobs Sports.

Bantam Baseballers Double Up

Mel Barriage doubled up on Tyendinaga last night by taking an 8-4 Belleville Minor Baseball Association decision from the township team.

Pat McKinney hurled five-hit ball to get the victory, Peter McBride chipped in two singles each.

In tadpole play, Crawfords Metals walloped Motorland Chrysler 25-7.

Losing pitchers Allan Malkaws, Chris Clayton and David Maikaws were touched for 14 safeties and issued 17 walks.

Terry Kidd belted a homer, triple and single for the metalmen and Howie Dell unloaded a home run, double and single. Steve Emerson was the other big hitter rapping out a triple, double and single.

Seven Unlucky For Plainfield

Seven didn't prove to be a lucky number for Plainfield as they lost a 14-7 verdict to Dickens Voyageur Restaurant in Thurlow-Sidney Softball action last night.

Ralph Sine hurled nine-hit ball for the win, while Dave Garvin and Bob Smith allowed 12 safeties for the losers.

'Perk'-ed Up

In the other game contested, a four-goal effort by 17-year-old Henry Sonnevel carried Whitby Insurance to an 8-4 victory over Warkworth Institute.

Morch Hurler Throws Perfect Game

Bulpit Goes From Good to Better

Tuesday night, Wilson Bulpit gave a first - rate pitching performance as the Merch Mariners stopped the AOCO 5-3 in their Industrial Softball League opener.

In last night's contest with AOCO, however, Bulpit wasn't first-rate — he was perfect.

The towering righthander hurled a perfect game to lead the Mariners to a 7-0 victory over the American Optical squad. He fanned 16 of the 21 batters that he faced and allowed only two balls to be hit to the outfield in the seven - inning contest.

Bulpit has not walked a batter in the 14 innings that he has worked so far this season, and has fanned 27 men in the two games.

The game was a tight 2-0 contest until the sixth inning when the Mariners touched AOCO hurler Alec Belch for five runs to finish off the scoring.

Glynn Reynolds provided the heavy hitting support with a double and two singles, while Bulpit and Ray Marsh collected one of each. Steve Turner was the only other batsman with more than one hit, punching out a pair of singles.

Unemployment Insurance Commission kept pace with Mariners picking up their second win of the season in an 8-4 decision over the Post Office.

A five - run outburst in the fourth inning provided the winning margin for UIC.

Pete Hamilton posted the win with a five - hitter, striking out five batters and walking one, while McKinnon and Newell allowed 11 hits and three walks for the losers.

Healy had a homer, double and single for UIC, while Stinson and Goldfarb collected two hits apiece, Marriot belted a homer and double in a losing cause with Campbell picking up—two hits for the Post Office.

In the only other Industrial game played last night, the Intelligencer caught fire against the firemen in a 24-9 win. The winners plated seven runs in each of the second, forth and sixth innings.

Ron Culloden picked up the win for the Intell, giving up nine hits and walking ten batters, while setting five men down on strikes. On the losing mound, Perry Soule yielded 14 hits and six free passes, striking out seven batters in the process.

Terry Hiddleston cracked two doubles and two singles to pace the winners, while Culoden, Bill Hoard and Eric Emerson had three hits apiece.

Rollins 'Big Red Machine' Blanks Quinte in Opener

Pre-season predictions that Rollins Construction might be the "Big Red Machine" of the Commercial Softball League, appeared to be well founded as they opened their schedule last night with a 5-0 victory over Quinte Hotel.

Wayne McConnell, who burled Rollins to the Commercial finals last season tamed the Hotelmen with a two-hitter.

A walk and Ralph Plane's double in the first inning set the stage for a two-run — run base knock by Jerry Hill, which gave McConnell all the support that he needed.

Plane provided the other key blow for the winners when he blasted a long two-run homer to right field in the fifth inning.

The only serious threat to the Rollins righthander's shutout came in the top of the fifth when a walk and a single by Lyle Thompson put two runners aboard. McConnell pitched himself out of the jam, however, by disposing opposing hurler Bob Swan and getting leadoff hitter Dwight Rathwell on a grounder back to the mound.

Plane had a perfect night at the plate collecting a homer, double and single in three times at bat. Other Rollins hits went to Wayne

WAYNE McCONNELL

Singles by Thompson and Dale Duvall were the only safeties off McConnell, who struck out nine batters and walked only two.

Swan went most of the distance, before giving way to Pat Scollard in the bottom of the sixth. He was reached for seven hits and three walks while striking out five batters, before giving way to Scollard, who fanned both men that he faced.

The win left Rollins, Point Anne and the Ellis Juniors with identical 1-0 records, while Quinte has lost both starts and Howard and Robert is winless in its only game.

Phillies Slugger Deals in Doubles

Dave Joyce gave the Rollins Shell bantams "double trouble" last night rapping out five two-baggers in a 17-9 Belleville Minor Softball win by the Phillies.

Neil Branigan and Martin Thistel were the other top Phillies hitters with a homer each. Rob Chase tripled and singled in a losing cause for Rollins.

In the other bantam bout, Foley Supply and Machine Co. to an 18-11 victory over the slugged a pair of triples for the losers.

Danny Vance won a strike-out battle over Tim Soule in squirt play as his Doug Jones Jewellers team m a t e s picked up a 10-3 win over Ernie Tuck Appliances. Vance fanned a total of 13 batters, roundsman.

In the other squirt contest played last night resulted in a 25-1 win for Ziebart Rustproofing over Stephen Licence.

Latest CAHA Problem: What to Do with St. Catharines?

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association had no problems settling its 1971-72 budget or accepting the financial statement of last year's playoffs, but when it came to Junior hockey nothing was settled.

The CAHA's new board of directors, which will be announced today, will be faced with the problem of what to do with St. Catharines Black Hawks. The Ontario Hockey Association team refused to return to Quebec City for the sixth game in their Richardson Cup series with Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

Quebec was awarded the series and went on to win the Memorial Cup.

CAHA president Earl Dawson, who will resign his position officially today, said the decision of what, if anything, to do would be handled by the new executive.

The junior situation dominated most of Thursday's session although, as in earlier meetings this week, nothing was settled. The junior council proposal for a "super junior game" and elimination of the junior draft will be one of the topics of discussion at the board of directors meeting.

The Centennial Cup winner may challenge the Memorial Cup champion in a one-game playoff for the national junior title if the CAHA executive agrees.

Jack Devine, CAHA vice-president in charge of junior hockey, said Thursday the CAHA's agreement with the Western Canada Hockey League will not expire until next year so the two-level system of junior hockey will remain for at least another season.

The two levels of junior A hockey established last year with three leagues, the OHA, QJHL and the WCHL forming the first level and all other junior A teams the second level.

Devine said that the junior draft, which allows teams in the first level to draft two players each from clubs in the second level, will be negotiated with first-level teams.

He said the two eastern leagues in the top level have agreed to do away with the draft, but that the WCHL has said it will consider eliminating the draft only if the CAHA considers giving them the right to move players from one branch to another in Western Canada without the players being classified as branch-to-branch transfers.

Delegates at the plenary session approved a recommendation that the CAHA negotiating committee include in any further agreement with the National Hockey League that "draft payments for players at American colleges be paid to the last junior club played with in Canada."

Juckes also presented the financial statements from junior and senior playoffs. The Centennial Cup for junior A teams proved to be financial successful with $28,000 going back to the teams to be split on a pro rata basis according to revenue supplied.

Giacomin, Tremblay Break Boston Monopoly

Four Bruins on All-Stars

MONTREAL (CP) — Four high-scoring Boston Bruins won places on the National Hockey League all-star team announced today while New York Rangers provided the goalie and Montreal Canadiens took a defence spot.

JOHN BUCYK

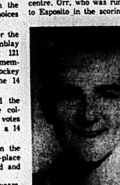
There was a rare tie for the defence position with Tremblay and Park each gaining 121 points in the poll among members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 14 NHL cities.

Tremblay was awarded the first-team berth since he collected more first-place votes than Park. Tremblay had a 14 to 11 edge.

Points were awarded on the basis of five for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third.



For the first time in 16 years, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is not a member of either the first or second team and for the first time in eight years, Bobby Hull is not on the first team.

Orr and Esposito are the only two holdovers from last year's first team. Giacomin was on the second team in 1969-70 and Park and Hull were both on the first team.

The appearance of four Bruins on the first team marked the first time in the 41-year history of the league that Boston has had four players named to the first team and the 13th time one team has had as many players selected to the first team.

It is only the fourth time one team has had all three forward positions on the first team.

Esposito, who scored 76 goals and 76 assists for 152 points during the regular NHL season, is making his third straight appearance as first-team all-star centre. Orr, who was runner-up to Esposito in the scoring race with 139 points, is making his fourth straight appearance on the first team.

J. C. TREMBLAY

Orr earlire copped the Hart Trophy for the league's most valuable player and the Norris Trophy as the NHL's top defenceman.

Hodge, a 195-point man during the regular season, is making his first appearance on the all-star team while Bucyk, a 116-point man during the second, was a second-team choice in 1967-68.

Tremblay was a second-team pick in 1967-68 and Plante is making his first appearance on either all-star squad since 1961-62. He is making his seventh appearance as an all-star, including four selections to the second team.

Both Keon and Cournoyer had one previous second-team selection—Keon in 1961-62 and Cournoyer in 1968-69.

Stasiuk Ousted As Flyer Coach

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Vic Stasiuk found the 1970-71 National Hockey League season coming back to haunt him Thursday. He was fired as coach of Philadelphia Flyers.

Stasiuk will remember last year as one of conflict in which his methods of coaching were criticized several times by his own players.

General manager Keith Allen, who made the announcement, said:

"It was something I hated to do. But it was something I felt had to be done for the good of the team."

The Flyers finished third in the West, then were knocked off four straight by Chicago Black Hawks in the quarter-finals of Stanley Cup play.

The strife between Stasiuk and his players loomed publicly late in the season when a team veteran, who asked at the time not to be identified, said he felt "I'm on a checkerboard."

"Apparently Vic doesn't understand the logic of keeping the same players together. I'm not saying he shouldn't make line changes once in a while, but to do it so often is stupid."

Sports On All Fronts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Rod Laver is within one tournament victory of the $200,000 mark in earnings for the 1971 season, but the 32-year-old Australian is scoffing for an even higher plateau — $1 million in career earnings. Laver has banked $707,365 since turning professional in 1963, including the $193,135 he has won this year. Besides Laver, other top money winners through May 22 on the World Championship Tennis tour include: Tom Okker of The Netherlands, $51,830; John Newcombe of Australia, $48,865 and Ken Rosewall of Australia, $33,603.

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League said Thursday he intends to talk with quarterback Joe Namath of New York Jets about his renewed interest in a swinging East side New York night spot. Rozelle said his intention to settle the controversial long-haired passer about the nightclub called Bachelors III stemmed from local newspaper stories suggesting that Namath was active in the club's management. Rozelle and Namath battled over Bachelors III almost exactly two years ago with the commissioner ordering the quarterback to divest himself of ownership because the club was being frequented by "undesirable elements."

REGINA (CP) — Doctors say Ed McQuarters, all-star tackle for Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference, may lose the sight of the eye he injured in a home workshop accident last weekend. Dr. Jack Turnbull said: "There is a strong possibility that he may not be able to play this year and there is the same possibility that he may lose the sight of his left eye."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Larry Ziegler shot a remarkable 62 Thursday for the first-round lead in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic. Ziegler's eight-under-par effort, his career best, matched the low 18-hole round on the professional tour this year and gave him a two-stroke lead over Frank Beard going into today's second round. Beard, winner of the New Orleans Open four weeks ago, used only 26 strokes on the greens en route to a 64 on the Colonial Country Club course, a 7,065-yard, par-70 layout. Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriguez were two more strokes back at 66. Will Homemuk, the only Canadian entered, was well back with a 75.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight Jerry Quarry's father-manager Jack said Thursday he was astonished to hear that Muhammed Ali is dickering for a fight with Jimmy Ellis "when we had an agreement to fight him" in July or August. "We met with Clay and his advisers here last week and reached an agreement for Jerry to fight him in the Houston Astrodome either July 25 or August 25," said the elder Quarry. "We shook hands and Clay said 'You have a deal'." "He's supposed to me a Muslim preacher but if he's backing out of this, his word is no good. Maybe he's running out because he's scared," Quarry continued.

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Gus Bodnar will be named general manager-coach of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series today. The newspaper says Bodnar will replace Eddie Reigle who left the club at the end of last season. Bodnar was fired as coach of Salt Lake Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League last season. He previously coached Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Jr. A series.

Eight More Bodies Are Dug Up in Orchards

YUBA CITY, Calif. (CP) — Eight more bodies of murder victims have been dug up in fruit orchards near here, bringing to 20 the number found along the Feather River, law enforcement officers said.

Thelatest discoveries made this the largest multiple murder case in modern American history.

Sheriff Roy Whitesker said three more bodies were found Thursday afternoon for a total of 15.

Later, a Yuba City policeman and a deputy sheriff said the number of bodies rose to 20 as night fell.

The sheriff called a news conference for 1 p.m. EDT today.

Whitesker had said the first 15 bodies were of transient farm workers or drifters ranging in age from 40 to 63. All had been hacked and slashed to death on the back of the head by a machete or similar weapon.

Isolated in a Yuba City jail and charged Wednesday with 10 of the murders was Juan V. Corona, 37, of Yuba City, who spent three months in a state mental hospital in 1956.

There still was no apparent motive for the macabre slayings.

Suspected graves have been discovered during general searches by lawmen and farmers in a mile-square area along the Feather River five miles north of Yuba City. Whitesker described them as "indentations" in the soil.

"We do believe there are some more areas that need to be checked out and searched," said the sheriff, who refused to discuss any aspects of Corona's involvement other than to say, "We're certain he committed the murders.

The largest previous multiple murder case was in 1966, when 16 persons were killed in Austin by sniper Charles Whitman shooting from a Texas University tower.

Court documents revealed Corona was confined to a state mental hospital in 1955.

Doctors certified him as a schizophrenic suffering from hallucinations and dangerous to himself and others. He was confined to a mental hospital for 90 days observation and then released.

It also was learned that Corona and his brother were sued for $200,000 in damages a year ago by Jose Romero Raya, who claimed the brothers severely beat him. A judge awarded $250,000 in still unpaid damages, calling the case "one of the most vicious to come before the court." No criminal charge was filed.

The first body was found May 20, eight were unearthed Tuesday and three more were discovered Wednesday.

Most of the men were fully dressed with their shirts pulled up over extended arms, but Whitesker said one victim had no trousers.

They were killed over a period of two months with the most recent slayings occurring within 48 hours of the discovery of the bodies.

Acquaintances of Corona said all the men he hired in his labor -contracting business were Mexicans or Mexican-Americans. None of the murder victims was.

Bismarck Sunk 30 Years Ago

LONDON (Reuter) — Thirty years ago today the pride of the German navy, the battleship Bismarck, was cornered and sunk off the coast of France after a week-long chase spread over two million square miles of water and involving nearly 50 British ships.

In the pursuit of the 50,000-ton floating fortress, 3,500 German and British sailors lost their lives. The ship's destruction helped ensure the safety of Britain's vital convoy routes to Canada and the United States for he rest of the Second World War.

The Bismarck, launched in February, 1939, six months before the outbreak of war, had a complement of 100 officers and 2,000 men. Its top speed was 30 knots and eight 15-inch guns made up its impressive armory.

On May 18, 1941, it sailed from Gdynia, Poland, on its first operational voyage accompanied by the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen. Their task was to harry Allied shipping and sever Britain's lifeline of fuel, arms and food from North America. Nine days later the Bismarck was at the bottom of the Atlantic.

Gene MacLellan Plans Quiet Summer of Songs

By MARVIN TZIVITZ

HALIFAX (CP) — If Gene MacLellan has his way, it's going to be a quiet summer at his home 25 miles outside of Charlottetown.

There won't even be a telephone to disturb him and his wife of three months. Canada, as he concentrates on his favorite pastime — songwriting.

There will be a few concerts at the Confederation Centre in Charlottetown and an appearance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto and maybe one or two television shows. But only a few.

"I just can't express myself with words unless I'm writing sheet down," the lanky composer said here recently during a break in the taping of CBC's Singalong Jubilee. "Man, I can't think on my feet."

Viewers of shows like Singalong Jubilee and Nashville North and fans who have attended his infrequent concerts will probably disagree. But they don't know what the 33-year-old composer of hits like Snowbird and Hand in the Hand goes through when the lights go on.

"The bright lights. Wow. They're far out. I get stage fright out in front of an audience. It's like I'm being crucified."

Song writing hasn't always been a way of life for Gene MacLellan. He only started writing in 1966 and only heard of national attention in 1970. Before that, it was a long, rough road.

The first stumbling block for the reserved young writer was a case of polio as a child after his family moved to the Toronto area from Val d'Or, Que. Those were the days before the Salk vaccine, and he suffered further effects from the disease when he was nine.

As a teen - ager he played with rock bands throughout Ontario in stuffy school gymnasiums and in ramshackle dance halls. He played with bands whose names are long forgotten — and was once injured in an automobile accident coming home from one of his countless appearances.

Following the accident, of which he is constantly reminded by a patch over his left eye, he left Ontario and show business for Prince Edward Island, where he just wanted time to think and figure out where he was headed.

On the island, he held a variety of jobs ranging from an

FALSE ALARM

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — Employees in an insurance firm were confronted by white-coated scientists at this Sussex seaside resort. The scientists ran geiger counters over the 70 clerks and typists, explaining that nuclear material had been lost in the area. Everyone was cleared. Later the truth leaked—the "scientists" were students in a rag stunt.

attendent in a psychiatric hospital to picking apples and potatoes.

Then the song writing began. First he sent out some tapes, including one of his million - seller - to-be, Snowbird. Then there were appearances on the Don Messer Show and Singalong Jubilee. And in 1969, a contract with Capital Records.

The albums, television appearances and royalties from song writing — Snowbird has been recorded by more than 30 artists — have meant a lot of money — more than a guy can make picking potatoes on P.E.I.

"I've never had a lot of money before and I don't need a lot now," he said. "I just want enough to get along on."

And a little peace and quiet to do some more writing.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What does one do with a stubborn father of 70? He has us all worried, but he simply refuses to go to a doctor.

When he was in his 30s, he was in a sanitarium for the treatment of TB. In all these years he has been apparently healthy. But for the past three months he has been coughing a lot. He says it's a "pipe cough," as he is always with a pipe in his mouth.

But as he has lived with us since Mother died two years ago, we have the health of our children to think about. Is it possible that tuberculosis has attacked him again after all these years? If so, aren't the rest of us in danger of catching it? — Mrs. U.

COMMENT: Under these circumstances, one brings the mountain to Mohammed. Bring the doctor to your home so he can work with your father to convince him that taking an X-ray is the least he can do for his daughter and grandchildren. While there, he can also take a sputum specimen for laboratory tests.

You make a good point, often overlooked by other children whose elderly parents live with them. Many an innocent child has developed tuberculosis because it was unsuspected in a grandparent.

Often attributed to a cigarette or pipe cough, or to a "cold that hangs on, or to "bronchitis" — it has been neglected for many months. By this time the germ has spread its infection to others.

Many think that when in the 70s one is too old to have tuberculosis. Untrue. Also wrong is the belief that once healed for so many years, TB cannot "come back again".

Don't let your resolve weaken, Mrs. U. Before the week is out, see that chest X-rays and other necessary tests are taken. Be as stubborn as your father.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My symptoms as due to "chronic anxiety". It is a tension problem manifested by tightened muscles and is worse during my early morning commuting, but continues in diminished degree through the rest of the day.

It is aggravated by the drive home, and gradually subsides in late evening. I work in a pressure environment, which doesn't help. But the commuting rush hour is rough, even for someone 40 years of age.

One tranquilizer taken just before leaving in the morning eliminates about 80 per cent of the anxiety. Would you continue with the tranquilizer? — Mr. J.

COMMENT: A tranquilizer which does not make you too drowsy, Mr. J, to interfere with your driving, yet eliminates most of your anxiety is something to be thankful for — use it as a crutch until your doctor finds and overcomes the reason for your anxiety.

I don't believe in "wholesale" use of tranquilizers. However, when they are taken in moderation and under the guidance of a doctor they can be truly helpful to many chronic anxiety, as you have discovered.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a few brown "liver spots" on my hands. They bother me. Do you advise surgery? — Mrs. A.

COMMENT: First, there's no proof that "liver spots" are due to any trouble in the liver. As for surgery, too many look upon the knife as a cure for practically anything.

Consult with a dermatologist. He may prescribe some "cover - up" preparation as they won't be so unsightly in your eyes. I doubt that he will suggest any surgical procedure.

* * *

For Mrs. M.: Generally speaking, a correct diet for a 5-year-old with a gallbladder that is "not working just right" would be one low in fats and fried foods — and six small meals rather than three regular large ones daily. What does your doctor say?

TB in Seventies Is Still Possible

Indian Claim to Isle Is Denied in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Following are highlights of Thursday's parliamentary committee meetings:

COMMONS

Broadcasting—Whether grants should be awarded to otherwise-qualified political activists is one of the most important questions now facing the Canada Council, Chairman J. G. Prentice said. The council oversees federal grants to organizations and individuals in an effort to foster the arts and develop research in the humanities and social sciences.

Indian affairs—A year-long Justice department study did not support claims by the St. Regis Indians that they own Loon Island in the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall, Ont., a department official said. Indians pitched tents on the island last year, saying it was theirs by natural and historic right.

Northern development—Public hearings will be held in Vancouver and Whitehorse in August on the proposed Yukon Minerals Act. The bill's provisions for mineral mining regulations and an increase in royalties to be paid by mining companies has aroused controversy in the Yukon.

National resources—Canada's coal industry has a strong future because of sales to the Japanese steel industry and non-crisis demand for North American energy, said John Delaney, a district president of the United Mineworkers of America. He urged government planning to ensure long-term supply and prevent environment-damaging strip mining.

Agriculture—The government's new advance payment plan for grains marketed by the wheat board was approved after highly-detailed discussion and three amendments dealing with procedures for repayment of cash advances to farmers.

Health—Robert Andras, minister in charge of the National Capital Commission, said there would be no relocation of the E. B. Eddy paper mill, across the Ottawa River from Parliament Hill, until alternative jobs were guaranteed for the plant's 2,500 workers.

Justice—George Street, chairman of the National Parole Board, said 37 pardons were granted under the Criminal Records Act during its first year of operation. He said it is taking an average of eight months for completion of the pardoning procedure.

SENATE

Commerce—CP Rail was authorized to build a $6.5 million, 62-mile rail line to the site of a proposed Alkaline Resources Forest Industries pulp mill near Dore Lake in Northwest Saskatchewan from the Meadow Lake area.

JOINT

Constitution—The Communist Party of Canada supported the idea of a united Canada, but only if based on the right of Quebec to separate if it wished, William Kashtan, secretary general of the party, said unity was needed to combat U.S. domination in Canada.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Drug 'Raids' Are Useless

I was having coffee with an old friend, a newspaperman from New York, when the raids are announced another government raid on "drug smugglers". My friend laughed when he heard it, and I asked him why.

It seems so ridiculous," he said. "You know, anybody can buy drugs, in New York, already, as openly as you can pick up a postcard. There are corners in Manhattan where the trafficking in drugs is quite open — you see packages and money being exchanged all the time."

I had heard this to be so, but didn't know it for a fact. "Don't the police try to run the pasters or the buyers?" I asked him.

"No, what good would it do?" he shrugged. "They'd just move the business to other corners. When the demand is so great, and the stuff is so available, some of the cops just look the other way, and the rest of them are on the take, it's all a great big lark there."

Then what's the point of all those drug-raids?" I asked.

"They look good on the record," he answered, "and they help satisfy the general public's anxiety that something is being done' to curb drug sales. It's a publicity game, and nobody in drugs is much — except, for a time, it may raise the price of dope, and lower the quality."

"Isn't there anything we can do about it, then?" I wanted to know. "Should we just turn our back on the whole problem, and let it grow?"

"Hardly anybody is serious about it," he explained, "because to be serious about the problem would take many millions of dollars more than we're willing to spend. We'd have to turn the whole problem around — from a criminal one to a medical and social one."

"What would that mean?" I inquired.

"It would mean getting the cops out and the doctors in. It would mean drastic rehabilitation centres, wider experiments with methadone treatment, perhaps the registration of addicts — and also that we recognize the distinction between 'hard' and 'soft' drugs on the market."

"Aren't we doing any of this?"

"Very little. The politicians talk about it, but don't appreciate much. It's cheaper and easier to stage raids and confiscate the stuff," which only drives up the price and makes it better for the big dealers. There's no effective way to enforce our present laws, because nobody agrees on what should be done, or how."

"Do you think we've got a real drug culture in the U.S.?"

"By using that dumb phrase," he smiled thinly, "you've put your finger on the whole problem — we've got drugs, but no culture to cope with them."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For May 29

Your birthday today: Philosophic attitudes develop this year to help balance increasing stress coming from your surroundings. People you did not invite into your world. Competition exists but on a different more subtle basis than before. Today's natives have to be left alone while in the midst of work. Many are artistic, others make an art form of some conventional profession.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Surprises mark the day. Invest time in your favorite hobbies, sports and games. Bring friends along and make introductions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): There is a threat of an upheaval or easy way to bring up the serious discussion of money but it seems you must. Get into it early.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Inviting younger people on their terms may be difficult but has to be tried. Results are surprisingly good, exciting.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Self-serving remarks can spoil a triumph. Play it straight and for a longer-range goal. Leave choices open for later use.

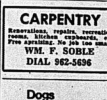
LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): An old relationship takes on a new meaning as a meeting of minds on controversial ideas clicks. You're in business, so to speak, for at least a mental adventure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Specialize, talk shop over lunch or tea. Some aspect in your field is possibly never printed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Move along enthusiastically; don't take resistance too seriously! Have a definite plan ready, although last minute arrangements may seem needed for good progress.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Most situations deserve thought, right comment, but not all. Save a serene and gentle side for those you care about.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Be yourself. There's nobody quite like you and if you put all of your drive into your actions, it's better than copying a style. Find time to share sports, hobbies.



CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Short trips, particularly for shopping, are inconvenient. Your own errands are simple enough but not those added from other sources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Start with a smile and a greeting. State your needs carefully; learn to charm people. You get more mileage in such an approach.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): A brief gap in your web of relations is filled, just long enough to initiate a series of growth experiences. Seeking schools for this learning would never achieve as much result.

Grossman Challenges Andras to Take Over Ontario Housing

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, minister responsible for Ontario Housing Corp., challenged Robert Andras Thursday to take over Ontario's program if he thinks he can do a better job.

He made the statement in the Ontario legislature in reply to what he called Mr. Andras's "derogatory remarks related to the provincial housing program." Mr. Andras is federal minister responsible for housing.

Mr. Grossman said it had been suggested at a national conference of public housing tenants that the federal government pays most of the costs of the program and therefore could dictate policy to the provinces.

Mr. Andras was also quoted as saying that tenants should have representation on the Ontario Housing Corp., and not just on advisory boards.

The federal minister also suggested that rents be fixed for a two-year period.

Mr. Grossman said that if Mr. Andras is ready to have tenants control the operation, "then, sir, I invite him to become the landlord."

"Let him take over our operation so that he will not only, as he claims, pay the piper but call the tune."

He said Mr. Andras' recommendations are "uninformed, naive and totally impractical."

If Mr. Andras was speaking for the federal government, "I am ready within 24 hours to negotiate with him to take over all our units."

Mr. Grossman was met with jeers from the opposition as he reviewed what he called Ontario's "very successful program" in public housing.

He said that because Ontario receives only repayable loans from the federal government and must pay all administrative costs, the program costs the province much more than it does the federal government.

Mr. Andras had said longer fixed-rate leases would enable low-income tenants to be able to pay things like dental bills, but Mr. Grossman said the best way the federal government could assist would be to embark on a program of full employment and more assistance to those on fixed incomes.

The opposition laughed when Mr. Grossman said that "to ensure continued co-operation and better understanding, I am meeting with (him) Andras in the near future."

In other business Thursday:

—Premier William Davis announced Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, will deliver the keynote address at Ontario's conference on economic and cultural nationalism, June 23-25.

—A bill to provide increased protection for the consumer was given second reading as opposition critics said it should have been introduced earlier.

—The government announced increased allowances to senior citizens who lost money as a result of changes in federal legislation.

—The Ontario Alliance of Christian Schools reiterated its bid for increased government aid to separate schools in a statement presented to Education Minister Robert Welch.

Teen-age Welfare Rules Revised

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has decided that persons under 18 living away from home may no longer be granted welfare if their parents are willing to support them at home and provide a good environment.

Local welfare administrators will have the power to decide whether applicants under 18 qualify for welfare under new regulations in the general Welfare Assistance Act, Thomas Wells, provincial social and family services minister, said Thursday.

However, there was no mention of action against certain immigrant groups, such as U.S. draft-dodgers, who Mr. Wells earlier in the week had suggested may be coming to Ontario to take advantage of what he described as a "welfare haven."

The new regulations, passed by the cabinet Wednesday, allow local welfare administrators to assess the suitability of a young person's home, Mr. Wells said in a statement to the legislature.

An applicant under 18 will be granted welfare if the local welfare department finds "that it would not be in the young person's best interest to return to the parental home," Mr. Wells said.

One change gives the welfare administrator discretion to request the applicant to obtain a statement from his school that it is desirable for him to continue his studies.

"The intent of this amendment is to ensure that needy students are eligible for general assistance when they are making an effort to do well in school and should stay there rather than be forced to quit and seek work," Mr. Wells said.

John Anderson, Metropolitan Toronto social services commissioner, said that the regulations, which will affect several hundred Metro recipients, will go into effect immediately.

He said the intent of the new regulations is to prevent family breakups. Under the previous regulations, he said, young people were often induced away from home "by the guarantee of income."

He said the new regulations will enable local welfare departments to act as a third party in family disputes.

He said any individual who does not agree with the decisions of the local welfare department can appeal to a board of review.

Nixon Asks Income Tax Reduction

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Nixon challenged the Ontario government Thursday to reduce income taxes, saying the province has the power to do so under provincial statute.

Mr. Nixon was speaking in the Ontario legislature during the debate of a yellow, annual amendment to the Income Tax Act to set the provincial rebate at 28 per cent. This is the rebate Ottawa returns to the province from its collection of income tax in Ontario.

The rate has moved from 10 per cent in the 1950s to 28 per cent in 1967, where it has remained.

Mr. Nixon said the provincial government says taxes should be reduced, but won't use its own legislation to do it.

House Hears Trudeau Defend Soviet Pact

Tradeaus Return

Prime Minister and Mrs. Trudeau are greeted at Uplands airport in Ottawa, Friday, on their rejurn from the Soviet Union. (CP Photo)

Russia Pushed For Protocol

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's trip to the Soviet Union, and the protocol on Canadian-Soviet consultation which was its most tangible immediate result, could prove a watershed in Canada's foreign policy.

On the other hand, it could prove a harmless gambol of vast inconsequence.

There is evidence that the document signed in Moscow last week by Trudeau and Premier Alexei Kosygin was rather hastily prepared, as diplomatic protocols go.

It also appears clear that the initiative came from the Soviet side, though Canadian officials insist its genesis is not that easy to trace.

Two different reporters accompanying Trudeau were told by two separate, official sources that the Russians proposed the idea of such a protocol only about a week before the prime minister's 11-day visit began.

Other sources disputed this. "It was more than a week," commented one Canadian official.

Yet Canadian correspondents were told semi-officially that the protocol was proposed "in general terms" only the day before it was signed, and that remaining details were completed in a few minutes the day of the signing, May 18.

And informants close to the negotiations conceded that it was the Russians who produced the first working draft—tending to confirm it was they who provided the initial impetus.

Correspondents were given only about six hours' notice that Trudeau and Kosygin would be signing "important documents," but there was no hint of what these were.

This contrasts with the considerable advance publicity given the Canada-Soviet agreement on co-operation in the industrial application of science and technology, signed earlier this year in Moscow.

Canadian and Soviet officials took turns reassuring one another through most of the prime minister's pilgrimage through Russia that they really meant business in negotiating the protocol, which envisages consultation and co-operation on international and bilateral issues.

But Mr. Trudeau himself appears less than certain about all the ramifications.

What is at the back of their minds is the question," he remarked to reporters en route home to Ottawa Friday, referring to the Russians.

Asked whether he was satisfied he was not being "used" by the Russians, Mr. Trudeau replied that time will tell which side got the most out of the agreement.

"Talk that the Liberal ship is sinking is utter rubbish!"

Pilot Tackles Hi-jacker Walking From Airliner

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP) — A former New York city policeman who said he had wrapped himself in explosives was overpowered today as he attempted to flee a hijacked jetliner with $50,000.

The hijacker, identified as James Bennett, 39, of Commack, N.Y., was hurled to the ground by senior pilot John Orndoff of Eastern Airlines as he walked toward two small bags illuminated by the glare of a waiting automobile's headlights.

O'Neill, 52, had stood quietly to one side of the runway. He said he "seized the hijacker up" and, after deciding he "really wasn't armed," walked until he was close enough and then "just grabbed him in a good old headlock and wrestled him to the ground."

About 20 United States customs agents, airport personnel and Nassau police then subdued Bennett and stripped him as they searched for the explosives. They found none.

He was whisked to a Nassau hotel as Bahamian police said he would be turned over to U.S. marshals today to be returned to New York.

The hijacking began hours before as Captain Eugene Sullivan and his other five crew members aboard the EAL 727 jetliner prepared to land their 123 passengers at New York's La Guardia Airport after a flight from Miami.

Bennett, identified by Deputy Police Chief Joseph Collins of New York as a 10-year veteran of New York's motorcycle force, ordered a stewardess to tell Sullivan to land and stand by for further instructions or he would blow the plane up with explosives he said he had strapped around his waist.

Sullivan said Bennett told him he didn't want to hurt any passengers.

"He gave no reason why he wanted to go to Nassau. . . . He said he wanted a representative of the Irish Republican Army to meet the aircraft in Nassau and said he also wanted a half a million dollars in cash from Eastern Airlines. . . ."

Eastern said $500,000 had been placed in a bag at the car after being flown from Miami in the small plane that O'Neill, vice-president in charge of operations, had used to come to the scene.

Conservatives Suspicious

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau described Canada's new protocol with the Soviet Union Friday as an important document designed to put relations between the two countries on a more structured and orderly basis.

Mr. Trudeau addressed the Commons three hours after landing in Ottawa following an 11-day tour of the Soviet Union.

The prime minister's enthusiasm for the protocol contrasted with suspicion voiced by conservative speakers and some pooh-poohing from he New Democrats.

While Mr. Trudeau said he harboured "no naive belief" that the protocol would suddenly result in a relationship of "sweetness and tender feelings" between the two countries, the document went some distance towards placing Canadian-Soviet consultations on the same basis as those with Britain, the United States and Japan.

He reiterated a comment he made during the tour: Canada had clearly taken the initiative to tighten ties of friendship, eventual commerce, information and advice that would better affirm Canada's independence—"a Canada which must not be in a situation of excessive dependence with any state or group of states. . . ."

There remained many fundamental differences with the Soviet Union, he said. But the only way to resolve them was to increase contact and effort at understanding.

The prime minister brought with him some comments on specific issues that opposition members had urged him to take up on the trip.

On grain sales, he said Canada's sale of wheat to the USSR was reviewed in Moscow, and he was given assurance that the Soviet government will treat Canada as a preferred source of supply, applying here first when it has to import.

On Jewish emigration from the U.S.S.R., Mr. Trudeau said he was assured by Premier Alexis Kosygin that his government had allowed "significant numbers" of Soviet Jews to leave for Israel in past months —a statement the prime minister said had been corroborated by independent sources.

Mr. Kosygin had also assured him he would give personal attention to a list of names of Soviet citizens who might be allowed to come to Canada to reunite families.

The premier had said his government would not place "any justifiable barriers" in the way of such persons.

The two had also agreed that Canada's fears that the Swiss fishing fleet off the Canadian

Canada Offers NATO Training Facilities

BRUSSELS (CP) — A one-day meeting of defence ministers from most NATO nations Friday produced a Canadian offer of facilities for training ground troops under certain conditions and indications that an American drive to elicit greater military participation by European countries is succeeding.

Canadian Defence Minister Donald Macdonald told the meeting Canada is prepared to make available facilities for use by other NATO nations in training ground combat forces as long as the cost of such training is borne by the countries involved.

Sources in the minister's delegation indicated that a defence establishment at Suffield, Alta., is the most likely location to be used for such training. The sources also indicated that the British are the most likely users of such facilities.

Eyes on Napanee Court

Public May Get View Of Riots at Trials

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The controversy over last month's rebellion at Kingston penitentiary continued to boil this week and matters are not expected to cool in the near future as trials and a hearing into the riot are ready to begin.

Next Thursday, 11 guards at the new Millhaven penitentiary will appear in court in Napanee, Ont. on charges of assaulting prisoners involved in the riot.

Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer told the commons Friday the 11 guards have been assigned to positions where they will have no direct contact with the prisoners.

Their trials may provide the public with a glimpse of what happened during the riots that it will not get from the in-camera hearings of the three-man commission of inquiry. Those closed hearings will begin June 7.

In another development Friday, Frank Howard, NDP member of Parliament for Skeena, said prisoners being kept in isolated quarters at Kingston fear for their lives because of "careless and irresponsible" statements made by Mr. Goyer.

Meanwhile, these isolated prisons, reported to be about a dozen, were said by an informed source to have planned a hunger strike Friday.

However, a prison official said Friday night that the prisoners "cleaned their supper dishes pretty good."

Mr. Goyer said he is awaiting the provincial police report that precipitated the charges against the guards. He said disciplinary action hadn't been taken against them but they had been moved to other duties pending outcome of the trial.

Municipalities May Be Made Liable To $1,000 Penalties for Littering

TORONTO (CP) — A government advisory group has recommended legislation which would impose a maximum fine of $1,000 on municipalities and $100 on individuals found guilty of littering public property.

The Littering Control Council of Ontario, an ad hoc committee set up in December, 1970, recommends legislation making municipalities or agencies responsible for providing litter receptacles in public areas and for litter collection.

In a report tabled in the legislature Friday by George Kerr, energy and resources minister, the council recommended government subsidies for organizations which conduct educational campaigns to preserve the environment.

The report—termed "non-controversial, basic and obvious" by Mr. Kerr—said divergent views of its members prevent agreement on a number of tougher alternatives.

These included:

—A general tax on all goods sold on packaging which is related to the littering problem or:

—A11 carbonated beverage containers to be returnable with minimum fixed refund or:

—A tax on all non-reusable beverage containers and minimum deposits on reusable carbonated beverage containers, or:

—All glass carbonated beverage containers to be of reusable type.

Mr. Kerr in an interview called these alternatives the "guts" of the report.

He said it was easy to endorse the basic program but he could not say he endorses the alternatives—"they say ban the bottle" —which will need considerable study by the department.

"It was the feeling of industry members on the council if we have a forceful educational program it may not be necessary to have the other stricter provisions," he said.

The chairman of the council was J. C. Thatcher, deputy minister of energy and resources management.

Council members included representatives of can and bottle manufacturers and of major businesses using packaging. Also included were representatives of citizen anti-pollution groups and a student.

The "basic program" would include an educational campaign with the aim of making littering a socially unacceptable practice, the report says.

Belleville Will Have Own Opportunity Plan

"The way it's shaping up right now for the grants we received for the Opportunities for Youth," said Hugh Pepper of Loyalist College, "we are going to be running a miniature Opportunities for Youth program in Belleville.

"The plan was meant to be flexible in the beginning and now it has become supple enough that we can and did, hold a meeting with interested people to let them propose a project, go home and research it, bring back their findings and then Charles Smith (employed by the project) and myself will determine the workability of the individual projects."

The meeting was held in the offices of the United Community Services and displayed that "young people have a great awareness of the needs of all age groups within the city," said Mr. Pepper.

Out of the meeting came the proposal that aid would be given to the youth theatre, pertaining to their summer program of workshops and productions, "It is better to combine with the theatres and work together than try to start a similar program from scratch."

Eighteen people approached Mr. Pepper and Charles Smith with projects. These will be returned with written briefs next Tuesday evening.

"We want to put a little pressure on these people to see if they are going to produce under work conditions," said Mr. Pepper. "We don't want to throw the money away.

"We are simulating the federal program so that as many people as possible can approach the committee with their ideas and let these funds be shared fairly for the various, short term, worthwhile projects," Mr. Pepper said in closing.

Dignitaries Share Graduation

Overseas Executives On Tour

The tour will conclude on June 16.

The main purpose for holding their meeting outside of the United Kingdom is to let B O C management gain, through observation and open discussion, a first-hand knowledge of the political, economic and cultural environment in which various member companies operate, for the purpose of short and long range planning.

BOC is a source of senior opinion and the eight executives involved act as an advisory committee to Leslie F. Smith, group managing director. Members include R. C. Hesketh-Hones, Peter Lister and John Williams, BOC managing directors, J. B. Sutherland, group managing director of African Oxygen, Keith Hartley of Indian Oxygen, J. A. PM Defends Pact

East Coast is taking too large a catch deserves further talks.

Mr. Trudeau's speech came during a well-timed opposition day debate on a motion from Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hillsborough) that regretted the government had not submitted the protocol to the Commons for study.

Before the prime minister spoke, Stanley Knowles (NDP —Winnipeg North Centre) cautioned the Conservatives not to go on any "red-baiting" tangents that would diminish efforts to build bridges between countries, especially since the protocol really didn't amount to much more than trivia anyway.

He compared the document to an agreement between juniors at a summer camp that they would exchange pen-pal letters.

Quinte Students On National TV

TWEED — Area residents will be able to see a number of Centre Hastings Secondary students and staff on television over the next two Sundays.

Last winter two programs were produced by the Communication Authority of Ontario involving Centre Hastings Secondary School. At Madoc, (Tweed students also attend there).

The program is "Chalkdust" and can be seen on Channels 11 and 12 at 9.00 a.m. Sunday mornings.

On Sunday, May 30 at 9.00 a.m. the program deals with the Leadership Seminar held at Dorset Forest Technical School involving some 50 students from Centre Hastings Secondary School.

The second program will be aired on Sunday, June 6, at 9.00 a.m. This program deals with both the Elementary and Secondary Schools. It pertains to improving internal and external communications.

If the government wanted to us its good external affairs minds seriously, he said, it should apply them to ending the Vietnam war or the conflict in East Pakistan.

Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin said the speeches and fanfare that had surrounded the signing of the protocol had left the impression that it signified a major shift in Canadian external policy, which many Canadians wouldn't support.

The prime minister was not correct in suggesting that there was "universal approbation" in Canada over the signing of the protocol.

Mr. Trudeau's remarks had not clarified the government's intent for the document.

On the other hand, no one should say that the Conservatives were not in favor of discussions and negotiations with any country in the world.

Mr. MacQuarrie contended that any time Canada signs an agreement with a big power it should have it before Parliament. Anything less was contempt of Parliament or a deliberate evasion of the importance of the agreement.

But External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the protocols had been signed with the U.S., Japan, Mexico, France, Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Tunisia, and none of them had been brought before Parliament.

In fact, he said, the Japan agreement had been made in 1961 under the Conservative Diefenbaker government.

At one point during his speech from a prepared text Mr. Trudeau spoke with a rare warmth about the trip concerning the Soviet people's wish to visit Canada.

"No one can travel in the Ukraine and not absorb the instinctive and unanimous desire for peace on the part of a people who lost nine million of their number during World War Two. . . .

"No one can walk through the cemeteries of Leningrad and view the mass graves of tens of thousands of residents . . . who died of starvation during the cruel 900-day siege and not understand that the Russian people fear deeply the return of the action of that which no Canadians, fortunately, have ever suffered.

"The scourge of a total conflict do not regard war as an abstract concept, as a glorious pursuit, or as a credible means of resolving disputes."

Traffic Conference Winds Up With Resolutions, Elections

The Ontario Traffic Conference, held for the first time in Belleville this week, wound up its four - day session at the Four Seasons Motel Friday afternoon with consideration of resolutions and election of new officers.

One of the resolutions passed calls for legislation requiring that proof of insurance be carried by the driver of a motor vehicle or that it be carried in some readily accessible place in the vehicle so that it can be produced on the demand of a police officer.

The resolution pointed out that under present legislation no responsibility is placed on the driver of a motor vehicle to produce insurance proof and that because of this police officers have to spend many hours in investigating cases of non - production of insurance.

The OTC recommends to the Ontario government that an amendment to the act be made calling for proof of insurance to be carried by the driver.

Another resolution passed by the conference asks that legislation be enacted requiring the installation of lights on bicycles to install safety equipment and forms of identification at the time of manufacture.

Also asked is that the Canadian Standards Association be asked to study bicycles in order to set standards for bicycles and that Section 47 of the Highway Traffic Act be amended to allow the inspection of bicycles as well as vehicles.

The conference took no action on a Sault Ste. Marie resolution asking that the Ontario government and Minister of Transport be petitioned to defer, at least for one year, the banning of studded tires.

The argument was that winter driving conditions, especially in Northern Ontario, are improved significantly by the proper use of studded tires.

Also approved was a recommendation from the technical committee asking that issuance of permits for vehicles in excess of 65 feet be severely restricted and that the whole matter of vehicle length and maneuverability in relation to the type and location of the roadway be studied.

The conference referred back for further study a resolution from the Legislation and Enforcement Committee asking that drivers of school buses be housed in a separate driving compartment "free from all the noise and distraction" and also that the bus driver act in the same way as a school crossing guard in escorting children across the highway.

The effect highways and autos have on the environment saw much discussion during the convention and one of the resolutions passed called for the word to become the fourth "E" of the association's concerns.

The other three "E's" stand for the words, Engineering, Enforcement and Education.

Conference president John R. Crosby said that the 20 resolutions tabled was the greatest number ever considered by the convention.

The 1973 convention will be held in Oshawa while the 1972 convention decided last year) will be held at Windsor.

This year's conference, which attracted a total of 170 delegates and visitors from all parts of the province, was highlighted by Hon. Charles

"A COMPLETE LIFE STYLE" . . .
We do not apologize for the "Good News" of JESUS — nor do we hide or compromise its truths. Jesus is for all men. He is all things to all people. He is in fact the last thing still standing when all else has fallen. We are talking about a CHRIST who can liberate us not only from the political, social, economical and cultural systems of the world, but also from the very hangups within ourselves, which keep us from being truly liberated. We are talking about a much heavier program than a mere political take over. We are talking about a complete life style — a new creation — a spiritual birth just as real as your physical one.

Your Work on Census Will Help Plot Future

By JUDY SCHRIEDER

Now that census questionnaires have been distributed and you've started to "count yourself in" wouldn't you like to know what the Dominion Bureau of Statistics does with those millions of forms?

Thanks to some amazing new machines, the bureau is not smothered by paper work. An ingenious machine feeds the questionnaires, one at a time, on an average of 120 pages per minute, onto a photographic table, turning the pages automatically until each has been photographed by high - speed automatic cameras poised directly overhead. Each microfilmed roll will record about 1,800 questionnaires.

The negative microfilm is then fed to FOSDIC (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computers). This machine developed especially for census work can "read" the filled-in dots, which are now only transparent specks on the film. At the rate of about 450 pages a minute.

FOSDIC converts the Census facts into electronic impulses on magnetic tapes. The magnetic tapes produced by FOSDIC will then be fed into the computer's memory bank, which may be likened to a series of pigeon - holes, each rebeiving one kind of fact and at the same time keeping a running total. In this way, the computer builds up cells of facts about such items as age groups, income, places of residence and so on. Under instruction by a programmer, the computer can reach into a number of pigeon-holes at the same time and reel off the required statistics through a high speed printer attached to the computer.

Although the names, addresses and phone numbers remain on the microfilm record, they are never coded into the computer. The original questionnaires are shredded and burned.

If you're worried about the confidentiality of census information, DBS provides for such privacy by the laws enforced in the Statistics Act.

Just as the law requires everyone to provide accurate information, it requires all DBS employees to keep such information in absolute confidence. The penalty for breaking the oath of secrecy is a fine of up to $500, a jail sentence of up to six months, or both. In the history of census - taking in Canada, no employee has ever been charged with disclosing such information.

People have occasionally expressed concern that the information which they give to the census department could find its way to other government departments; however, no other document and no police force is ever allowed to have census information concerning individuals.

There is only one exception to all this. Where he has good reason, a Canadian resident, or his legal representative, may ask for data of - birth information he has provided about himself in a past census. The fact is that the census is not interested in you as a person, but only in the facts which you supply, in order that statistics may be compiled.

Business planning, government policies, civic development, production requirements in many fields, all are dependent on an accumulation of precise facts about people.

The census will indicate how well Canada is progressing in such areas as income, housing, education; it will provide information essential to the planning of schools, the building of streets and highways and the designing of recreational facilities. Industry will get information on population characteristics that will help it plan for a better and more efficient production of commodities. Governments will have new and better information on which to base policies in the fields of health and welfare services, agriculture, urban renewal, transportation systems and regional economic development.

In addition to providing the official population count, the Census of Canada tells us who we are, where we are and how we are getting along. Most important of all, the census indicates where we are going.

R.E. Krock, Mason

"More tangible evidence of the growth rate of the city of Belleville," said Mayor J. R. Scott, as the cornerstone was set into place commemorating the projected opening of the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing. R. E. Krock, director of hospital operating standards for the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, formally set the stone and later said, "more facilities of this kind are needed to give adequate training to our hospital staff." "The School is slated to be open and operating in September of this year and will house 140 students, and will contain classrooms and offices", stated Mr. John Deacon, chairman of the Belleville General Hospital steering committee. "The School, when finished," said Mr. Deacon, "will cost about $1.5 million."

Arthur J. Clare

After 41 Years, A.J. Clare Retires

Arthur J. Clare, head of guidance and dean of residence at the Ontario School for the Deaf officially retired last night, having spent his entire teaching career of 41 years on the Belleville school's staff.

At the annual banquet of the teachers' association held last night at Club Canara, Dr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf and Hyalie Bryant, assistant dean of residence presented Mr. Clare with an oil painting by Canadian artist, Frank Shirley Panabaker on behalf of the association.

Mr. Clare, born near Thomasburg and educated in Belleville area schools, joined the OSD teaching staff upon graduation from Toronto Normal School in September, 1929. During his early years on staff he trained as a teacher for the deaf under Miss Catherine Ford and Miss E. Deanard and later, in 1933-34, he completed his second required year of professional training in Peterborough.

M. Clare continued his studies, obtaining a specialist certificate in guidance and was appointed to head the school's guidance program in September, 1953.

In this capacity, he not only taught group vocational guidance and co-ordinated the school's part in co-operating with placement officers on the Canadian Hearing Society in their annual work of placing senior and graduate students in summer and permanent employment, but was responsible for much of the advising of the students' personal, residential and disciplinary problems.

When the residential staff and program grew to the point of requiring a full-time head, Mr. Clare was appointed the first dean of residence in 1958.

In his capacity as dean, he developed more opportunities for senior students, including a snack bar program managed by students. He assisted in development of the first summer training course of residential staff of the three provincial schools for the blind and the deaf and established and conducted in-service staff training as well.

Mr. Clare has many hobbies. He is a stamp and coin collector, a family historian, having written and published a history of the Clare family, an active Mason, past master and past secretary of the Temple Lodge, Belleville and nominee for district deputy grand master. He has been for many years an active member of boards of Bridge Street United Church and at present is assistant secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare have two daughters, Mrs. Andrew (Mary Catherine) Robb of Belleville and Mrs. Donald (Linda) Hargest of Oshawa.

Guest speaker at the banquet was C. Holmes. Also in attendance was W. R. Clarke, director, school for the blind and deaf branch with the Ontario department of education.

Census Anomaly

Not enough, it would appear.

According to the instruction booklet the only people who see census questionnaires are employees of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics who have taken an oath of secrecy to ensure that all census information remains strictly confidential. Under a law passed by Parliament, the booklet adds, no other individual or government department, has access to the information.

This provision ,however, does not seem to cover census representatives who, in the case of those whose forms are not sent in an enclosed envelope o Ottawa, are empowered to check entries and, if errors or omissions are found, may review the questionnaire with the individual.

By what manner or means does this ensure privacy of the financial and other information which must be included in the longer of the two questionnaires sent out?

This is not privacy at all and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, whose brainchild the census is, is either very naive or very stupid in imagining so.

It is probably too late now to remedy this situation. Ideally, everyone should have had the form mailed to them, with an enclosed envelope, and the information sent direct to Ottawa.

Destination Utopia

Former cabinet minister Paul Hellyer's Action Canada movement has estimable objectives. The trouble is that many of them, given the economic circumstances of our time and the free-spending ways of Canadians at large, are more Utopian than practical.

The movement's top priority must be the dream of everyone, including the present Government: full employment. It does not say though how this can be achieved. Tax cuts and mandatory wage and price guides are other carrots held out as Action Canada bait, and there is no reason why these should not be within the realm of possibility whoever is in power.

However, other aspects of Action Canada's mandate require clarification. Mr. Hellyer says it would work for an effective urban transportation program (but where? It has not the responsibility of individual municipalities?), reduce the size and complexity of the bureaucracy (where would they begin?), increase savings for investment (does anyone have any savings these days?), and decentralize government authority (this has already been witnessed in such schemes as transfer of regional unemployment offices to Belleville from Toronto).

Also Utopian in concept is Action Canada's aim of the highest environmental standards in the world for Canada, along with warm, clean shelter as a basic right for every Canadian.

To achieve the former, Mr. Hellyer is thinking in terms of a reformed society and industrial complex which never pollutes the landscape, air or water. Unhappily, the symbols of our day are such abominations as exhaust, litter and broken glass. Or as we noted at Vanderwater Park over the long weekend, an empty beer bottle (at least it was whole and standing upright) placed on the rocks at the edge of the falls.

The highest environmental standards, we suspect, have long since been achieved by the Scandinavians ,the Dutch and the Germans. Mr. Hellyer, Action Canada and the rest of us can do no better than emulate them.

We shall watch Action Canada's progress with interest. Letters are said to be pouring in from all parts of Canada with the $10 membership fee: Something of a contrast to those $50 a head fund-raising dinners of the established parties. We wonder will it stretch all the way to the end of the rainbow: full employment and all that?

Empty Coffers

Too bad that Quantas Airlines was lured into parting with $550,000 to a man who said a bomb was secreted aboard one of its airliners, only to be told later by phone that it was all a hoax. There should be a way of countering this kind of nonsense. How about if every airline laid in a stock of counterfeit money. It would be government-approved of course, kept under lock and key, and used for this purpose alone. It would be completely worthless and bear secret identifying marks so that it would be recognizable by banks and stores. Had Quantas possessed such a stock it would not be out this formidable sum of money.

Bargaining Rights Threatened

Ottawa Looks Askance at Bureaucrat Unions

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — Civil Service organizations in Ottawa have been shocked by proposals that there be a massive cutback in their collective bargaining rights. And they have been startled that this plan apparently has the general approval of the Trudeau government.

The attempt to reverse the swelling tide of unionism in Ottawa comes at a time when the largest public service organization — the Public Alliance of Canada — is seeking to recruit membership in the armed forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The shocker for the Civil Service unions came from an advisory committee headed by J. V. Clyne, chairman of the board of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. Mr. Clyne said bluntly that the collective bargaining process had been extended to far too many federal employees.

Moreover, he was "deeply concerned" at the number of supervisory and senior administrative officers included in bargaining groups. He made clear his view that if government was to be efficient, management must be clearly separated from the workers.

The Clyne comments have set off a furore in the National Capital where for decades the Civil Service has been the leading industry and a kind of sacred cow.

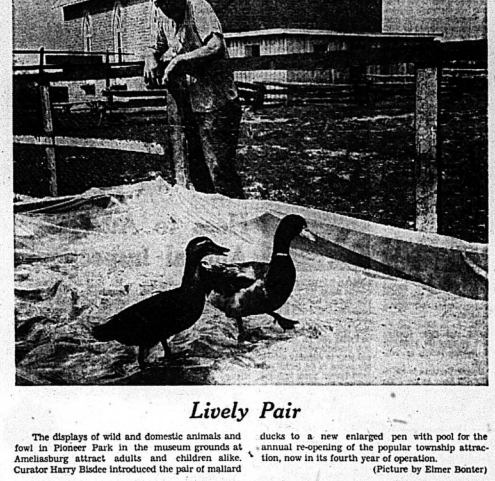
There were immediate cries of alarm that if Mr. Clyne had his way, this would mean the end of the Professional Institute of the Public Service — the rather high class union for professional civil servants. It was also lamented that the Foreign Service Officers group would go into discard.

It has always seemed rather comical to many that the Foreign Service personnel should be unionized. The prospect of ambassadors and rising young striped - pants officers going on strike and manning a picket line had seemed somewhat ludicrous. However members of this exclusive union take themselves quite seriously indeed.

The effiliate of Civil Service unions here has been that if the Clyne recommendations are approved, about 30,000 public employees would lose their bargaining rights.

Stanley Knowles, house leader of the New Democratic Party has no doubt about government intentions. He is convinced that the hard-nosed Treasury Board president, C. M. Drury is planning to implement a massive cutback of bargaining rights for upper echelon civil servants.

Knowles says this is a frightening attitude by the federal government which should be a model employer and, if anything, should be encouraging more collective bargaining in the Public Service.



There are indications the government has misgivings about some aspects of bargaining in the Civil Service. Certainly the talk of the Public Service Alliance about bringing the benefits of unionism to the armed forces and the RCMP has alarmed and annoyed the cabinet.

Bargaining in the government service was granted in 1967. The experience with this benefit has not been an altogether happy one. There have been interminable delays in reaching agreements, creating almost chaotic conditions.

The Civil Service feels it is under the gun all the time by government, being the first to feel austerity. Employer declare too that Treasury Board bargainers are getting tougher all the time.

The unions will fight hard to preserve their hold among top civil servants. But if the government is determined to keep management out of collective bargaining, it can win that battle.

Of course rabid union enthusiasts talk about "positive action" to save their bargaining rights, including slowdowns, walkouts and even, conceivably a kind of strike.

U.K. Language School For Overseas Businessmen

BBC London Letter

To cater specifically for foreign businessmen who want to learn English, a language school in the Cotswolds is teaching a concentrated course early in 1971. Its director was himself a businessman and still acts as an export consultant. He has designed a course to cover the sort of situations executives will meet in real life, and their time will not be wasted on literary English, as can happen in some schools.

A week's course at Western Language Laboratories consists of 28 hours of tuition in small classes of four to seven students, with the latest audio-visual methods; another seven hours are given to informal conversation, and there is opportunity for at least 10 hours private study with a tape recorder. Interviewed for the BBC World Service, the director said he regards the distance from London as an advantage. English businessmen who have been with him on previous courses to study French, German and Spanish, found there were few distractions in this country house, and the atmosphere was more relaxed.

Quebec and Confederation
Once Again the Main Theme Of Constitutional Parley

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: The next constitutional conference, to be held June 14-16 at Victoria, is of vital importance to all the provinces and most particularly Quebec. It will determine, to a certain extent, the degree of liberty to occupy within Confederation and orient in some way its political future. . . .

It is obvious that Mr. Bourassa will play an important card during the Victoria conference. For the Quebec premier, the stake is not only the much desired constitutional revision but equally other policies which are the object of discussion between Quebec and Ottawa.

Even if Mr. Bourassa has so far been positive on the position his government will adopt, we can guess that for the premier this conference will be above all a sort of "dealing session."

He will have to repatriate certain jurisdictions, such as social measures, in exchange for accepting the formula for amending the constitution. But, the difficulty now is that Ottawa does not want to negotiate this question. . . .

The sort of package deal that Mr. Bourassa intends to want to make could, on the other hand, be an element of confrontation between the government and the opposition parties in the national assembly but also from within the great part of the Quebec population. In the past, different governments which have presided over Quebec's destiny have always made use of public opinion to set forth or claim their rights from the government authorities. . . .

Furthermore, Mr. Bourassa will not arrive empty-handed in Victoria. The experience of last February, his first conference) in fact, has let him know the stands of the representatives of the other provinces and of the central government. He is counting also on the support of his most dynamic ministers, Mr. Castonguay, Mr. L'Allier and Mr. Cloutier, who have been installated in recent months to pave the way to the Victoria negotiations by creating certain increased powers for Quebec.

It is in the light of these different observations, claims and oppositions that Mr. Bourassa must structure his constitutional policy. But there is strong doubt that the central government is going to give unconditional blessing to the demands of the Quebec authorities.

If, as is believed, Ottawa refuses categorically to consider or accept the Quebec position, it will be futile to think of other constitutional meetings because they would lead nowhere. It is in a way the meeting of last chance.

New York City Hunt for Police Killers

By KEN PRITCHARD

NEW YORK (CP) — Seven policemen slain, 30 wounded and several saved by misfires — that's the box score so far this year in New York City.

Rank-and-file police are understandably perturbed by what appears to be a selective campaign, which included these attacks last week:

—The critical wounding Wednesday night of two policemen by automatic gunfire as they stopped two black men in a car going the wrong way on a one-way street.

—The slaying Friday night of two policemen, shot from behind by two young blacks after responding to an apparently authentic call to a housing development on the edge of Harlem.

—Two misfires of pistols pointed at police; the slashing of another patrolman by a car theft suspect, and slight injuries to a transit employee who had a can of lye thrown at him by two black men who shouted obscenities about white policemen. The transit man had been wearing a police-type raincoat.

Although five of the seven slain policemen were black, strong suggestions have been heard that a revolutionary conspiracy is at work against the predominantly-white police force. That opinion was expressed by Edward J. Kiernan, who is campaigning for re-election as president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, the policemen's union.

Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy disagrees. Nor does Murphy see any racial overtones in the Friday night slaying of two of his men, one of them black.

But he has assigned a dozen unmarked cars, filled with plainclothes policemen, to escort regular police patrols in three precincts in Harlem, Manhattan's major black ghetto.

Police here, as elsewhere in the United States, have been accused from time to time of using unnecessary violence against blacks and Puerto Ricans. An even wider segment of the populace became disenchanted this year during prolonged police-fire department negotiations for higher pay, particularly when the policemen staged a five-day wildcat strike in January.

The New York Times and a Harlem radio station received notes last week after the wounding incident involving automatic weapons. The notes contained this phrase: "The armed goons of this racist government will again meet the guns of oppressed third world peoples as long as they occupy our community and murder our brothers and sisters in the name of American law and order. . . ."

The Times commenta: "No one knows whether the pseudo-revolutionary messages . . . are genuine clues to those who actually committed the criminal acts or merely in instance of exploitation by pathological fellow travellers of violence."

Whether the shootings and attempted shootings are unrelated or the result of a conspiracy won't be clear until the cases are solved.

Mobile Ministry

Chaplain Jim Keys stands beside a 12-ton, 40-ton chapel-on-wheels that promotes prayer as an ingredient of road safety. Trucking bosses, shown through accidents statistics that a man with a sound faith makes a safe driver, are begining to welcome the chapels. (CP Photo)

Former Long-distance Trucker Has Become Mobile Chaplain

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jim Keys is a long-distance trucker and chaplain of a mobile ministry that promotes prayer as an ingredient of road safety.

He gets his message across from a 12-ton, 40-foot van, a monster chapel-on-wheels.

Believed to be the first of its kind in North America, plans are afoot to make it one of a fleet of three, the others to be built in Abbotsford, B.C. and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Costs run to about $60,000 for each "chapel."

Although they are not in the business of religion and approach it reluctantly, trucking bosses are being told through accident statistics that a man with a sound faith makes a safe driver.

"In the past couple of years," said Mr. Keys, "companies which used to merely tolerate us, now welcome us."

He began his ministry, known as Transport for Christ, in Toronto in 1951.

Today, the ministry has six chaplains, 37 evangelists and 90 district workers operating out of cities and trucking depots in the U.S. and Canada.

Chaplain Keys said there are about nine million trucks of more than two-ton weight on North American highways today.

He said that truck drivers are an irreligious lot, not given to saying their prayers except in cases of dire emergency.

"Safety figures show 32 truckers are killed on the road every night of the week in North America," he said. "On the highways, more than 1,000 civilians drivers are killed each week.

"In the face of this death toll, no wonder our safety program is catching on."

The trucking industry spends millions of dollars annually on the promotion of safe driving.

Mr. Keys's men work in cooperation with, but separate from, the regular safety programs carried on by most trucking firms.

He said records show most accidents occur to truckers within 25 miles of home.

"The men are in a hurry to get the load to its destination. The faster they get there the more money they'll make and the more time they'll have at home. This often causes accidents because they become over-tired and fall asleep at the wheel."

The Transport for Christ ministry is carried on by donations, many of them from companies, and from publication and sale of the ministry's magazine, The Highway Evangelist, which has 125,000 subscribers at $2 for a year's subscription.

Mr. Keys began his trucking career in Toronto and quit in his early 20s to enroll for two years at the Toronto Bible College.

He was ordained a Christian minister at the age of 25 by the Independent Assemblies of God in St. Catharines, Ont.

YOUR ANTIQUES

A Form of Basalt For Making Containers

Basalt is defined in the dictionary as a dark, hard igneous rock; or a rock formation of volcanic or lava origin. Some types of basalt are sufficiently handsome and finegrained that they may be carved or turned on a lathe. Porphyry is a form of basalt much prized by the ancients for making containers for precious oils.

In the 18th century, potters attempted to develop a pottery that resembled basalt. The best was made by Josiah Wedgwood starting in 1767. He colored his ware with the sediment from the water runoff of the coal mines. He used a fine quality clay and added depth of color.

(Picture Credit: Wedgwood)

The result was a handsome ware first known as Egyptian" and then named "Basaltes" by Wedgwood. He described it as a fine black porcelain bisque.

It is impossible now to say how many styles were made of basalt. Almost every vase shape, bust or decorative piece was issued in the ware. Some pieces, particularly tea sets, were designed exclusively in basalt and made for domestic use.

Production of basalt never really stopped, but the best period was from 1767 to the beginning of the Victorian period. There were many other makers besides Wedgwood. Wares made before 1767 are usually inferior to Wedgwood.

Black basalt was immensely popular — and expensive. Wedgwood received from seven shillings and sixpence to four guineas apiece for an antique style basalt vase like the one shown.

Wedgwood listed more than 250 statues and bust which included everything from George Washington to the reigning prince of Saxe-Weimar. In addition he produced 1725 different bas relief plaques and medallions in basalt. Egypt and Greece, ancient They included series on kings and illustrious persons of Asia, Romans, Popes, kings of England and France and busts of illustrious moderns (to 1774). These sold with basalt frames as cheaply as a shilling apiece.

Wedgwood developed a style of decoration for basalt known as engine-turning. The ware was fitted to an engine (really a lathe), which produced geometric, diced or fluted decorations. The lathe oscillated while turning and the cutting tool remained fixed. The resulting decoration is cleanly incised and became very popular. The engine was made by Matthew Boulton, who is better known for steam-engines than for lathes.

Shilling basalt plaques now sell for as much as $400. There is scarcely a piece of basalt, old or new, worth less than $100. The cheapest piece, a basalt cream jug runs about $50 in perfect condition. Even late victorian pieces of the 90's run into hundreds. Makes other than by Wedgwood are almost as valuable.

ALPHA DELTA KAPPA
(Lambda Chapter)

This month's meeting of Alpha Delta Kappa took the form of a car trip to Toronto Saturday, May 22 to the O'Keefe Centre. The participating members had lunch at the Royal York Hotel at noon and then attended the matinee performance of the musical "Jane Eyre". The choreography (under the direction of Alan Lund) and the colorful costumes were highlights of this show, as noted by the members.

Everyone enjoyed supper on the way home at a Highway 401 restaurant and agreed it had been a most pleasant and enjoyable day.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Becky is so upset when we pay attention to the new baby, so I don't cuddle Jimmy and play with him until Becky takes her nap. I don't want her to think we prefer the baby."

Mother: "I'm so glad I have you to help me with the baby because he's too little to do anything for himself. If you talk to him softly and smile at him, he'll smile back because he likes you."

You can make an older child feel special and needed without deluding her into thinking the new baby is not cherished too. She will learn to be affectionate and to accept the baby if this seems to be the expected way to act.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT OSBORNE
Osborne – Howes

Canon R. B. Wright officiated at the May 22 wedding when Karen Jean Howes daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Howes of Belleville became the bride of Robert Samuel Osborne. The ceremony was held in Christ Church with John C. Withers as organist. Three choir boys sang before the service and while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a fitted street length dress of lace over taffeta with full lace sleeves gathered to wide cuffs. It featured a high waist and scalloped hem trimmed with lace ruching. A shoulder length veil fell from the floral head piece. Her bouquet was a nosegay of assorted spring flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by Murray Lockwood as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held in at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's mother wore a deep pink and while dress and coat ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white mums.

For the wedding trip to the US the bride donned a white crimplene dress with matching accessories, a yellow crimplene coat and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Upon return the couple will live in Belleville.

Successful Living

Many Millions Cannot Read or Write

By DORIS CLARK

There are literally hundreds of millions of people who live out their lives on the edge of hunger, who are unable to read or write and to live normal productive lives.

World Literacy operates on the principle expressed in this quotation: "It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness." We all have an option here. To choose the latter is an exercise in futility; to choose the former will spread light where there is darkness, and inspire hope where there is despair. — World Literacy of Canada.

Literacy is the first shaft of light that pierces the darkness of ignorance. — Mrs. Indira Ghandi, Prime Minister of India.

• • •

Dear Doris: To settle an argument, do you think adults should intervene in children's quarrels? — Of Two Minds

Dear Of Two: This isn't a question for a straight yes or no answer. I don't go for dismissing all appeals with a have to fight your own battles!" Yet Junior needs practice in thinking for himself, and defending himself.

Sometimes what he needs is counselling, social work style! Mother or Dad can help him think things through a little.

If several children are teasing or physically attacking one small victim, an adult should step in. The battle is uneven. Or if one big bully is as strong and overpowering as several, he needs putting down.

• • •

Dear Doris: I am 18 years old and deeply fond of a certain girl, 3 have known her for about five years but have dated her only four or five times.

She has been going with this other guy for some time, but not steady. We decided not to date anymore because of causing hurt later.

She is the first girl that I have cared for so much. She is in my mind all the time. — Alone

Dear Alone: Ever heard the saying — "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady"? If you care about your girl, stay in the picture.

What's wrong with the two of you getting together? Are there religious differences or something?

You can't go through life backing away from people out of fear of being hurt. Right now you need to know more about her, and about your likes and dislikes when it comes to girls.

Take her out, enjoy her, live dangerously!

• • •

Confidential to Another Wife and Mother: Only you can decide whether or not to leave your husband. Jealousy, sulking and temper are hard to bear, especially when the children get the brunt of it.

Talk your situation over in person with a counsellor from the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County, 211 Front Street, Belleville.

There is no substitute for talking it out.

• • •

Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Variety Gives Zest to Meal

MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Here I am again. I have been wanting three things — Waldorf Salad, Duchess Potatoes and a new way to serve frozen peas. I think your other readers would like to see these in your column, especially the Duchess Potatoes because if mine are starting to sprout maybe other people need different and nice ways to use them up. — Maggie N.

DUCHESS POTATOES

3 cups smoothly mashed potatoes
2-3 cup milk
2 eggs
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
½ tsp. salt.

Combine and beat all ingredients hard until perfectly blended. Turn into buttered casserole. Peak up top and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 20-25 min. or until heated through.

NOTE: This may be made in advance and covered with Saran and stored in refrigerator. This is the mixture used to pipe "roses" and border around planked steaks, etc.

WALDORF SALAD

2 fancy red dessert apples (such as McIntosh) sized ¼" (2½ cups packed)
2 cups finely chopped inner celery
½ cup broken walnuts or pecans or blanched almonds
¾ cup mayonnaise

Wash, core but do not pare apples. Cut into ¼" dice. Use only choicest inner celery and cut it very small. Add nuts (I prefer pecans) and mayonnaise and mix. This salad may be made 2 hrs. in advance if necessary but must be covered with Saran.

To change your way of serving fresh frozen peas make Tarragon White Sauce by melting 3 tbsps. butter, stirring in 2½ tbsps. flour, ¾ tsp. salt, and ¾ tsp. leaf tarragon. Stir in 1¼ cups milk until thick. This amount is sufficient for 2 or 3 cups cooked drained peas. Try it. I like it.

Second Glance

—By Viva Richmond Graham

JUST A MOMENT

Get up and out, my man, the day is bursting with moments." — Oscar Williams.

• • •

May I introduce myself to you?

I am a moment.

Yes, I know I am tiny; insignificant, really. That is why each moment of us is amazed over the amount of recognition and adulation Mankind pays us.

You have probably observed "the moment" phrases in the English language: "moment of decision", "a moment divine", "happy moment", "a moment of distraction", "wait a moment", "memorable moment", the list is endless.

Some moments are sought, others come unexpectedly. I overheard a Belleville lady once describe how she met her "moment of truth" when she blithely went to the dentist's foe a tooth extraction and realized it when in the dentist's chair, to see for the first time the sharp instruments involved in the operation — from which there was no escape.

Have you ever noticed how our size as a measure for intensity of emotion or feeling is popular with poets? Shelley for instance wrote, "Poetry is the record of the best and happiest moments of the happiest and best minds." J. P. Priestly, the English novelist speaks of William Wordsworth, the English poet, whose poetry he says is filled here and there with miraculous liner — great moments, and that he is "essentially a poet of such moments."

Writers are just the same. Samuel Eliot Morison writes how Columbus enjoyed long stretches of pure delight such as only a seaman may know, and moments of high, proud exultation that only a discoverer can experience.

Ann Bridge, the best loved of English women novelists, who has written many books, has entitled several with my name. One is, "The Dark Moment" while her latest volume is called "Moments of Knowing: Some Personal Experiences Beyond Normal Knowledge." Such moments, she feels, of this sort are more common than is imagined.

It is published by the way by Hodder and Stoughton, and there is a copy in your Corby Library.

Culinary artists also remember us. A cookie recipe from the late Miss Mary Eurie Watson, of Ayr, Ontario, Principal of MacDonald Institute, School of Home Economics in Guelph, and a teacher of whom a Belleville pupil speaks most highly is called "Melting Moments" and I am proud to say I hear it is well named.

Yes, it is wonderful to know that there are fine, splendid moments among us. But really you might say that the most of us are just average, ordinary ones, and it is sort of comforting to know we do play a part in your lives, according to William E. Wood ward (1874-1950) who believes:

"The turning points of lives are not the great moments. The real crises are often concealed in occurrences so trivial in appearance that they pass unobserved."

Fiancee's Jokes — A 'Bit Much'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a young woman and am considering marriage, but she has a sense of humor that drives me nuts. I never know what she is going to do next.

I could write a book about this girl's looniness, but I realize your space is limited so I'll just give you an example of her latest idea of a joke.

ANN LANDERS

I am a professional man and I do a considerable amount of public speaking. Last night I was the guest speaker for a local church group. As the minister was introducing me, I glanced down at my friend who was seated in the front row — with her wig on backwards, a set of huge false teeth in her mouth — the kind kids buy in a novelty shop. She had crossed her eyes and was waving a miniature American flag. Naturally I broke up. It was all I could do to pull myself together and get into the speech.

On the positive side, she's a wonderful person, completely devoted to me and I want to marry her. How does one deal with a weird sense of humor? I'm dead serious about this, Ann. I need a workable solution. — M.

• • •

DEAR M.: If the clown insists on accompanying you to your speaking engagements make sure she sits in the back. If she cranks up front and acts up — have her bounced. He who laughs last . . .

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What on earth is wrong with a good looking girl, 26 years of age, who spends a fortune on clothes, goes to the beauty shop every week for a manicure and hair set — and who, even when she opens her mouth to smile, shows she has several missing teeth?

I have always been a person who minds her own business, but I like this girl very much and I think someone should tell her that her need of dental care is spoiling her looks. Would she consider it an act of friendship? Or should I M.Y.O.B.? — SPOKANE

• • •

DEAR SPOKE: Attractive people who neglect their teeth are usually afraid of dentists. This girl probably needs to be reassured. If you can suggest to her the name of a dentist who is competent and gentle, it might help. If she doesn't follow through, you will at least have tried.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you have space for just one more letter from a pot-smoker, or to be more accurate — an ex-pot smoker? I quit smoking after a few months of pleasant puffing because one day I had to admit I couldn't remember my own address — my phone number or my friend's name. It was a frightening experience to discover I was no longer in control of my mind. To put it bluntly, I was all screwed up. It took me four days to get back to normal. After that experience I concluded pot was no good for me. I haven't touched a joint since.

Some of my friends say they have been smoking dope for two years and have never had a bum trip. Well, bully for them, but here is one cat that can't handle it and I'm thankful I learned without lousing myself up completely. — CHEAP LESSON.

DEAR LESSON: You say, "Bully for them?" I say, "Bully for you!" Thanks for writing.

Davis Declares Papers Must Be Able to Grow

KITCHENER (CP) — Premier William Davis said Friday night newspapers must not be denied the benefit from technological advances that could someday take them directly into the home by electronic means.

Mr. Davis vowed Friday to oppose any federal regulatory action that would have the effect of preventing "newspapers from enjoying the logical access to technological improvements" including cable-television transmission facilities.

"If in the years to come your product is laid down in the home by electronic means rather than the carrier boy, then the newspaper must control this means," the premier said.

"Your central social role will remain unchanged but you may need access to facsimile transmissions and a host of other components of the wired - city idea to do your job," he told the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference.

Pregnancy Lasts 13 Months

LONDON (AP) — A 28-year-old former nurse has given birth to a healthy baby girl after a pregnancy of 13 months.

Baby Tina, seven pounds seven ounces, was born to Christine Houghton last week.

Strange Fruit in the Valley

Grim Crop of Corpses Reaped

Who were the 21 men whose bodies were found in shallow graves among the peach and plum trees of the placid orchard community of Yuba City, Calif.? How could it be that their disappearance invoked no worry, no inquiries? The future story describes the lives of these unfortunates, The Forgotten Men.

By MARTY THOMPSON

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The orchards beside the gentle winding Feather River annually yield a rich harvest of fruit, the basis of life in Sutter County. This year they also yielded the bodies of at least 21 forgotten men.

Sheriff's deputies with shovels and later aided by a mechanical digging machine moved down the rows of peach trees, opening the rich loam soil, exposing the bodies. Every few hours the men would stop, wrenched back to reality by a shout: "I've found another one."

Juan Vallejo Corona, 37, a labor contractor who for nine seasons has provided crews of Mexican-Americans to work the orchards, is in the old county jail, charged with murder.

The motive for the murders is unknown.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker says all the victims apparently were transients, temporary residents of skid road in Marysville, across the Feather River from Yuba City's trim streets.

"Nobody would miss these people," explains Joe Miguel, manager of the state farm labor office in Yuba City. "A lot of them are on the lam, probably.

"They could even have used aliases."

The men inhabit $1-a-night hotels near levee in Marysville, sleep in empty boxcars on the Western Pacific tracks or, in warm weather, camp under the E Street Bridge.

Known only by nicknames, or as Pete or Joe, they come and go almost unnoticed. When they drop out of sight, there is no one to file a missing-person report.

Miguel says some of the 750 or so skid roaders have landed there because of drinking problems. Others have had family problems.

It takes money to eat, or buy a bottle of cheap wine. With no salable skills, the men join crews who prune and thin the peach and plum orchards that fan out from town, perhaps signing on with Juan Corona or another of the 15 contractors registered with the state farm labor office.

Word about jobs is passed by mouth in the bars and small grocery stores of skid road and in neighborhoods of the some 1,500 local Mexican-Americans who do seasonal farm work. Or a contractor buys a commercial on the local radio station's Spanish-language program.

About 1,000 persons find year-round work in the orchards and another 4,000 are recruited to help with the harvest in late August and September.

CAHA Rejects Offer to Send Team to World Cup Competition

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association concluded its 1971 annual meeting Friday but not before suspending indefinitely St. Catharines Black Hawks' manager Fred Mueller and declining an invitation to compete in a World Cup tournament in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Joe Kryczka of Calgary, newly-elected president of the association, said the invitation was declined by the board of directors. He said teams from Russia, Czechoslovakia and the United States would be competing.

"When the association approved our return to some levels of international hockey it was on the basis that we pick and choose who our clubs' teams play, so the invitation was declined."

The association delegates have emphasized the directors should approve invitations from Europe or applications from Canadian teams only when the play would not involve teams, which do not support Canada.

Kryczka said, "we're quite certain Russia and Czechoslovakia didn't support us" in Canada's bid to have open tournaments involving amateurs and professionals, "and for that matter I don't think our friends in the U.S. did either."

He said the deadline for applications for international games has been extended to June 10 for senior teams and Sept. 10 for minor league clubs.

Mueller, who refused to take his Ontario Hockey Association Jr. A series club back to Quebec City for the sixth game in the OHA-Quebec Junior Hockey League Richardson Trophy, was suspended indefinitely with the right to appeal the decision to the board.

Quebec was awarded the series and then won the Memorial Cup in two straight games against Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League.

OHA president Clarence (Tubby) Schmalz said the indefinite suspension was issued so Mueller would have the right to appeal and "I'm sure the board will hear the appeal and at that time decide on the length of the suspension or else lift it."

In St. Catharines, Mueller said he would not comment on the suspension until he had received official notification.

Earl Dawson stepped down as president after three stormy years in the chair, a period during which he matched wits with Bunny Ahearne of London, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, and Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The association decided to crack down on players who leave the penalty box to enter in fights.

A player who leaves the penalty box before his time has expired but who doesn't join the ment in ebrode Springs, Colo. ality instead of a minor.

A goalie who leaves his crease during a fight will be assessed a minor penalty and any player involved in a fight who fails to go directly to the penalty box, even to pick up his equipment, will receive a game-misconduct penalty.

The CAHA also inserted rules limiting the curvature of stick blades to one-half-inch and making it mandatory that an official CAHA puck be used in all games.

It also approved a change that says play will not be halted if a player jumps out of position during a face-off if the non-offending team gets possession of the puck.

A decision that left several delegates at the plenary session somewhat upset was the defeat of a motion for a $1 membership fee for each player and approval of another motion for an annual branch assessment.

After changing the original motion several times in earlier sessions, the delegates defeated two amendments to the final motion before approving the proposal that will result in a $1,500 assessment for each vote the branches have at the annual meeting this year.

That will work out at $7,500 each for the OHA and the QJHL and $3,000 for the remaining branches.

The delegates did agree on one point concerning the financial situation of the CAHA—the association has to become financially independent of the National Hockey League.

Jim Graham, the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association representative, said the CAHA has to begin running a better financial operation, adding that "if we're ever going to be the governing body of hockey in Canada we have to be financially independent of the pros."

Western Boxers Pack Punch At Pan-American Game Trials

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Harold Mann, Canadian national team boxing coach, credited better coaching as one reason Western Canada boxers dominated the East vs. West Canadian Amateur Boxing Association championships here Friday night.

Each of the 11 class winners gained the right to represent Canada in the Pan-Am Games in Cali, Colombia, in August.

Mann, who will act as the Canadian boxing team coach at the Games, said western coaches spent more time conditioning their boxers.

"They will conduct the boys in bouts three times a week and before a billed fight the boys work out daily," said Mann.

One of the top western coaches mentioned by Mann is the former Canadian amateur heavyweight boxer, Ellio Ius of North Vancouver, who coached the first two winners of Friday night's fight program.

Ellio, who coached Canada's national team at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico, also instructed 17-year-old Les Hamilton, also from the Vancouver Eagles boxing club, who scored the night's major upset in the 112-pound class over veteran Walter Henry of Orilia, Ont.

Hamilton won on points over the 29-year-old Henry, a veteran of 403 bouts on points, despite being knocked down by Henry for the mandatory eight-count in the third round.

After the loss Henry, who is a nine-time Canadian champion, announced his retirement from the ring.

"I promised my wife, Sharon, before coming here that win, lose or draw, this would be it," said Henry following the defeat.

The only two western boxers to score decisions by knockouts were Edmonton's Bill Tidey and Jack Meda of Prince George, B.C. Tidey knocked out Morris Bergeron of St. Jerome, Que., in their 178-pond class bout and Meda, a 6-foot 6, 220-pound heavyweight, and former lumberjack, scored a first-round knockout over Charles Stewart of Windsor, Ont.

Two other western fighters, Dennis Chiefmoon of Edmonton and Marv Arneson of Winnipeg, won when the referee stopped their bouts after the opening round.

Arneson, in the 139-pound class, defeated Michel Briere of Montreal.

Two of the eastern victories came by knockouts.

Montreal's Joe Martinez won in the 125-pound class when John Gamble of Vancouver failed to make the trip East because he couldn't meet the weight limit.

Canonero to Try for Triple

NEW YORK (AP) — Canonero II's health is at issue as the June 5 Belmont Stakes approaches, just as it was before his winning performances in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Trainer Juan Arias and veterinarian Dr. William O. Reed both said Friday that the Triple Crown candidate has a skin rash. But they denied published reports that he has a blood disorder.

Reed, who has been attending the Venezuelan-owned colt since his arrival at Belmont Park from Baltimore and the Preakness, said the rash was not serious, adding:

"I'm not at liberty to say anything about this case. We'll know more in a few days."

"What blood disorder?" Arias said through an interpreter when told of the reports. "Canonero does not have any blood disorder.

"This is beginning to sound like all the things that were written about Canonero before the Preakness—the teeth, the fever and a few other things that amazed me."

Canonero II had a slight fever several days before the Preakness and he reeded two baby teeth extracted. In the Preakness he set a track record.

Even before his surprise Derby triumph there were rumors that Canonero II was not in top shape.

"He will be on the track all next week and when Saturday comes—he will be ready," said Arias.

Everything Isn't Glamorous On Auto Racing Circuit

INDIANAPOLIS (A P) — Fielding race cars on the championship circuit is a glamorous but expensive indulgence. Often it can be disastrous.

Doris King, blonde wife of car-owner, builder and mechanic Grant King, knows just how disastrous it can be.

"We came to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway last year with a sponsor that wound up giving us $45,000 in bad cheques. We wound up the month $75,000 in debt and had to lock our cars in the garage for the rest of the racing season because we couldn't afford to run them," she said.

King, a Victoria, B.C., native now living in Indianapolis, and his wife of 3½ years have been trying since that time to come up with a sponsor to foot the bills, or at least part of them. But, they've had no luck.

"You go into a potential sponsor's office and the first thing he asks you is how you did last year," said Mrs. King. "You can't give the man a sob story, but I have to tell him we didn't race after the Indy 500 last year."

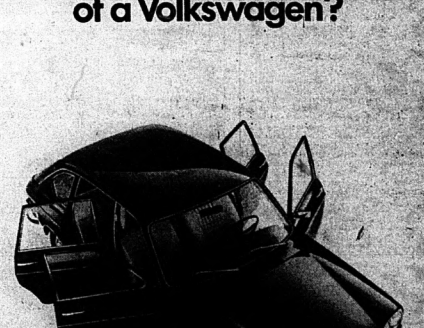
The Kings' existence has been rather hand-to-mouth for the last year, but a little hustling and some fast talk have kept them in the sport they love.

"It's a little like being addicted," she said. "I never even went to a race track and I didn't even know people who did before I met Grant. Now, I just can't get enough of it."

Mrs. King added:

"We were building a new house and a new shop when all the trouble hit last May. It got so bad I had to go through ily clothes closets and old purses to try to scrape together enough money to make our payroll. We had a first-class team and we wanted to keep them together, somehow."

But, finally all of them drifted off to other teams because "they wanted to race and we had our cars locked up."



The Kings managed to scrape together a good crew by offering them room and board in their new house and a car-builder's discount on parts for their own cars in exchange for their services.

Now they are very much at the Speedway this year, with two cars qualified for today's race.

Larry Dickson will start in the middle of the ninth row of the 33-car field in one King-Offenhauser car and George Fullmer will be right behind him in the 10th row with the other car.

If either or both cars finish the race it will mean a payoff for the Kings that could put them back on their feet financially. If not, the debt will still be reduced somewhat because being in the race at all assures them a payoff close to $20,000.

Have 2 doors kept you out of a Volkswagen?

For some people, even the world's most practical car just isn't practical.

Which means that up to now, if you wanted a car with four doors and you wanted a Volkswagen too, you were out of luck. (And so were we.)

The new VW 411.

Because it's a big car, it can give you everything a big car can.

A luxurious interior.

A big engine.

And scads of trunkspace.

But, because it's a Volkswagen, it can also give you everything a big car can't:

Like mileage: around 27 mpg.

Volkswagen craftsmanship.

And dependability.

So when you get a 411 you get a big car without getting any big car problems.

Because remember, even though it says 411 on the back, it still says on the front.

Woman Reporter In The Pits

INDIANAPOLIS (A P) — Mari McCloskey, in Indianapolis to cover the Indy 500-mile auto race for a woman's magazine, won a court order forbidding the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to deny her access to the garage and pit areas traditionally off - limits to women.

Judge Charles A. Daughtery of superior court scheduled a hearing Friday on issuing a temporary injunction.

Miss McCloskey, 25, of New York, said she has never run into "so blatant a case of discrimination."

"I had to get the story down. I had to have access to all areas."

Her suit asked that she be allowed to go anywhere at the Speedway that any other reporters may go.

Everything Still 'Sonny' for Red Sox But Things Are 'Blue' in Oakland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sonny Siebert's confrontation with Vida Blue turned out very well for Boston Red Sox and not at all badly for Minnesota Twins.

Baseball's two hottest pitchers—both on lengthy winning streaks, hooked up Friday night and Siebert was supposed to be a pitcher's duel but the hitters took control in the first inning with Reggie Jackson blasting a home run for the Athletics and Rico Petrocelli connecting with one man on for Boston.

Petrocelli hit another one later in the game and Oakland got solo homers by Dave Duncan and Sal Bando.

RICO PETROCELLI

and Seibert and the Red Sox came out on top of Blue and Oakland Athletics 4-3.

The victory gave Siebert a 9-0 record and left Blue at 10-2, with his first loss since opening day. And, combined with Minnesota's 7-6 decision over Baltimore Orioles, it left Boston sitting on a 4½-game lead at the top of the American League's Eastern Division ahead of Baltimore and our Oakland's edge in the West to six games over the Twins.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, Detroit Tigers topped Milwaukee Brewers 6-3, Cleveland Indians shut out Chicago White Sox 4-0, Kansas City Royals blanked Washington Senators 5-0 and California Angels whacked New York Yankees 9-6.

The Siebert-Blue showdown was the most vociferous, saying that legalizing bets on hockey games "would serve our sport with no useful purpose whatsoever.

"To legalize something which is socially and morally wrong would give it an air of respectability which would be very difficult to combat."

Harmon Killebrew and Leo Cardenas cracked home runs and Minnesota stung Baltimore with a five-run sixth-inning rally to beat the Orioles. Killebrew's sixth of the season and effort of his career tied him with Lou Gehrig for 10th place on the all-time list.

The Detroit Tigers won their ninth game in the last 10 by beating Milwaukee.

Dick McAuliffe tripled one run home and scored another in a four-run Detroit rally against the Brewers.

Ken Wright flipped a six-hitter and struck out nine batters, including Frank Howard three times, as he pitched Kansas City past Washington. Cookie Rojas led the Royals' attack with three hits.

Expos Stopped by San Francisco

Patience Pays for Giants, Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thrift and patience have paid a small dividend to Cincinnati Reds and another windfall for San Francisco Giants.

The rich got richer in the National League West Friday night as the first-place Giants trimmed Montreal Expos 3-1 and the Reds nipped runner-up Houston Astros 1-0 in 13 innings.

The Giants managed just three hits off Steve Renko and Mike Marshall, but converted three Montreal miscues into as many unearned runs to win for the fourth time in their last five starts.

Cincinnati bunched half of its six hits in the 13th to break a scoreless deadlock and drop the Astros 9½ games off the division pace.

Elsewhere, Chicago Cubs wasted most of their 15 hits but still topped Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2. Los Angeles Dodgers beat Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 behind the pitching and hitting of Al Downing and the streaking St. Louis Cardinals increased their East-Division lead with a 4-0 victory over Atlanta Braves. The New York Mets were rained out at San Diego.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Alan Gallagher ripped a two-base hit and continued home as Ron Hunt threw away the relay from the outfield for an error.

They added a fifth inning run, with the help of a throwing error by Renko.

Rookie Steve Stone blanked the Expos on two hits until the ninth, when he walked Rusty Staub and was yanked for reliever Jerry Johnson. Singles by Mack Jones and Boots Day delivered one run and left Johnson on the ropes with two out. But he struck out pinch-hitter Ron Swoboda to strand the tying runs on the bases.

But Pete Rose led off Cincinnati's 13th against reliever George Culver with a bunt single, sped to third on Dave Concepcion's single and scored on another single by Lee May.

Don Gullett, who worked the first 10 innings, and winner Clay Carroll combined to snap the Astros' modest winning string at three games.

Boyer Placed on Waivers

ATLANTA (AP) — Clete Boyer has joined the list of baseball's unemployed, rejected by last vice-president Paul Richards and manager Lumen Harris.

Richards said Boyer "will be given his unconditional release as soon as waivers are obtained" from the other 11 National League teams. Boyer could be claimed for the $20,000 waiver price anytime between now and Wednesday.

Richards said Bill Bartholomay, president and board chairman of the Braves, "requested me to ask Clete to rejoin the club. I asked him to, but he refused."

"I just feel right now that I don't have a job," said a subdued Boyer, who two hours earlier was in a jovial mood shortly before entering Richards' office.

"I guess sometimes I talk too much," he said. "I think I have said enough.

"I justhope I can hook on to another club," Boyer said. "I'm really sorry to leave this town. I love it."

Boyer's separation from the Braves came in a hurry-up four days after the New York Post quoted the player as saying there shouldn't be any place in baseball for a man like Richards.

This prompted further criticism from Boyer plus a request for the Braves to release him. Boyer told Richards he would forfeit the 60 days' severance pay due him and said it amounted to about $10,000.

Boyer was hitting .242 for the Braves, one point better than his lifetime average that included three seasons with Kansas City Athletics and eight with New York Yankees of the American League before joining the Braves in 1967. He had six home runs and 18 runs batted in this year.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Trevino had just fired a second consecutive 66 to take the lead in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic and was talking about, of all things, grass. "I like these Bermuda grass greens," Trevino said Friday. "It's a poor-man grass and that's what I grew up on." Trevino's 36-hole total of 132, eight-under par on the friendly little Colonial Country Club course, gave him a one-stroke lead over first-round leader Larry Zeigler, who had to rally for a 71 and 133. Puerto Rican veteran Chi Chi Rodriguez shot a 68, using an old putter he brought out of retirement, and was alone in third place at 134. Rod Funseth had a 68 for fifth with Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Bob Lunn at 135. Littler had a 68 and was tied with Randy Wolff and Ted Hayes. Wilf Matthews of Winnipeg had a 36-hole score of 145 and failed to make the cut.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League announced Friday the signing of All-American fullback Steve Worster of Texas. Worster, 22, was third in the Heisman Trophy voting behind John Huarte, now with New England Patriots and Joe Theismann, who went to Toronto Argonauts. Worster, 6-foot-2 and 210 pounds, led the Texas Longhorns' attack in a record 30-game win streak which ended with the 24-11 loss in the Cotton Bowl to Notre Dame with Theismann as quarterback. Worster had been negotiating with Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League before coming here.

Beliveau, veteran centre and captain of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, and Orr, Boston Bruins' defenceman are joint winners of the Charlie Conacher Memorial Trophy. The trophy is presented annually to the active NHL player who made an outstanding humanitarian contribution in the course of the year or during his career. Keon, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs, will accept the Charlie Conacher Team Trophy, presented to the Canadian NHL team that compiles the best record against other Canadian teams. Former prime minister Lester B. Pearson will make the presentations. Proceeds from the dinner go to the Charlie Conacher Research Fund to support a program seeing a cure for throat cancer.

Hill Takes Swing At PGA Officials

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Professional golfer Dave Hill filed a $1 million damage suit against the Tournament Players Division of the PGA Friday.

The suit was filed in Hill's behalf by his Memphis attorney John P. Collon, in Federal District Court in Memphis.

The suit charges the TPD with violation of Hill's civil rights, violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and abridgement of his right of free speech.

The often-fined Hill was required to pay a $500 fine for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer" for his actions in the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation tournament in Fort Worth, Tex. Hill was required to pay the fine before he was allowed to attempt defense of his title in the Memphis tournament.

The suit charges that Hill's civil rights were violated in that he was forced to pay the fine before he could pursue his profession as a golfer.

The suit also charges the Tournament Players Division with being a monopoly engaged in interstate commerce in violation of the Sherman act.

Hill was fined last year after making public criticism of the U.S. Open course at Chaska, Minn. The suit also charges that this fine violated Hill's right of freedom of speech.

Sports Heads Reject Off-Track Betting

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of baseball, basketball and hockey joined professional football's Pete Rozelle in opposing a projected extension of New York City's off-track betting to any sport other than horse racing.

Rozelle, who spoke out Tuesday, heard echoes Friday from other leaders of professional sports.

Kinsmen Seek Strength-Down-Middle in Opener

Strength down the middle is said to be the key to any winning ball team and two performers to whom the Belleville Kinsmen Juniors will be looking for that commodity are catcher Steve Bedard and second baseman Terry Moore.

Bedard, who handled the receiving chores for the now defunct Trenton junior team in 1970, won the first - string catching post with Belleville this season.

The 5' 10" product of Frankford minor baseball is a right hand power hitter with a good arm, who according to coach Moe Hunter needs only "a little work on the pitches" to be a top - flight backstop.

Moore is expected to be one of the defensive bulwarks of the team at second base. The 5' 8", 150 - pounder should be a fixture at the pivotal position.

Tossing the rubber for Sunday's opener against the Kendall Intermediates will be fast - ball artist Garnet "Sam" Ingham. Terry McTaggart and Ted Shaw are work commitments by Stan Brooks will mean that the team will be short on experienced relievers.

Adams could be a good bet to go the distance, however, after posting a no - hitter in his South Hastings league opener with Plane's Concrete last weekend.

Other infield posts will be manned by Barry Culkin at first, Rick Meagher in the shole and Brian Coughlan at third base, while Mike Muscilow will provide back-up strength.

Paul Hall is slated to open in centre, with Glenn Carleton in right field and Wayne Andrews, Ed Christopherry Randy Burke and Scott McLaren battling for the remaining start.

Last season the Kinsmen split their series with Kendal dropping a 5-4 home encounter and winning 4-1 on the road.

They will be looking to reverse their loss at the Fairgrounds when action gets under way tomorrow at 2 p.m. Opening ceremonies will start at 1.45 p.m.

Number 13 Unlucky for CNR

Number 13 proved really unlucky for the CNR Industrial Softball League entry Friday night as Mead Johnson rattled for six runs in the last inning to edge CNR 14-13.

The contest had see-sawed back and forth until the trailers came up with five runs in the fifth frame and another pair in the top of the seventh to give them an apparently safe 13-8 lead.

A grand slam home run by Ken Lessels in the bottom of the seventh however, sparked Meads as they poured across six tallies without having a single out recorded against them.

Sonny Holoway started for the winners giving way to Jack Boyle in the fourth, who in turn yielded the mound duties to Paul Williams in the sixth inning. Between them they yielded 12 hits and issued 14 free passes, while striking out four batters.

Ron Conlon started on the mound for CNR, getting relief help in the final inning from Brian Plumbe. The pair were touched for a dozen safeties, while walking ten batters and fanning three.

Paul Williams was the top Mead Johnson batter slamming out a single, double and triple. Lessels plated his home run, while Ray Finkle, Wayne Storms and Reg Bennett collected two hits each.

Plumbe had a grand slam homer for CNR, while Rob McHarter and Ron Conlon each cracked a triple and single and Bob Duvall added two doubles.

The game took over two hours to complete.

Kingston Peewees Hostile Hosts

Kingston's ZORA peewee representatives proved to be pretty unfriendly hosts as they handed the visiting Belleville Conductor and Brakemen entry a 19-6 setback.

Winning pitcher Lee Murray allowed nine hits, one more than his Belleville opponents, but walked only three batters. Clyde Routley and Billy Whelan, on the other hand issued 11 free passes, while each team had seven strikeouts.

A homer and double by Paul Weeks were the big blows for Belleville. Billy Whelan and Simon Bennett each picked up a pair of singles for the losers, while Mike Mowsky paced Kingston with three singles and a triple.

In house league action the CNR Yardmen peewees thumped Trenton Dairy Queen 15-1.

Ed Marineau produced two doubles among his four hits to lead the Yardmen hitting attack. Tom Belch and Peter Hall followed with a double and single each.

Trenton hitters, all getting singles, were Nicholson, Ricky Horn, Nicholson and Wood.

Uniroyal Centre Tykes did a wrecking job on the Thurlow Hopkins Auto entry with an 18-9 victory.

Larry Hanlon and Bruce Bell fired three - hit ball for Uniroyal, while Robert Hagerman and Tom Masterson yielded eight hits on the mound.

Thurlow sound.

Shane Belanger, Tom Masterson and Marty Gagne had the Hopkis hits.

Fuller Sweeps Scoring

The recent awards banquet for the Rochester Metropolitan Hockey League could just as easily have been billed as the American branch of the Belleville sporting fraternity.

Former Belleville Junior B standout Ron Fuller won the trophy as the league scoring champion after piling up 72 points, including 49 goals during the course of the season.

RON FULLER

Fuller last performed with the Ellis Jr. B's in 1969-70 before job commitments called him to Rochester and had been picked as rookie-of-the-year with the local club in 1967-68.

The top defenceman in the league was John Lewis, who gained local prominence as an outstanding weightlifter with the Apollo Barbell Club.

A third Belleville district athlete, Roy Maracle joined Fuller as a member of the team that captured the top pennant and the championship of the eight-member Rochester industrial loop.

Commercial Lead Jammed

Another three-way tie has developed in the Commercial Softball League encounter between the Ellis Juniors and Point Anne in that the winner will be in first place.

Whether they'll be forced to share that position will be decided in a 7 p.m. bout between Ellis Construction and Howard and Robert Printing.

Rollins moved into the first place picture with a 5-0 verdict over the Holstiners in their only game, so Sunday's matches, which were postponed from Monday, May 24, should decide just who will hold top spot.

Squirts Wield Timber

Some heavy hitting highlighted the two minor softball league tyke contests played last night.

Harbor Marine pumped across 31 runs to take a 31-20 decision from Mack Brothers in one contest with Steve Bennett cracking a homer and two doubles for the winners.

In the other contest the Kinsmen Juniors dropped A and W Drive-In 18-15. Stephen Paquet homered for the Kinsmen with Billy Hull returning the favor for A and W.

Jockey Ride Answers Last Bell

KINGSTON (CP) — Walter Henry wiped his glove across a sweaty face streaked with blood and announced: "That's it. I'm through . . . that was my last fight and I mean it."

Henry, 30, of Orillia, sat alone and dejected after losing a points decision to young Les Hamilton of Penticton, Vancouver, B.C., Friday night in the 112-pound class at the Canadian amateur boxing championships.

The defeat ended a career that spanned 29 years.

The decision to quit resulted from a promise he made before the championships.

"This was the 402nd fight of my career," said Henry. "I lost my first one when I was six years old and now I've lost my last one.

"I promised my wife, Sharon, before coming here that win, lose or draw, this would be it. If I don't quit I'll have another fight on my hands as soon as I get home."

Henry, who trains in the family kitchen, won an unprecedented 20 Ontario championships, nine Canadian, five Golden Gloves and represented Canada in the 1964 and 1968 Olympics and in the 1967 Pan-Am Games.

His bout with the aggressive, 17-year-old Hamilton ended with blood streaming from the faces of both boxers.

Hamilton said he was never more nervous in his life before the fight, mulling over Henry's experience.

Paduano Steps Up

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Donato Paduano has lost the battle of the bulge.

The Italian-born Paduano has definitely decided to give up his battle to stay below the 147-pound welterweight limit and move up to the heavier middleweight division.

Paduano, in Kingston Friday night as a spectator at the Canadian Amateur Boxing Association championships, won his first 22 pro fights before losing two straight decisions to Ken Buchanan of Scotland and Clyde Gray of Toronto, the latter taking Paduano's Canadian welterweight title.

Forty Families Without Water

ST. ISADORE, Que. (CP) — The 40 families of this village have not had any water out of their artesian wells since March 1970 and they are still waiting for nearby Oka to do something about it.

The residents pay their municipal taxes to Oka, 40 miles east of Montreal, and when the wells went dry the villagers signed a petition asking for an aqueduct to bring them fresh water.

The Oka town council passed $140,000 for the new water system but so far nothing has happened.

"They promised it for Christmas," said Francois Brunette. "Then they promised it for the spring. God, if it keeps up this way we won't have water for years."

The villagers have always relied on the artesian wells but then in 1965 their problems began.

St. Lawrence Columbian and Metals Inc. started mining operations a mile down the road from the village centre and the wells began to dry up.

The villagers are all quick to lay the blame on the mining company when blasting operations they claim have severed the water veins, forcing them to dig deeper and deeper for water.

But in March 1970, the waters stopped flowing.

Since then the residents have had to travel a mile and a half to the nearest faucet and fill up all the jugs and large containers they have. After doing this each day for the last 14 months the residents are getting more and more fed up.

SHOCKING STUDIO

LONDON (CP) — The atmosphere in a new radio broadcasting studio is electric, much to the annoyance of disc jockey Charles Thompson and assistant Sue Cook. They have to take their shoes and socks off before starting work. It seems that hair feet are the only remedy for static electricity in the studio. "Wearing nylon socks you can see sparks when you touch something," Thompson said.

Abortion Load Overwhelming

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto doctor says that the demand for abortions has become so great in Canada that it may start to interfere with the ability of hospitals to give other health care.

Dr. Walter Hannah, chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Women's College Hospital, told a conference of 200 Ontario nurses Friday that Toronto hospitals receive 15 to 20 or more requests a week" for abortions.

He said some hospitals now have so many abortion requests that they "can't take time to consider each one—so all are either rejected or accepted outright."

He said committees of doctors set up to consider abortions are "becoming unworkable and impractical because of the number of requests."

Dr. Hannah said that 4,375 abortions were performed in 143 Canadian hospitals between August, 1969, and August, 1970. Statistics released this week by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed 11,200 abortions were performed in 1970.

The Criminal Code was amended in 1969 to permit abortions in hospitals provided a committee of three or more doctors agrees that the health of the mother would be "endangered by giving birth.

Princess' Jester

Billy Meek, Scottish comedy star, recording artist and entertained on CTV's Pig and Whistle Show, last night kept an audience of close to 300 at Madoc's Centre Hastings Secondary School in stitches with his comedy routines, mini-concertina music and banjo ballads. Sponsored by the Hastings County Milk Committee, the variety show was held in honor of Dianne Gunning, Ontario Dairy Princess, whose term of offices comes to a close this June. Miss Gunning received acclaim from milk board and agricultural representatives, local, federal and provincial government officials, a former teacher and many friends.

Entertainment Roundup

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jesus Christ, Superstar, the rock opera that portrays the last seven days in the life of Christ, is being made into a movie and Broadway show, it was announced Friday.

The Music Corp. of America Inc. and the Robert Stigwood Organization of London signed agreements for the adaptation of the popular album, said Ned Tanen, an MCA vice-president.

The Stigwood group will produce the stage version of the album, with an opening scheduled for October in New York, he said.

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Dame Edith Evans, 83-year-old star of the British stage, has had to give up her role of Cordelia in the Chichester Festival Theatre production of Dear Antoine.

The production company said Saturday Dame Edith did so on medical advice.

Her understudy, Peggy Marshall, has taken over the role.

SETE, France (AP) — Actor Jean Vilar died Friday at his home here in southern France. He was 59.

Cause of death was not immediately reported.

In 1947, Vilar founded the annual festival of dramatic art at Avignon. From 1951 to 1963, he was director of the state National Popular Theatre and staged a number of historical and classical plays.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Cerebral Palsy Has Many Causes

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Our little nephew has what the doctors call cerebral palsy. Except for difficulty in controlling his body movements he seems to be a bright little guy.

I don't suppose there is much that can be done to make him physically perfect again, but I am interested in knowing more about the condition. Is it common? Can it be prevented? What causes it?—Mrs. M.

COMMENT: When one considers that there are over a half million cerebral palsied individuals in the U.S. (infant, children, adults), my answer is that it is too common. I wish we had some specific measures to counteract it — prevent it and treat it in all cases.

When you consider all the CP drives and the national interest in combatting the condition, you are of course aware that we are doing all we can to fight it and lessen the number of its victims.

Cerebral palsy really describes a group of disorders due to brain damage before, during or immediately after birth. The usual symptoms of CP are the inability to control body movements.

In some patients the outstanding characteristics are moving muscles without control, body twitching and strange grimaces of the face. In others, the muscles tighten up, become rigid, and produce tremor or shaking. In at least half the patients, there are speech defects, mental retardation, eye defects — and about one-quarter have impaired hearing.

Here are some of the known causes of cerebral palsy: birth injury, German measles, lack of sufficient oxygen to the infant, Rh incompatibility between mother and fetus, faulty development of brain cells before birth. One of the predisposing factors is prematurity.

Many of the causes can be prevented; others can't. It's important to remember that having CP doesn't automatically produce lower than normal intelligence. Therefore, such patients should not automatically be deprived of the advantages of educational activities.

The money you donate to Cerebral Palsy "drives" is being well spent to promote research to provide standards of education and rehabilitation, to spread public and professional education on the subject, to promote better facilities for diagnosis and treatment, to procure employment for persons who have cerebral palsy and seek co-operation between government and private agencies.

At least you can be thankful, Mrs. N., that your little nephew isn't a completely "forgotten child."

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I say there is a cure for Paget's disease of bone. I used to have lots of pain until someone told me to eat an onion sandwich three times a day; I also eat onions cut up in cottage cheese. I'm 74 and my head feels great. My doctor says, "All right, if onions help, keep on having them." What do you think? — Mrs. S.

COMMENT: Doctors often disagree, but this time I'll go right along with your doctor. If the onions seem to help, why stop?

But I must insert some disquieting objections: I know of no specific cure for Paget's diseases. I say this so others who may wish to try the "onion cure" will not be disappointed if it is ineffective for them.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For May 21

Your birthday today: The challenge of this coming year is finding clear spiritual guidance, achieving a reasonable balance between purely material gains and psychic evolution. Mental training, technical trainings, training in mechanical operations, advance in scholarship are all favored according to your specialty.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your purse strings fly open in sympathy for the associates and competitors. Save cash for definite uses rather than spend on such impulses.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Friends, relatives bring offers of financial matters — perhaps a good thing for you. Check it out first.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Positive thinking, a carryover from last night's prayer, leads you through a generally favorable day. Keep yourself and others active and in good humor.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Format attention to detail repays, and people appreciate exact information freely given. Ask for precise figures and pledges, instead of assuming anything.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): All the resources you can use effectively are very near at hand. You need only the imagination to see them and the ingenuity to find a way to make use of them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Life is like photographic development now. Lights become shadows for the moment while some obscure matters come burning forward with the flame of faith.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Find whatever detachment from people and their doings you can. Amuse yourself, drift into serious thought, meditation, prayer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Whatever help is offered should be accepted and very carefully supervised into channels of your choice. The utmost tact is barely good enough. Gently does it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Business competes with domestic concerns and you try to attend something of both. Allot definite time to specific items.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your community comes alive and starts programs arranged during the vacation. What you put into it may be more noticeable than planned, but can't be retrieved or withdrawn.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Competition for your feelings and attention arise between old relations and new, perhaps the return of past contacts.

For May 20

Your birthday today: In this rather healthy, average year, you thrive according to your diligence and willingness to learn. Material gain often competes heavily against intangibles, so you have to save special time for some activities. Home life settles to whatever level you provide. Today's natives are sincere but at times tense and critical. They frequently are drawn to foreign interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): The less effort you make the better. Enough social amenities remain for the little exercise you need.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Never-mind impatient friends, relatives; keep your own pace. Since no real urgency exists in today's projects, turn away from habits of haste.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Relinquish your demands on the time and attention of others, particularly younger people who have to pursue interests related to their life.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): An upward cycle begins to peak in a few weeks. Prepare to exert yourself consistently, more verbally. There is much to ask and receive.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Give yourself a holiday from tension. Invest time in favorite hobby or find a game that intrigues you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Community affairs become complex if you accept invitations casually without looking to see what will happen by so doing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Make this a quiet Sunday in which to give yourself a full chance for interior regroupings, digestion of recent experience. Meditate, pray.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Mulling over current events and situations brings a subtle discovery of human nature—quirks or nuances you hadn't seen before. The search for another expression of the same quality begins, and you have a new hobby.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Go directly to the point with a simple question. Follow a youthful example, take the answer given at face value. If you must coax a statement, there are reservations to analyze.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): While you rest, think back over the past and seek patterns. Abstain from getting involved in an attempt to change things yet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Opportunity is offered for knowledge of bargains to pick up in the coming week. Make notes in your Sunday leisure, after you've encouraged everybody to join in community observances.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Chances are you're trying too much change in and out of your home in too short a time. Give the whole program a rest.

Bert Lawrence Wins All-party Applause for 'Open' Approach

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's human resources committee, approving estimate for the health department for 971-72 cth a week, gave Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence an all-party round of applause.

Liberal and New Democratic Party opposition members said it was a tribute to the "open" way the new minister performed.

The portfolio, which he took over in March, has been a sticky one the last several years as the province reluctantly joined the federal medical insurance scheme and ended up charging the highest premiums in Canada.

At one stage Mr. Lawrence's predecessor, Thomas Wells, endured the embarrassment of an opposition motion to decrease the department's estimates by the amount of his salary—the traditional non-confidence vote.

The department has been attacked for failing to include nursing homes and drugs in its insurance coverage, for permitting the Ontario Medical Association to set its own fee schedule, for a shortage of doctors, nurses and dentists in rural and northern areas and for treatment of mentally ill and retarded persons.

The most general complaint was that the department allowed only a modicum of access to facts the opposition thought should be public.

Mr. Lawrence, former minister of financial and commercial affairs, represents Carleton East. He ran for leadership of the Progressive Conservative party on a platform of open, responsive government, finishing last, except for an unknown student.

Appointed health minister, he took a two-week crash course in departmental business.

He told the house health institutions would be open to members and the press and he hoped they would make constructive criticism.

Meanwhile his department staff was working into the night on legislation that will define the roles of doctors nurses, dentists and para-medical personnel, re-define their education and self-disciplining powers.

"We're all breathing hard trying to keep up to him," one official said.

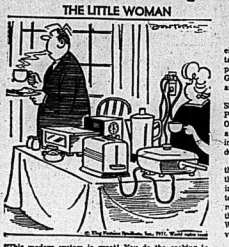
Mr. Lawrence told the committee this is the year between the report of the committee on the healing arts and its crystallization in legislation.

The reports are in, he said and "we are faced with the historic development of dozens of institutional health-service functions in this province."

"Suddenly, partially from the impact of total universal and state-supported care, we start to pull the thing together. . . . We are launched on the task of defining the role of all health disciplines."

During study of his estimates, he revealed that legislation is being prepared to define chronic drunken offenders as sick persons instead of criminals.

Several days later, he announced a massive attack on venereal disease.



"You're letting more cats out of the bag in these estimates than an anti-vivisectionist," said George Ben (L—Toronto Humber).

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) brought up a complaint he had made last fall that contracts at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Toronto were being awarded to board members.

Mr. Lawrence agreed to bring in a regulation forbidding directors or all hospital boards and department agencies from bidding on hospital contracts.

Dr. Shulman was elated.

If everyone in government preach, he said, the Progressive Conservatives could be re-elected for another 100 years.

"This modern system is great! You do the cooking in the dining room and then we have to eat in the kitchen!"

Student Rocket Grounded

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette stepped in Friday to prevent a group of high school students in La Tuque from launching a rocket they hoped would climb to 37,000 feet.

The launching by members of the Science Club in the pulp and paper town was scheduled for today.

Mr. Choquette said in a statement that he might reconsider and authorize the launching if steps are taken to to guarantee the safety of inspectors.

Most OHC Tenants Pay Promptly

TORONTO (CP) — Ninety-eight per cent of tenants in Ontario Housing Corp. dwellings pay their rent on time, Allan Grossman, minister of trade and development, said Friday.

He told the legislature Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) had cast a cloud over all OHC tenants by suggesting they are allowed to go without paying hundreds of thousands of dollars in rent.

dr. Shulman asked earlier this month whether it was true that the installation of a centralized computer accounting system last year had resulted in rental arrears of hundreds of thousands of dollars—$240,000 in West Toronto alone—and that vast sums had been written off.

Mr. Grossman said the use of a centralized computer had "created some rent collection

Mr. Grossman said rental arproblems" but officials at no time lost control of the situation.

rears in the private sector amount to .08 to 1.4 per cent of rents collected, compared with two per cent for OHC tenants.

Last year, he said, total billings for Ontario's public housing were $51.6 million for 37,828 units.

The writeoff of arrears for 1970 was $160,000 or .7 per cent. Arrears to May 1 this year, including accumulated arrears, were $613,000 or 1.88 per cent.

Mohawks Reply To Rejection Of Claim to Isle

OTTAWA (CP) — Mohawk Indians from the St. Regis reserve near Cornwall Friday questioned a justice department study which rejected their claim to Loon Island in the St. Lawrence River.

"This decision was reached without our involvement in any manner and all we ask is the same opportunity as other people to hear the evidence against us," said the Indians in a news release.

The Indians held closed meetings with high-ranking officials of the Indian affairs department. George Manuel, president of the National Indian Brotherhood, attended the meeting to back up the Mohawk claim.

A report of the meeting is to be given Monday to Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien.

He also denied Dr. Shulman's charges that officials of the OHC who gave the NDP member a confidential memo about arrears had been harassed and threatened under the Official Secrets Act.

In other business Friday:

—George Kerr, minister of energy and resorces management, told the house he hopes the federal government will pay at least half the cost of bilding nutrient-removal plants in the Great Lakes basin.

—Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Quebec broiler chickens imported from a store at Hawkesbury, Ont., had been cleared for sale after the grocer obtained the proper import permit.

—Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) proposed that the government build three-bedroom modular homes produced by a New York company and costing $5,000. Stanley Randall, former minister of trade and development, said the houses are so small "you would have to rent them to dwarfs."

Israel Stands Firm

By The Associated Press

Israel says it sees no reason to make any more concessions to Egypt for an agreement to reopen the Suez canal.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Israel is still awaiting Cairo's response to its proposals for reopening the waterway that the Egyptians closed during the 1967 Middle East war.

"I see no reason why we should commit ourselves to further concessions, since the entire balance of concessions, so far, is one of concessions made by Israel," Eban told a radio interviewer Sunday.

"Egypt is not asked to give up anything not the ceasefire line nor anything under her control. In my opinion, Egypt therefore has an obligation to respond to our proposals."

These proposals are understood to be that Israeli forces will withdraw from the east bank of the canal if Egypt guarantees an end to hostilities and does not send its troops across the waterway into the positions vacated by the Israelis.

Eban said more than the reopening of the canal is at stake. "This is a test, an experimental station for the very feasibility of peace."

U.S. State Secretary William P. Rogers has been pressing Israel and Egypt to reach an agreement on the canal, hoping that it will give a boost to negotiations for a general peace settlement.

But the Egyptians insist that before reopening the canal their troops must reoccupy any territory that Israel vacates on the east bank and also that the Israeli withdrawal must be the first step in a phased withdrawal from all territory seized in the 1967 war.

Meanwhile, Palestinian guerrillas and the Jordanian army battled Sunday for the second day in a row in northern Jordan. Each side accused the other of starting the fighting.

One Third Of Grads Won't Fight

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — State Secretary William P. Rogers says President Nixon's course of disengagement from Southeast Asia has been carefully charted and is irreversible.

His speech before 470 graduates and 3,000 guests at Colgate University Sunday was followed by a pledge from 159 graduates that if drafted they will disobey any order assigning them to a combat role in Southeast Asia.

Rogers's speech was not interrupted, but the 1971 class valedictorian, Thomas W. O'Brien, followed with what he called a "counter statement." In it he read off the names of 159 seniors who had pledged not to fight in Southeast Asia.

As O'Brien read each name, a graduate stood up.

When Colgate President Thomas A. Barlett returned to the rostrum after O'Brien's speech, he said he was "profoundly disappointed at this misuse of the misuse of this occasion and misuse of the secretary of state."

As many in the audience applauded, Bartlett apologized to Rogers.

Boats' Seizure Linked to Delay

HAVANA (Reuter) — The 68 persons from a Pan American World Airways airliner hijacked to the Cuban capital Saturday looked forward to another day of swimming and sight seeing with no official indication of when their unexpected trip to Cuba would end.

Some of the 59 passengers and nine crew members, most of them North Americans, took a bus tour of Havana Sunday, which included a swim at a beach and a pool.

Officials of the Swiss Embassy, which represents American interests in Cuba, said there were no developments in the affair, but discussions were continuing with Cuban authorities.

They declined to state the nature of difficulties which have held Miami-bound Boeing 707 in Havana since about 6.30 p.m. EDT Saturday when it arrived from Caracas, Venezuela.

A co-pilot said the passengers and crew were being held for political reasons. He cited a case of eight Cuban fishermen who are being held in Florida on charges of fishing in U.S. territorial waters.

Cuba has maintained that the men were in international waters. The frontpage of Havana's Sunday newspaper was covered with the incident and termed it "the new Yankee aggression."

The co-pilot said the hijacking of the Buenos Aires-Miami Flight 442 was carried out by a young man who boarded the plane during a stopover in Caracas, took a baby girl hostage and threatened to kill her with a knife unless the plane went to Cuba.

There was no word on the unidentified hijacker, but the Cuban press described him as a young Venezuelan who said he had political motives for his action.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the plane was being held "an unusual period of time," but said it was not unprecedented, adding that another hijacked jet was delayed 36 hours.

Prisoners Don't Want To Go Back

SAIGON (AP) — Only 13 of the 600 North Vietnamese prisoners of war tapped for repatriation this week have agreed to go home, official sources said today.

Nevertheless, the sources said, the Saigon government plans to go ahead with the release of prisoners off the coast of the demilitarized zone Friday. North Vietnam has agreed to the arrangements.

The 647 PoWs who have refused to be repatriated have until Thursday, the day before the turnover, to change their minds. One source indicated expectations that this might happen on orders from Hanoi, saying: "The prisoners have their own grapevine, and it's very good. They might get orders to return rather than stay."

The foreign ministry cancelled a news conference today at which it was to outline arrangements for the transfer of the prisoners. The press briefing was tentatively rescheduled for Wednesday.

U.S. officials have been concerned about any delay in the PoW turnover because it marks the first time in the Vietnam war that the North Vietnamese have openly agreed in advance to receive repatriated prisoners. The Americans think this might be a step toward release of some of the 339 Americans known to be held prisoner in North Vietnam.

For this reason, some sources said, U.S. officials have put considerable pressure on Saigon officials to carry out the PoW release according to the plans agreed upon by North and South Vietnam.

India Will Move Refugees Away From Border Region

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — India announced today that more than four millions East Pakistanis have fled into its territory since the martial law crackdown in their province.

Labor and Rehabilitation Minister R. K. Khadilkar added in a statement: "What the eventual figure will be is anybody's guess. It may be five or even eight million."

He sai dthe government had decided to move the refugees a short distance into the interior to relieve pressure on the border areas and 20 large camps would be built to house about one million.

Reports have said that living conditions in overcrowded temporary border camps led to 300 deaths from cholera and gastro-enteritis, although Khadilkar said a cholera epidemic was raging across the border and the disease was spread by the fleeing East Pakistanis.

Commenting on reports that 150 refugees died from cholera in a camp at Karimpur 70 miles north of Calcutta, the minister said at least 100,000 refugees have crossed into the area in the last two days, some arriving with bullet wounds.

Khadilkar, in charge of refugee relief, said the coming monsoon season would bring greater danger from epidemics and the government would make every possible effort to prevent them. He said the World Health Organization had been asked for help.

He said his department estimated that the Indian government would have to spend $24 million on relief operations in the next six months, based on a figure of only 3.75 million refugees.

International relief organizations and foreign governments had so far contributed cash and material aid worth $15.4 million, he said.

Khadilkar, who last week expressed disappointment at the "inadequate response" of the international community to the growing refugee problem, said Sunday "there is growing awareness of the magnitude and poignancy of the problem and an acceptance of responsibility amongst the international community."

Five Defect From Planes

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — A Russian woman and her two children and two Bulgarians defected from airliners at the international airport here during the last week, it was learned Sunday.

W. J. Collins, officer in charge of the immigration centre here, said Polina Lidiskaia and her sons, aged three and five, left a Cubana Airlines plane here Thursday night.

Earlier in the week two Bulgarians, a 26-year-old man and a 19-year-old woman, both single, asked immigration officers for asylum.

There were no details of their flights. Both were passed on to authorities in Halifax.

Trudeau's Words Irk Americans

LONDON (CP) — The Sunday Telegraph says diplomatic relations between Ottawa and Washington have become chilled because of Prime Minister Trudeau's sharp criticism of the United States while visiting Moscow.

In a dispatch from Washington, the paper says the result may be that President Nixon may not take up Trudeau's invitation to visit Canada. The invitation was made two years ago.

Trudeau was reported to have complained about the "overpowering presence" of the United States, posing dangers "to our national identity from a cultural, economic and perhaps even military point of view."

Mariner on Way to Mars

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — "Looks like we'll be at Mars in 5½ months," a U.S. space agency official said as the Mariner IX spacecraft joined two Russian probes hurtling toward the red planet to search for life and to unravel scientific mysteries.

Mariner IX rode the flawless performance of an Atlas-Centaur rocket into space Sunday to start a 247 million-mile voyage to the planet.

Within hours after launch, the payload's navigation equipment locked on to guide points, the sun and Canopus, brightest star in the southern hemisphere. This stabilized the craft for its outward journey.

If all goes well, Mariner IX will fire into Martian orbit Nov. 14 and begin an extensive photographic and scientific mission expected to last three months. More than 6,500 pictures of the surface are to be transmitted as the craft sweeps as close as 750 miles to the planet.

Two Russian probes, Mars II and Mars III, were launched earlier this month, but U.S. tracking experts believe the American satellite, travelling a slightly different and shorter course, has a chance to beat the Soviet vehicles to the target.

They estimate Mars II will arrive in mid-November and Mars III later that month.

The Russian payloads each weigh more than 10,000 pounds, considerably more than Mariner's 2,270 pounds. There is speculation they may attempt to land on Mars.

Whatever happens, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration express confidence that data obtained by the three missions will be shared.

Seek Farm Homes

Why is the price of milk rising, steaks almost out of reach of the average pocketbook and farmers always complaining?

About 100 young people from Kingston and Belleville will find out this summer, through a unique public relations program sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

The Urban-Rural Exchange program is looking for farmers who are willing to show city people, through personal experience, the pleasures and problems of farm life in 1971.

The search is on this month for host farm families who will take a city student, aged from 15 to 15, into their homes for a week.

The city youth will be expected to participate in regular farm life — early riding, routine chores and even agricultural organization meetings.

This "learning experience" is the main objective of the program, Mrs. Smith said. It will gain practical, on-the-spot insight into the problems of farm finance, weather, technology and long hours that go to make up a farmer's life, and that have a direct bearing on the cost of produce in the stores.

It's the Ontario government's response to the farmer's complaint: "If only city people could see the way we live."

The city students participating in the exchange are young people who have never lived on a farm nor have had an opportunity to visit a farm for any period of time. Selection is made through the elementary and secondary schools of cities over 30,000 population — in this district Kingston and Belleville.

Two hundred host farms are required in this district. Miss Monica Alyea, program co - ordinator in this area is now combing the four counties of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward and Hastings for families will ing to open their homes and farms to city visitors for one week. Anyone interested in supporting the program is to contact Miss Alyea at once at the Ontario Department of Agriculture office in Stirling, telephone 395-3393.

Quebec's Activist Reporters Said Threat to Objectivity

KITCHENER (CP) — Quebec's newspapers are encountering serious difficulties in maintaining objectivity because of activist reporters, militant unions and newsroom separatism, a leading French - Canadian journalist said on Saturday.

Mr. Cole said activist reporters working for the French - language papers in Quebec have one stated objective "and that is to take over control of the news room" from the managing editor and the publisher.

He said the managing editors of two Quebec newspapers have been dismissed in recent months after militant campaigning against them by members of their own news staffs.

Most recently, he said, a journalists' union approved donating funds for the legal defence of two jailed leaders of the terrorist Front de Libération du Quebec.

Mr. Cote said the news staffs now are taking by control over the editorial budgets at some newspapers.

Canada's managing editors voted Saturday to consider a continuing role for their annual conference. After appointing a committee to work out a possible year - round program, the editors instructed the conference board of directors to submit proposals to the Canadian Daily Newspapers Publishers Association at its meeting in Victoria, B.C. in September.

The managing editors voted in favor of changing the role of the conference from a once-a-year three days in discussion to that of an association which would continue efforts for improved quality of writing and editing. The mechanics of such a change are to be worked out by a committee headed by William Galt of the Vancouver Sun.

Delegates at the conference felt the time was appropriate for such a change in concept, coming as it did after crystallization of criticism following the Davey report on the mass media and a suggestion now under study by Canadian publishers that the editorial role of the publishers-association be reviewed.

Conference delegates also agreed to endorse the organizing committee of Media 71 to communicate the interest of the managing editors conference "in improving the quality and professional standards of Canadian journalism."

Media 71 plans a second conference similar to the first one held in Ottawa, it aiirac-

Convention Bureau's Efforts Showing Concrete Results

By COLIN BRUCE

The convention bureau, after a slow and unproductive start, is now beginning to grow and show signs of a great resource for the city of Belleville, said J. C. Houston, manager of Belleville chamber of commerce.

"Already we are becoming a success story," said Mr. Houston. "We have just been advised that Belleville will be the site for the AHEPA convention next year."

Armed with the brochure of pamplets illustrating the sites and facilities of the city, supplied completely by the chamber of commerce, Alex Manjuris and his party of AHEPA members attended the convention recently held in Ottawa and sold the idea that Belleville would be the prime location for the upcoming convention of '72.

"Conventions are one of the best things that can happen to a city. All facets of retail, city promotion and the chamber of commerce to explore the possibilities of a convention bureau to be based in the chamber offices.

"This AHEPA organization for instance, will be bringing the trade and buying power of about 500 people into the city.

"This convention will make it necessary to use every available location for the housing and servicing of the group therefore creating the revenue of the convention throughout the entire city," commented Mr. Houston.

The weekend, which will fall at about this time next year, will bring extra new business into the downtown community. It will impress upon delegates that Belleville is ready to handle the needs of a convention and give the city of Belleville a chance to show what the area has to offer as a place to visit and live, and to hold further conventions.

When the chamber first started on the project, enthusiasm was slow and not until recently, under the direction of George Van Dusen, was there any real, concerted efforts put forth to evaluate the project's worth.

"I went right down to the park area, built couldn't find any of the tins being used by tourists," Mr. McNulty said.

He said one tin had been returned, the user alerted when he saw the danger insignia printed on the container.

The gas bar operator said the tins could be returned or exchanged.

Canoe Trip in Quarry Teaches Water Skills

On Saturday, the First Canniton - Corbyville Ventures Company, accompanied by several girl guides and rangers, went for a canoe trip . . . in a quarry.

This may not seem to be the height of enjoyment for the ardent canoist but the excursions were really part of an extensive training program by the company.

Since March 15, the 11-member Venture company has instructed in all areas of canoemanship and offered their services to SOuts, Girl Guides, Rangers and Rovers throughout the Belleville district. The on - water training sessions have been held in a water-filled quarry on Highway 14, donated by Mel Plane.

The shady shores of the quarry provided an ideal setting for canoe practice under the hot sun and no time was lost in taking to the water. All canoists were equipped with safety-approved life jackets and skills learned from the Ventures.

Under the watchful eyes of the older boys, canoeists have learned the art of carrying, safety line tossing, canoe safety, canoe protection, launching on all types of shoreline and various paddle strokes.

In the water, these lessons were put to the test Saturday with various paddling strokes first demonstrated and then undertaken by the scouts and guides.

At one point, Donny Stoliker and Gary Cotwa deliberately upset a canoe and demonstrated the proper method of maintaining buoyance. When the vessel was upset, the duo rocked the canoe, emptying as much water as possible. The fibreglass boat was made buoyant enough to cling to, preventing exhaustion, or with further emptying paddling would be possible.

However, there are still a few more weeks to go before the pupils will be allowed to undertake this exercise.

Other hazardous manoeuvres taught include a change in deep water without an instructor, bow to stern and stern to bow, and paddling without paddles, using hands.

Each pupil has achieved a minimum of junior Red Cross and their Venture teachers have been awarded their silver and gold swimming award.

At completion of the course in June, the pupils who successfully pass the survey will be awarded their Queen's Silver, Duke of Edinburgh Awards.

The First Canniton-Corbyville Ventures selected canoe, outdoor camping and swimming as their complete program and presently have purchased six canoes for their outdoor activities.

All members of the company between 15 and 17, are attending high schools in the area and most are qualified in St. John Ambulance, Red Cross swimming and canoe guilds for both YMCA and Quinte Secondary High School. Each has or could qualify for the Scout canoe lodge on the gold level as well as camping sportsman, swimming, or the old pathfinder lodges. Before revision of the scouting program, these various achievements qualified the scout for a badge award.

As far as outdoor life or service to the community, each has the statis of the old Queen Scouts.

First Canniton - Corbyville Venture company advisor E. B. Webber, explained the company selected to put on the canoe course themselves because of their previous skills. H said they have been teaching this course to 36 people for seven weeks Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons and still meet Tuesday for discussion on the course. On Wednesday the ventures take turns running the First Canniton - Corbyville Boy Scouts.

Up until now, the company has instructed two Rangers and 13 Girl Guides, five Scouts and 10 High School students in the art of canoe management.

The aim of this course was not so much to make first class canoeists out of their pupils, but rather, to make each capable and efficient in handling the vessels to gain as much enjoyment as possible out of canoeing.

However, true appreciation cannot be gained until the pupils take to larger waterways than the quarry. This facility is somewhat restricting.

Submarine?

Like a submarine emerging from the deep, this canoe's bow emerged from the waters of Mel Plane's Quarry on High 14 Saturday. However, no mystery here, Donny Stoliker and Gary Cotwa, members of the First Canniton - Corbyville Venture company, were demonstrating the proper method of righting a submerged canoe to a group of scouts and guides in their canoe training program. The boys rocked the vessel front to back and side to side to remove water.

P.M.'s Role

It is well known that Prime Minister Trudeau runs a tight ship as it were in his handling of the Government. The casual attitude he adopts on occasions while answering Opposition spokesmen or the Press may be only a pose. It is said also that when the Prime Minister is away, as he has been for the better part of two weeks, and Acting Prime Minister Sharp is in charge, the atmosphere in the House is one of comparative levity. First, because Mr. Trudeau tolerates little nonsense and secondly because Mr. Sharp is less thick-skinned and inclined at times to react with too much sensitivity to Opposition shafts.

But the question may be asked, how vital to the running of the country is a Prime Minister? Is he no more than a figurehead anyway, while the Government ticks along reasonably efficiently anyway? Would things be better still without the personality cult that grows up around the man, as well as around the leader of the Opposition, and without the concentration of, for want of a better term, love-hate feelings, on their heads? Would the country's business progress just as efficiently, if not better, with ministries simply doing their thing and coming together in Parliament, with a neutral figure like the Speaker, to guide the discussion?

Admittedly this is all rather hypothetical and unlikely to come to such a pass. But such thoughts occurred on reading a recent remark of Conservative house leader Gerald Baldwin. Following an exchange with the Prime Minister he said if Mr. Trudeau stayed out of the country longer "we could get more of Canada's business done."

The remark was in jest, but an ironic one, made during discussion on the Government reorganization bill which is Mr. Trudeau's baby and which he claims is aimed at greater efficiency in government.

Acts of God?

A recent newspaper item told of a little girl who died by strangulation when her head was caught in a power-operated window of the family car. She and another child were playing in the car at the time and the parents were out.

Unbelievable . . . tragic!

Yes, but unhappily, such incredible, freakish accidents do occur — and lately, it seems, with alarming regularity.

Consider these happenings: in a recent hotel fire in London, England, a young woman was impaled on railings when she jumped from an upper floor window. She died shortly afterwards.

Mrs. William Davis of London, Ont., killed when she was buried by a mudslide at the edge of Lake Erie. Mrs. Davis and her husband had survived a 12-hour storm in their boat, running aground at dawn last Tuesday. Going to the aid of her husband, who caught a foot in a mudslide, Mrs. Davis was buried by a second slide. Mr. Davis freed himself and scaled a 100-ft. cliff to seek help.

Actor Clint Walker, 43, rushed to hospital for open-chest surgery after a ski pole punctured his heart. Walker was skiing with his daughter at a California mountain resort. He had neither pulse nor blood pressure when he reached hospital an hour after the accident but was reported in "fair to good condition" after surgery.

Less serious but almost as bizarre was 11-year-old Lorraine Groleau's mishap in Hamilton last week. She was bending to pick up an umbrella on her way home from school when she stumbled and the shaft of the umbrella became imbedded in her foot. The plastic handle had apparently come off exposing the metal shaft. Lorraine was sent home following two stitches and tetanus shots.

And in Belfast, Northern Ireland, one of a number of cars blown across the street from a bombed army-police barracks landed on a baby carriage, seriously injuring the child inside. A soldier was killed in the explosion.

And so it goes. If war is hell, which of the agony that can befall innocent citizens far from any battlefield!

The Murmansk Run

The Prime Minister's visit to Murmansk is a reminder of those days when Allied convoys used to bring vitally weather and ice pulverizes and planes to get war material to the Russians. Those were days when naval men from the Royal Navy and Commonwealth vessels went on friendly terms with Soviet naval personnel and other members of the armed forces. A British officer of our acquaintance who sailed in those convoys recalls a Soviet army officer who was invited aboard his ship and entertained with songs including, predictably, the Volga boatman! Many years have passed since then, but now something of the camaraderie of those days has returned.

Farm Marketing Measure Bogs Down in Commons

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has given up on repeated attempts to win Commons passage before the summer adjournment of its national farm marketing boards legislation.

Informants say the government will not bring the matter before the Commons again until the fall.

The Commons plans to adjourn on or about June 30, after approving pay increases for MPs, and return soon after Labor Day, Sept. 7.

The government has maintained all along that its marketing legislation provides the best prospect for a peace act in the chicken-and-egg war—the establishment by some provinces of trade barriers against imports of eggs and broiler chickens from other provinces.

Manitoba has sent a test case to the Supreme Court of Canada and a court decision in the matter may come before the Commons is asked to deal with it again.

The Conservatives have fought the marketing legislation partly on the grounds that it would take all farm decisions out of the hands of farmers and allocate them to bureaucrats.

The Conservatives have done fairly well this session in getting the government to change its mind.

For instance, the government under furious Conservative fire withdrew a bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general, Parliament's financial watchdog.

It agreed to opposition requests that all legislation and regulations be placed before a parliamentary committee to make sure there is no conflict with basic rights.

If this agreement had been reached earlier than it was, the government would have been forced to undergo questioning for all its regulations under the War Measures Act, proclaimed in October and since lifted.

Compromise was reached on the government's reorganization bill and it was quickly passed this week.

It permits establishment of new ministries of state and appointment of a dozen more parliamentary secretaries and will result soon in a minor cabinet shuffle.

The reorganization bill stood in the name of Prime Minister Trudeau but he never made a Commons speech about it and the government-opposition compromise on it was reached while the prime minister was touring Russia.

Just before Mr. Trudeau left for Russia May 17 he accused Gerald W. Baldwin, Conservative House leader, of lying about all-party negotiations on the bill. Mr. Baldwin also accused Mr. Trudeau of lying.

After that, it looked as if any compromise was impossible.

But, Mr. Baldwin says, he swallowed his anger, overlooked Mr. Trudeau's epithet and went to work with Allan Mac-Eachen, government House leader.

"If Mr. Trudeau would stay out of the country longer we could get more of Canada's business done," Mr. Baldwin said with a grin in an interview.

Escape from Elba

Ulster Still Plagued by Terrorists

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The latest episode of violence in Northern Ireland spotlights the apparent ineffectiveness of the Ulster government to reduce terrorism despite expanded deployment of troops and police.

Pleading in vain with Ulstermen to come forward with information on assailants, Prime Minister Brian Faulkner appears to be edging towards a policy of increased use of force by suggesting there may be times — if they know they are shooting at a terrorist.

The problem is that the troops can never be sure. The youth swinging idly on a gate may be just passing the time or waiting for the right moment to toss a hand-made grenade.

The man with a suitcase walking down the street may be just a visitor or a dedicated member of the outlawed Irish Republican Army preparing to detonate a police station or shop with a package of gelignite.

To take a gamble and shoot involves the risk of a grave mistake which firebrands could exploit for their own purposes. The fact that Faulkner had to lean towards increased force as his latest political weapon suggests the new leader, even at this stage, may be running out of fresh ideas.

A significant aspect in the new outbreaks of bombings and murder is that the security forces appear unable to apprehend the killers. A number of British commentators have observed the surprising ability of the attackers to disappear in the Belfast ghetos.

To many of the Roman Catholic sympathizers of the IRA the British troops form an extra part of the enemy as Ulster Protestant police and government officials.

Since January, terrorists have taken the lives of 10 security personnel, soldiers and two policemen. They have wounded dozens of soldiers and numerous civilians. But though Faulkner has called the terrorists "subhuman," the crowds who cheer IRA men as they march behind the coffins of their dead appear to hold different views.

Some British newspapers call for internment of all known IRA men. Others suggest that those who aid terrorists even through silent complicity are joining hands in murder.

Common to the threat of all outraged views is the concern that the Ulster problem may again run out of control.

For Faulkner the problem may even hit closer and deeper. He has been described as Ulster's last chance for stability. He faces political pressures from ambitious men. The longer the terrorism continues the greater may be the feeling even among orderly citizens that they may have to think again in terms of leadership and security.

Niagara Escarpment Land Deals

Windsor Star

It is only right that Premier William Davis has established a royal commission to inquire into the propriety of land acquisition on the Niagara Escarpment. A royal commission was the least the premier could do in the light of evidence emerging from statements made in the Ontario legislature and outside it.

Once again, however, an Ontario government is using the royal commission routine to take the heat off a highly embarrassing political issue. This is not to denigrate the capabilities of Judge C. E. Bennett or the counsel who will lead the inquiry for the government. They will undoubtedly do a fine job consistent with the terms of reference handed them by Ontario government.

It is the terms of reference which are to be questioned. Premier Davis is to restrict the royal commission to the question of the propriety of land acquisitions. The terms, therefore, leave out the even more contentious issue of why the government failed to act on the accepted recommendations of the Gertler regort on the Niagara Escarpment thereby permitting land speculation, especially in the expensive forks of the Credit River area. The matter of non-purchasing (through lack of government initiative) will not be touched.

The terms of reference being handed to the commission will ensure that the issue is sidetracked with a secondary matter.

Ontario Liberal and New Democrat leaders Robert Nixon and Stephen Lewis must press such questions as: Why the Ontario government failed to put a freeze on land values on the escarpment; why comparatively little financing has been set aside for escarpment purchases by the government; why there was so little co-ordination between the various departments of the government who were expected to deal with the Gertler report recommendations; why the Gertler report remained a secret document within the cabinet for so long; and why the Progressive Conservative government failed to act thoroughly on behalf of the people of Ontario after accepting the recommendations of the Gertler report?

Soviet Talks

Canada Helps Bridge the Gap

Montreal La Presse: Several Kremlin personalities—headed by Mr. Kosygin and Mr. Gromyko—cosmonauts, poets, artists, the composer Shostakovitch, Prokofiev's widow, hundreds of diplomats . . . briefly, all of Moscow attended the reception given by the prime minister of Canada and Mrs. Trudeau to mark the signing of an agreement which could well open a new era in Canadian-Soviet relations and could, in the words of the Soviets themselves, mark a giant step in East-West relations.

It is certainly not Canada which provoked the calming of the cold war. But it is not an exaggeration to say it has contributed tolerably to clearing the way for coexistance. In recognizing China last year and in signing an official friendship agreement with Moscow this year, Ottawa makes gestures which prepare the way for Washington.

In any case, high government officials reckon that Canada is pursuing steps that Washington would like to be able to initiate soon. It cre ates precedents . . . Who knows? It is perhaps on the way to becoming the Switzerland of North America . . . .

Classroom Revolution

Peterborough Examiner

A revolution has occurred in the schools and it hasn't come a moment too soon.

Educators now realize that you can turn youngsters on as easily as you can turn them off. It takes some imagination and the realization that students can enjoy learning.

The youth festival of the communication arts sponsored in Peterborough last week by the county board of education, was proof that the learning process need not be a gruesome business.

Thousands of parents and pupils turned out to see the results of the classroom revolution. They saw students class write a poem and give it musical accompaniment. They saw creative dancing and puppet shows.

Forest Protection
Duty of Everyone

Kingston Whig Standard

Recently the Ontario Government, through its Department of Lands and Forests, signed a joint forest protection agreement with the province of Quebec. The two provinces developed this program to inform "boundary-zone" residents of forest fire danger conditions on both sides of the Ontario - Quebec border. Emergencies affecting both provinces will be dealt with by a pooling of resources. This will include joint suppression of fires which may start along the boundary zone — five miles either side of the line.

It is a pity the Ontario Government could not sign a forest protection agreement with all those people who may be travelling through our forested areas, or camping, or fishing this summer. Preventing destructive and costly forest fires should be the personal responsibility of every citizen who loves the outdoors and wants to protect its benefits. Unfortunately, every year human carelessness results in wide stretches of Canada's forested land being ravaged by fire.

Every citizen, in some way or another, depends upon our forests — for wood, work, relaxation or the tax revenues they produce. Where such a valuable natural resource is concerned, Canadians must be better caretakers.

'Polished Performance' by Army Cadets

In the heat of Sunday afternoon, No. 2818 Hastings and Prince Edward Cadet Corps, marched onto the parade square of the Belleville armories for their annual inspection.

Glittering with ceremony, the afternoon was filled with color and prestige to the participating members as they carried out their assignments "to produce a very polished inspection", said Brigadier General G. R. Coffin, inspecting officer.

The format of the parade consisted of demonstrations, displays, and awards of rank and merit, these highlighted by a Queen's Commission and an enactment of a rescue team complete with track, ladders and casualties.

"Gerry G. Wood, recipient of Queen's Commission, has been the source of much of the personal honor in the corps," said Major A. W. Cunningham, CD, as he talked of the exploits of the cadet while participating in a mountain climbing course in Banff, Alberta.

"The promotion to second lieutenant, or Queen's Commission", said Major Cunningham, "is a great achievement for an eighteen-year-old boy, and is greatly deserved by Lt. Wood because of his devotion to the corps and the many hours that he has given to the work of his fellow cadets."

To demonstrate rescue procedures, two teams, complete with ropes, stretchers, ladders and bandages, mounted the balcony, huddled two of the smaller cadets up in blankets and stretchers and lowered them to the floor, some fifteen feet below.

"It was interesting to note," said one cadet, "there wasn't a sound from the previously murmuring audience while the bodies were being lowered."

After the survivors were safely placed on the floor, the audience was invited to view more closely the handiwork of the cadets.

One of the great attractions during the day was the precision drill squad.

Within the general's address to the corps, he mentioned that, "this corps has the shiniest collection of boots that I have seen as an inspecting officer. This shows to me that people are trying".

The day was filled with awards; including a new trophy to be presented to the top senior cadet. Sponsored by the Ack Ack Kennedy Club in Oshawa, it was presented to Chief Warrant Officer C. E. Ward by the president of the club, Ted Lawson.

The Lt.-Col. K. D. H. Willcocks trophy, awarded to the best cadet, was presented to Pte. B. F. Lawrence.

The Lt.-Col. F. R. Allan trophy, awarded to the top recruit, was presented by Lt.-Col. J. R. Richardson to Pte. M. G. Krazewski.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Senior NCO Association trophy for the best shot with a .22 calibre rifle was awarded to Pte. B. D. MacInnes with a score of 81.8 and to C/Lt. S. P. Bone with 80.4. These awards were presented by Ron Tapp, president of the association.

The instructors' trophy for the best platoon on parade was awarded to WO W. R. Vallance's platoon.

St. John Ambulance wards were presented by Lt.-Col. A. B. Duffy to P. D. Aikins, D. H. Bone, S. P. Bone, J. T. Brennan, E. T. Bunnett, R. T. Burshaw, J. N. Chalmers, W. I. Brown, R. J. De Genova, R. D. Johnson, J. J. Kot, B. P. Lawrence, P. J. Lenz, D. J. Lykins, D. K. Macdonald, B. D. MacInnes, D. E. MacInnes, J. K. McSherry, K. T. Tougas and R. M. Ruttan.

Inside or outside it was a hot day for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Army Cadet Corps, at their annual inspection. Gathered on the lawn, platoons waited for the cue that would give them admittance to the building and the audience waiting inside. Brigadier General G. R. Coffin later commented on the splendid appearance of the ranks and the amount of effort that had gone into the preparation of the afternoon program.

Steady!

Everything is under control as members of the Hastings Prince Edward Army Cadet Corps lower one of their comrades in arms from the balcony to the floor of the Belleville armories in a rescue demonstration at their annual inspection. Once on the ground, the audience was invited to see the work of the cadets in preparing their casualty for his voyage and later the first aid measures taken.

Cream of the Crop

What is it like to be told that you are the cadet chosen as the hardest-working, the most civic-minded, the most congenial and the all-round best? "Just fine," said Pte. B. F. Lawrence, who was awarded this honor by Lt.-Col. W. Willcocks at the cadet inspection on Sunday afternoon.

'The Christian Family' Is Topic At 49th Annual CWL Convention

"The Christian Family — Our Concern" was the theme of the 49th annual archdiocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada held on Saturday and Sunday at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

The program included speeches, discussions, film shows, community singing prayers and social periods. Two of the highlights were a talk by Mrs. Mary Sue McCarthy a family life educator on Saturday evening. Also one given by Miss Janet Somerville, a staff member on the Canadian Council of Churches committee on Christian vocation on Sunday.

Mrs. McCarthy, who has appeared on such television shows as Take 30 spoke on the Christian family at Saturday night's banquet. Speaking of the vital importance of the family unit in "giving life" to the individual, both in a physical and psychological sense she commented that when Jesus said He had come so that we may have eternal life, He was emphasizing a truth which modern psychologists are beginning to realize. This was the fact that when we love someone, we can as it were, breathe life into them by giving them a sense of belonging.

Thus, people may be parents in a physical sense but they may kill or destroy a child's sense of belonging, his imagination creativity and other parts of his personality. But Christ expected us to give life to one another by loving one another and in this sense, said Mrs. McCarthy we are all closely connected together. The early Christians realized this, she said and knew that they were branches of the same vine. Thus the church is a family or a living organism not a club from where members could be dismissed for not keeping all the rules.

Mrs. McCarthy went on to say that seemingly, the only way Jesus could teach us what love was in a wider human context was through the family.

She quoted a Brazilian theologian Rev. J. Coutinho who said that the Bible indicates that man was given stewardship of all the earth but he abused his privilege when he came to the city building stage of civilization as shown in the story of the tower of Babel. Man then became a fractricidal, rebellious being. The role of the Church Rev. Coutinho said was to reverse this process.

Miss Somerville gave some examples of how the economic structure of our society affects family life and human relationships. She said that by trading with South Africa, Canadians are unwittingly contributing to a situation which all agree is unhappy and unjust, namely the apartheid policy of the South African government which forces an African laborer to live away from his family who are left in reserves where their family life in that part of the world is adversely affected.

She went on to describe some unhappy consequences of the price war campaign. One was that it destroyed the possibility of family-run stores in cities like Toronto where a family business simply could not compete with huge chain stores. The second was the effect on farming families who are finding it increasingly difficult to eke out a living from family farms.

Miss Somerville also commented on the effect of advertising on family life and said that from the advertiser's point of view the family had no function except to consume manufactured goods. She also raised the question whether schools are encroaching on some of the functions of the family and concluded by saying "We had better do all we can to save family life before we are ruled by the IBM."

Miss Somerville's talk was followed by group discussion. The luncheon speaker was Mrs. Herbert Brown who spoke of her visit to India.

Sister Marie Dundon at the piano and Brenda Lee Bain vert on the guitar provided musical accompaniment at the singing sessions. Girl Guides acted as guides for the visiting delegates, and also provided a guard of honor for the newly elected executive.

The new executive elected included president Mrs. Breen O'Connor; 1st vice president, Mrs. C. Thurston; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Robert Foster; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. Fryl Delaney; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ray Burley; recording secretary, Mrs. Mrs. Joseph Cawley.

Informal Pre-Dinner Chat

Mrs. G. L. Schneider, provincial representative, Most Rev. J. L. Wilhelm, Archbishop of Kingston, Mrs. Mary Sue McCarthy, guest speaker, Mrs. A. Mangan, diocesan president and Mrs. William Buckley convention chairman chat informally before the banquet, one of the events of the 49th annual archdiocesan convention of the CWL. The theme of the convention which took place on Saturday and Sunday at the Sun Valley Motor Inn was "The Christian Family — Our Concern."

MR. AND MRS. OWEN STEPHANSON

Stephanson — Seaborn

On Saturday May 22, 1971 in Trinity-St. Andrew's United Church, Brighton, Eleanor Lois Seaborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Seaborn of Brighton was united in marriage to Owen Bruce Stephanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stephanson of Belleville. Rev. C. A. Stearns officiated and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Lenna Baker who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Barbara Buck.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of pebble crepe with long sleeves and mandarin collar. The empire waist was trimmed with Guipure lace as was the detachable train extending from the waist. A full length veil of pure silk illusion was caught to a wedding ring head band. She carried a cascade bouquet of Woburn Abbey roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Wanda Vincent, who wore a full length gown of green crepe with floating panel effect at back. She wore matching ribbon in her hair trimmed with daisies and carried a nosegay of Woburn Abbey roses. Bridesmaids Mrs. Margo Schimus, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Donna Vanslyke and Mrs. Gayle Godfree, sister of the bridegroom were dressed identically to the maid of honor, but in shrimp shade. Flower girl Miss Ann Harrison, cousin of the bride was similarly attired but in green.

Bill Naylor attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Garth and Garry Stephanson, brothers of the bridegroom and Clare Craig, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held at the Masonic Temple where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a dress of mauve suede peau de soie with beaded neckline and long chiffon sleeves with beaded tight cuffs. To complete her ensemble she wore a matching petal and rosebud hat and a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchid. Assisting the bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk dress with high neckline and three quarter length sleeves, both trimmed with lace, and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario, the bride chose a pink linen coat and dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephanson will reside at 166 George Street in Belleville.

University Women Hold Season's Last Meeting

The last meeting of the Canadian Federation of University Women of Belleville and District for this season was held at St. Andrew's Church. An enjoyable social hour at the home of Mrs. R. R. Collins preceded a potluck supper at the church.

A motion to increase fees from $5 to $10 was passed at the annual meeting. The highlight of the evening was the tour of Russia in slides by Mrs. John Boyd. It began at Leningrad with views of Finlandia Station and Petrodvarets (Peter's Forest), the summer palace of the Czars showing beautiful fountains, huge canals and wellkept grounds.

In Moscow, the most impressive sights were Red Square and the Kremlin walls enclosing four museums formerly cathedrals, and the Space Explorer's Monument in front of the economic achievement exhibition building. This began as an experimental farm for all branches of science and later became a permanent exhibition. The only large store in Moscow is the GUM Department store. To shop in any of the stores was a chore. There were three lines — one to select what you would buy, a second to pay for it, and a third to pick up your purchase.

Zagorsk, about 50 miles from Moscow was the next stop on the tour. This was a religious centre, which had been built in the 13th century. It was a completely walled city with schools, a hospital and homes. Today Zagorsk has a population of about 100,000.

Some other outstanding observations were that most of the streets were very wide especially in Moscow. The buildings were massive and seemed all alike, looking like huge blocks of one color. Many were new hotels and apartment buildings. The glass in the window of the new Leningrad Hotel gave a distorted view. Women were seen to be doing most of the work. They were dressed alike, in drab attire. In comparison tourists could be distinguished by their colorful clothing.

What Does It Mean to Be Popular?

By DORIS CLARK

What does it mean to be popular? How do you get to be popular? These are questions young people are always asking.

To find the answer, take a look at the popular person and ask yourself why he is so universally liked.

You'll discover that he is a person you always feel comfortable with. He has no airs or pretensions. He is relaxed and natural.

He has high standards and sticks to them. You can't talk him into doing something just because "everyone's doing it" and he won't try to use this sort of pressure on you, either.

Perhaps the most important thing about the popular person, though, is the fact that he regards you as a person in your own right. He is sensitive to your feelings and respects them. He'll listen to your problems or adventures with genuine interest.

Take a page from the popular person's book; but don't try too hard. The real key to popularity is to forget about yourself and the importance of being popular! — Dorothy Turcotte.

Dear Doris: I am enclosing 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a Dutch Boy-Dutch Girl quilt pattern. I make patchwork quilts for a pastime, as I am allergic to wool and can no longer knit.

I am also allergic to cigarette smoke so cannot go anywhere, as there doesn't seem to be any place where I can avoid cigarette smokers. I wonder if anyone else has this trouble?— Allergies and All That

Dear Allergies: The pattern is on its way. But have you tried knitting with orlon or other synthetic yarns? Sometimes this does the trick.

It is hard to know where to look for some nice clear smokeless air. The asthma and hay fever sufferers are the ones who are likely to find themselves gasping for breath in a room full of smokers.

But it is not as bad as it used to be, or have you noticed? Many of my friends who used to light one cigarette from another and talk through a blue haze, have sworn off.

* * *

Dear Doris: I read the letter from Nobody Loves Me and I'm afraid I'm in the same situation. My parents are quite old and are rather shy to talk about the facts of life.

Also, I don't believe they'd have the answers to the questions I have. I am 25 years of age and really quite ignorant about things such as sex.

Would you please send me your list of books on life, marriage, sex?

I have a younger brother who is not married because he is shy and rather immature, as I am, and I'm hoping that these books will help him, too. — Chiless

Dear Clueless: Not only are parents themselves shy about a subject which was definitely taboo when they were growing up; they may also have never a clue as to how to pass the information on.

I'm sending you my 10-cent which make easy, understandable reading about all aspects of sex. A heart-to-heart talk with your doctor is indicated, too, if he is an understanding person and you like him.

The more you know about this important part of human relationships the better able you are to cope with social living and some important life decisions.

Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a velope for private reply.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Poached Salmon with Tarragon White Sauce

Guests were coming directly to my home from the, airport after a trip half across this wide country. I knew very well they would have been eating gourmet meals on their trip and wanted to compose daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Hanson of 340 Bridge Street East, Belleville graduated from the Stratford General Hospital School of Nursing recently. Deborah a graduate of Maira Secondary School, received an award for proficiency in bedside nursing; also the school cup for showing best school spirit and leadership. The graduating exercises were held in the Shakespearean Theatre, Stratford, Ontario.

DEBORAH JEAN HANSON

One of our fish dealers had fresh B.C. salmon so I bought a 2-lb. piece to serve five people and poached it and served it with Tarragon White Sauce.

It was a perfect combination and I had the satisfaction of hearing that it was a better meal than they had had anywhere on their trip.

The Tarragon White Sauce is easy to make and may be used on many varieties of poached, fried, broiled or baked fish.

POACHED SALMON WITH TARRAGON WHITE SAUCE

(Serves 5 or 6)

2-lbs.-piece fresh (or frozen) Canadian salmon

Boiling water

SAUCE:

3 tbsps. butter

2½ tbsps. flour

½ tsp. salt

¼ tsp. leaf tarragon

1½ cups milk

To poach the salmon wrap it in a sheet of parchment paper or use two Jay cloths. Place it in a broad pan and add boiling water to half cover. Put on lid, bring to boil, reduce heat to simmer. After 10 min. carefully turn salmon over, and simmer 15 min. longer. Do not overcook salmon. This method produces soft moist flesh that has no rival for flavor and texture.

Skin will cling to wrapping when unrolled.

To serve make a slit through natural centre line of salmon and lift serving sections away from the bone. Serve with Tarragon White Sauce made by blending the butter, flour, salt and tarragon then stirring in the milk until thick over medium heat.

Laryngectomee Treated As Side-show Freak

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a laryngectomee. How many of your readers know what this word means? For those who don't know, I will tell them. A laryngectomee is one of the lucky people who has survived cancer. He has lost his voice box and is unable to talk in the normal manner so he may use an electric voice box to make himself understood. I would not have believed how rude and thoughtless people can be until this happened to me.

When I go shopping, most salespeople treat me as if I were a sideshow freak. They ask embarrassing questions and call others over to look at me and listen.

Children should be taught that sometimes the electric larynx makes a loud sound because it is operated by batteries and that we aren't monsters and we won't hurt them.

All the laryngectomees in the world will greatly appreciate it if you would tell the reading public we are brave people who have gone through a lot to stay alive. A word of kindness and encouragement can mean a great deal. — R.S., ORLANDO.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR R.S.: Here's your letter. I consider it a privilege to speak for those who cannot speak for themselves. Thank you for writing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our two sons married girls from Europe. One of our daughters-in-law is wonderful. The other is a mess. Both girls came from the same country. I mention this fact only so you will know we have nothing against the country or its people.

The girl we have trouble with is the original "Molly Off The Pickle Boat". She has been in this country for nearly seven years but she refuses to become a citizen. She talks her native tongue to her children and they sound like foreigners when they try to speak English. You would not believe those kids were born in Cleveland.

My husband and I try our best to be friendly with this girl, but it is impossible. The other night we had a terrible argument in their home and we left not speaking.

Our son takes his wife's side, so we are losing him, too. What can we do? — MA AND PA.

* * *

DEAR MA AND PA: Ask your son what he can suggest to help you get along better with his wife. He will probably tell you to stay off controversial subjects. (Such as World War II). Don't give her any well-meaning advice, and don't offer any suggestions.

From the way you write I suspect you will never have a warm relationship with this girl, but strive for a workable one.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I will be celebrating our 25th wedding anniversary in the fall. Our children want to give us a big party.

I recently learned that my husband has been seeing another woman for about three months. He is not aware that I know what's going on, but I've come to my mind that if he doesn't give her up (I'll know when he quits going to night "conferences"), I will end our marriage.

Should I allow the children to go ahead with their plans in view of what I know? I feel like a hypocrite. — TORN IN NEW ROCHELLE.

DEAR N.R.: Let them proceed. If you ask your children to cancel the party plans you'll have to tell them why. This could force you to make a move you don't want to make. It could also force your husband to make a move he doesn't want to make. Cool it.

Four-way Split In Byelections Seen as Possible

Ottawa (CP) — Four federal ridings elect MPs today.

The ridings are Brant in Ontario and Chambly and Trois-Rivieres in Quebec, previously held by the Liberals, and Central Nova in Nova Scotia, held by a Conservative.

The results could split four ways. Each of the four political parties in the Commons has a good chance of taking at least one constituency.

The four byelections probably represent the biggest test at the polls for the Trudeau government until the next general election, which could come in October but appears more likely for June next year, at this stage.

In the six byelections since the Trudeau government was elected in 1968, the Liberals won two—Frontenac and Labelle in Quebec,—the Conservatives Lisgar in Manitoba and the NDP three, Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands and Comox-Alberni in British Columbia and Selkirk in Manitoba.

The main issue in the byelections has been unemployment.

The Liberals say they hope and expect to retain the Ontario and Quebec seats and that they have made Central Nova a toss-up.

The NDP claims it will win Brant. Social Credit that it will take Trois-Rivieres and the Conservatives that they will retain Central Nova.

All parties say Chambly will remain Liberal, though the NDP is making a spirited fight there.

Current Commons standing is: Liberal 149, Conservatives 71, NDP 22, Social Credit 13, Independent 2, Independent Liberal 1, vacant 5—Total 264.

The fifth vacancy is the Saskatchewan riding of Assiniboia where the government declined to call a byelection until after the June 23 provincial general election.

Only in Central Nova was there a chance of inclement weather for the voting with a dull, rainy day in prospect. Clear skies, bright sun and 70-to-75 degree temperatures were the order for the other three ridings.

Central Nova got its heat Saturday night.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield called on the voters to serve notice on the federal government that "you are sick and tired of its ineffectiveness . . .

And Energy Minister J. J. Greene and Privy Council President Allan McEachen said the province needs another Liberal member for better representation in Ottawa.

The vacancies in the two Quebec ridings were caused by the deaths of Liberal MPs. In the case of Brant and Central Nova, the sitting members were appointed to the bench.

In 1968 the election results were:

Number of eligible voters in the four ridings is 221,827—a total of 58,439 in Brant, 64,340 in Chambly, 29,460 in Central Nova and 59,748 in Trois-Rivieres.

Yonge St. Mall Packed at Opening

TORONTO (CP) — Traffic moved at a walk on four downtown blocks of Yonge Street Sunday.

People took over from cars and hundreds of Sunday strollers jammed the city's major artery from curb to curb, some of them spilling on to the sidewalks, as Toronto's first pedestrian mall became a reality.

City officials promised earlier that the heart of the shopping district would assume a carnival-like air, with motor traffic banished in a one-week experiment.

They had more than they bargained for. A military band that was scheduled to lead a procession through the mall area after Sunday's opening ceremonies had to give up the idea because the street was too jammed with people.

The band, the Governor-General's Horse Guards, managed to find its way back to its bandstand for a second afternoon concert. But they were only a part of the entertainment.

Only a stone's throw from the Temperance Street bandstand, scores of persons sat at cafe tables in the middle of Yonge Street, drinking beer and eating spaghetti served by a Yonge Street tavern.

Open-air imbibing became legal several weeks ago when Ontario's liquor laws were relaxed.

Along the four-block stretch, there were more band concerts, a cowboy and puppet show. Many ladies-wear stores opened their doors for the afternoon.

Ice-cream vendors and newsboys hawking underground newspapers wended their way through a crowd enjoying a pleasant spring day. Temperatures were in the mid-70s under sunny skies.

Creating a backdrop for the strollers were 110 potted trees, planters filled with thousands of colorful flowers, and benches and picnic tables—all installed early Sunday morning.

If the experiment works, it is likely some downtown streets—if not Yonge itself—will be turned over permanently to pedestrians.

Festivities continue all week. Band concerts, fashion shows, folk and country and western music shows, dixieland bands, limbo dancers and steel bands, barbershop singers and square-dancing are scheduled to be part of the week's activities.

The block includes the city's two largest department stores, both planning to remove their front doors today.

Al Unser Wins Violent '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (CP-AP) — Al Unser, Peter Revson and A. J. Foyt packed up their moneybags today with more than $400,000 in prize money they won for their one-two-three finish in the Indianapolis 500-mile race Saturday.

Behind them were the wrecks of nine cars wiped out in violent accidents. Only a dozen of the 33 starters were around at the end of the 200-lap race, which also was marred by the crash of the pace car into a temporary photographers' stand, injuring 23 of 45 cameramen.

Unser, subdued but happy, accepted a cheque for $238,454.21 at the victory dinner Sunday night for his second 500 win in a row, considerably less than the $271,697.72 he earned in 1970.

Driving a Colt-Ford, Unser set a record average speed of 157.735 miles an hour, breaking Mario Andretti's 156.982 in 1969. Unser's time on the track was three hours one minute 14.02 seconds.

He finished 22.88 seconds, almost one mile, ahead of Revson, a New Yorker who drove the only one of the favored Mark-16 McLarens that finished the race.

Revson, starting from the pole position after qualifying at a record 178.696 m.p.h., averaged 157.419 and won $103,198.24.

Three-time winner Foyt, of Houston, Tex., was two minutes 1.34 seconds behind Unser, or more than two laps, to nail down third place with an average speed of 157.068, good for $64,739.24 in prize money.

Exceptional pit work helped Unser to his victory and he noted it in his speech accepting first prize.

"I owe a lot to everyone and I can hardly believe this," he said.

The younger brother of the 1968 winner, Bobby Unser, had to dodge a burning pileup of cars midway in the race—among them his brother's. But Al found a hole somehow and was on his way.

"I just kept driving as hard winning the race on his 32nd birthday.

The Albuquerque, N.M., native reserved special praise for his chief mechanic, George Bignotti, who has been chief mechanic for five Indy 500 winners.

"This was a difficult month for all of us," said Unser. "My speeds went up and down like a yoyo. There were times when George couldn't figure out what I was doing wrong and there were times when I couldn't figure out what George was doing wrong. But we were able to pull it out and I have to thank George for it."

When Unser, equipped with one of the two driver-to-pit crew radios in the race, drove through the scene of one accident, a piece of metal bounced off his helmet. He didn't waver.

Then he saw four cars, one his brother Bobby's, shattered and burning inside the fourth corner. Gary Bettenhausen, who was out of contention, stopped to give any help he could to the crash crews.

Al, who has a brother and an uncle in the auto speed business, isn't sure whether he would have stopped.

He didn't have to make the decision because the next time around he saw the unmistakable figure of his tall brother striding toward the pits.

"Thank God, Bobby's OK," Al said on his one-way radio, then charged on to victory.

The total prize money for the Indy 500 was $1,000,000, the second straight year the cheques have totalled more than $1 million.

The over-all total for this year's race, which attracted a gate of about 300,000, was a record payoff.

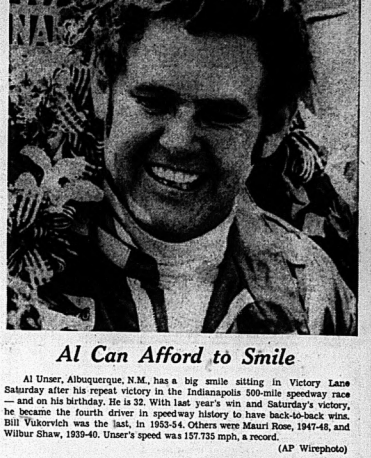
Richard E. Sauer, chief timer and scorer of the race, said Malloy was 1.12 seconds ahead of Vukovich, the son of a two-time Indy winner, the late Billy Vukovich. Malloy was given back a lap that was overlooked in the preliminary scoring.

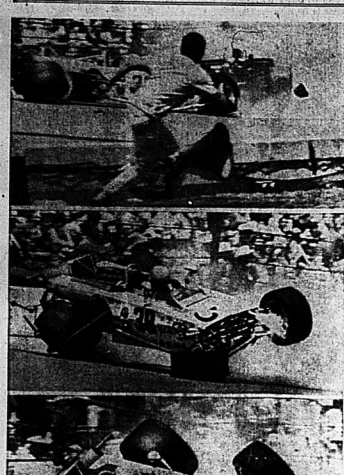


Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., who finished 25th this year after his second-place finish in 1970, won $27,697.24.

Donohue dominated the race for the 66 laps in his McLaren off his high speed transmission gear. The 34-year-old graduate engineer, whose practice speeds were the talk of the speedway the whole month, set a lap record of 174.911 miles an hour on the lap before he lost his high gear. The previous record was 168.866 by Lloyd Ruby in the 1968 race.

Donohue's car, parked in the infield in the fourth corner, was later involved in the crash in which Mike Mosley of Brownsburg, Ind., was injured. Mosley, 24, suffered a broken elbow and leg and burns on his left arm and his face. He was the only driver seriously injured in a race marred by three major crashes.

Also involved in that wreck was Steve Krisiloff's McNamara-Ford which had blown its engine earlier in the race and was also parked in the infield.



The Speedway management's discussions in the future probably will include the inadvisability of parking dead cars along the race course.

Al Can Afford to Smile

Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., has a big smile sitting in Victory Lane Saturday after his repeat victory in the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race — and on his birthday. He is 32. With last year's win and Saturday's victory, he became the fourth driver in speedway history to have back-to-back wins. Bill Vukovich was the last, in 1953-54. Others were Mauri Rose, 1947-48, and Wilbur Shaw, 1939-40. Unser's speed was 157.735 mph, a record.

Porsche Makes It Three Straight

ADENAU, West Germany (AP) — Porsche clinched the world manufacturers' title for the third straight year Sunday with a 1-2-3 finish and a fifth consecutive victory in the 000-mile sports-car race on the Nuerburgring circuit.

Gerard Larousse and Vic Elford drove the winning Martini car, a Porsche 908-03 prototype, finishing in five hours 51 minutes 49.3 seconds for an average speed of 102.84 miles an hour.

Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico and Jo Siffert of Switzerland were second in a Gulf Porsche 908-03 5:51.59.3, and Helmut Marko of Austria and Gijis van Lennep of The Netherlands were third in another Martini 908.03.

Belgian Grand Prix driver Jackie Ickyx, who had the pole position in the race, for Ferrari works 312p for the gruelling 44 laps, held the lead most of the way until the car was forced out on the 21st lap.

Allisons Steal Stock Car Show

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Allison outgunned Donnie Allison in a brotherly battle of speedy Mercurys Sunday to win the $200,000 World 600 race at a record 140.442 miles an hour.

Chevrolet's heralded return to big-time stock car competition came to a smoking, grinding halt after 350 miles when Charlie Glotzbach crashed into a grandstand retaining wall to destroy the pole-winning car.

Bobby Allison, winner by more than a mile, led for 309 of the 400 laps on the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway before a crowd of 78,000.

It was the 33-year-old veteran's first 1971 victory but the $29,400 payoff pushed his earnings to more than $70,000.

His speed wiped out the record of 135.823 m.p.h. established by Buddy Baker in a Plymouth four years ago.

Donnie earned an estimated $20,000 for a fifth-place finish in Saturday's Indianapolis 500 and then crawled into the Wood Brothers Mercury for a challenge the entire 600 miles, although never outpacing the leader for a second-place purse of $15,000.

Norton Rider Wins Unlimited

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Veteran racer Ivor Lloyd of Toronto, riding a Norton, held off Ginger Molloy of New Zealand on a Honda to win the International Unlimited motorcycle race here Saturday.

Molloy came back in the 500 c.c. race to win on a Honda over Duane McDaniels of Milford, Mich., on a 350 Yamaha.

Canonero's Infected Foot Put to Test

NEW YORK (AP) — Canonero II, suffering from a skin rash and foot infection, galloped 2½ miles on Belmont Park's inner turf course on a rainy Sunday morning as he resumed preparations for Saturday's Belmont Stakes and his bid for the Triple Crown.

Earl Whyte, a 135-pound exercise boy, was in the saddle as Canonero II galloped, under the eye of trainer Juan Arias, for the first time since Thursday.

Saturday, Venezuelan veterinarian Dr. Jose Hernandez-Rosal reiterated the evaluation of Dr. William O. Reed that the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner had a skin rash and an infection of the right hind foot.

"The skin rash is of no consequence and is clearing up," said Hernandez-Rosal. "The foot infection is minor and has responded to treatment.

"Canonero is a fit horse," Arias said again Sunday.

Off-Track Betting Boss Sets Sights on Team Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp., answering the objections of the commissioners of professional sports, says he will go ahead with plans to extend OTB to team sports.

Howard Samuels charged Saturday that the commissioners are "not dealing with the real world and real people" as he outlined his betting plan for sports such as football and baseball.

He was reacting to the unified stand against such extension last week by commissioners Pete Rozelle of the National Football League, Bowie Kuhn of major-league baseball, Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association, Jack Dolph of the American Basketball Association and President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League.

Samuels still would need legislative approval, and the earliest that could come would be January, 1974.

Samuels, who said he would welcome a chance to meet with the commissioners and make his case for OTB in other sports than horse racing, indicated he was thinking in terms of pool cars, similar to those being used illegally during the football season and legally published in England for soccer.

He said he sympathized with the commissioners in their concern about the "unknown influence of legalized gambling on their respective sports," but maintained that legal, government-operated betting on sports would reduce the danger of "fixed events."

"Just as legalized pari-mutuel betting on horses reduced illegal gambling on horses and the fixing of horse racing, so can pari-mutuel betting on sports under government control reduce the power of organized crime and the dangers of fixing sports events," he said.

He said widespread betting has existed in team sports for a long time, and estimated the U.S. figure at $20 billion a year, representing 80 per cent of the income of organized crime.

Trevino Sobers Up

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Trevino put a sober expression on his usually-grinning face Sunday after winning the $175,000 Danny Thomas—Memphis Golf Classic.

"The game of golf has been good to me and I want to get back into it something that I'm taking out," the normally happy-go-lucky guy said.

He announced he was donating $5,000 from the $35,000 purse to St. Jude's Hospital, the charitable beneficiary of this event.

"I want to do something for the game," he continued. "That's why I play in some of those little tournaments. The sponsors like to have me. They think I help them at the gate."

Trevino cut out a final-round 67, three under par, that nailed down his seventh career-tour triumph by four strokes. He led all the way and was never really in danger. He finished with a 268 total, 12 under par.

Tied for second at 272 were four non-winning tour regulars, Jerry Heard, Randy Wolff, Lee Elder and Hale Irwin. Heard and Wolff closed with 66s, six under par on the 6,495-yard layout at the Colonial Country Club course. Elder had a 66 and Irwin a 68.

First-round leader Larry Ziegler, 69, and veteran Don Januarry, 67, followed at 273.

Wil Homenuik of Winnipeg, the only Canadian entered, failed to make the cut Friday after shooting a 36-hole score of 145.

Mays Historic Against Expos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Mays' homing instincts are nothing off on the rest of the San Francisco Giants.

Mays socked a two-run homer in opener of a Sunday doubleheader to become the National League's all-time scoring leader and give the explosive Giants the first leg of a 5-4, 8-7 sweep over Montreal Expos.

The San Francisco superstar, whose seventh-inning homer capped a three-run comeback, crossed the plate again in the second game—won by the Giants with a three-run salvo in the ninth—for a career total of 1,951 runs.

He passed Stan Musial (1,949) on the all-time list headed by American League Hall of Famers Ty Cobb (2,244) and Babe Ruth (2,174).

In other games, Pittsburgh Pirates blasted Chicago Cubs 10-0, San Diego Padres upended New York Mets 4-2, St. Louis Cardinals whipped Atlanta Braves 8-3, Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in 13 innings and Cincinnati Reds shaded Houston Astros 2-1.

In Saturday's action, Pittsburgh clipped Chicago 8-5, San Francisco downed Montreal 8-2, Houston edged Cincinnati 3-1, St. Louis took Atlanta 8-7, New York swept a doubleheader from San Diego, 5-1 and 2-1, and Los Angeles slugged Philadelphia 9-3.

The Giants trailed 4-2 in the first game when Jimmy Rosario opened the seventh with a single and Bobby Bonds was hit by a pitch. Ed Spiezio walked and Speier forced Bonds at second, but Rosario scored when second baseman Gary Sutherland threw away the relay for an error.

Mays then walloped his 638th career homer and 10th of the season, sending Speier home with the tying run and scoring the winner—and record-breaker —himself.

A five-run burst in the fourth inning of the second game gave Montreal a 6-3 lead and Bob Bailey homered for the Expos in the seventh. But Bonds slammed a two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh and singled, his fourth hit of the game.

Mike Marshall wild-pitched one run home with two out, Julian Gallagher on a 3-2 count to refill the bases and was tagged for a two-run single by Bob Tillis that put away the Giants their fourth consecutive victory and seventh in eight games.

They lead the NL West by 1½ games.

Bob Moose, backed by an eight-run uprising in the fourth, pitched a three-hitter for the Pirates against the Cubs.

Roberto Clemente drilled a three-run homer, Dave Scarpell followed with a tape measure blast and Bob Robertson hit a two-run homer in the fourth, which also was marked by Ken Holtzman's three wild pitches.

Ivan Murrell smashed a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fifth that carried the Padres past the Mets. Clay Kirby checked New York on seven hits.

Lou Brock stretched his hitting streak to 26 games with a triple and single as the Cards's ninth pounded the Braves for their sixth consecutive victory.

Lefthander Steve Carlton posted his ninth triumph.

Willie Davis lifted the Dodgers into a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring single in the sixth, extending his hitting streak through 22 games, and Los Angeles pushed over the tie-breaker on a bass-loaded sacrifice fly by Willie Crawford in the 12th.

Johnny Bench scored the winning run for Cincinnati on a seventh-inning error by first baseman John Mayberry, who had homered for the Astros in the fifth.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Bob Ron Tarios showed his heels to a select field of three-year-olds Sunday night in the $12,500 Can-Am pace at Garden City Raceway. Keith Waterhouse steered the son of Meadow Battles, owned by Dr. Steven Egan of Brooklin to a 2¼-length victory in the track-record time of 2:12 4-5 before a crowd of 6,610.

Scullers Hit Peak in Hurry

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — West Park, a new St. Catharines secondary school, hosted its first crew last year. Today, the young oarsmen rule the Canadian schoolboy rowing scene.

Scoring four firsts at the 26th Canadian schoolboy rowing championships Sunday, West Park won the Cosgrave Trophy, emblematic of the regatta points title.

West Park's 157 points were 71 better than Ridley College of St. Catharines, which scored its only victory in the premier event, the open eight. Grantham High school of St. Catharines was third on 82 points.

Ridley took the feature event before an overflow crowd with its 2¼-length decision over a field of six in the big eight. Covering the 1,500-metre distance in a sizzling 4:29, the rangy eight-oared crew—which averaged 195 pounds—set itself up for a return to the English Henley in July.

Ridley won the U.S. schoolboy title for the third consecutive year last weekend at Syracuse, N.Y. Sunday's win was the second in a row for a Canadian crown and the trip to England next month will be in defence of the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup. Ridley last year was the first Canadian eight-oared crew ever to capture a Henley title.

St. Joseph's collegiate of Buffalo, N.Y., was second with Mount Herman, Mass., the 1971 New England champions, a deck back in third.

West Park was a close fourth. West Park won the 135-pound eight, 145-pound eight, four, the novice 135-pound eight and novice open cox four to take the regatta title. Grantham came through in the 145-pound eight and novice 135-pound cox four.

Robert Fries of "Sweet Home high-school, Buffalo, was the open single champion in 5:44.2 for a three-length decision over Tony Novotny of Toronto's Lawrence Park collegiate.

Our Kickers Pass First Test

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP) — Canada's amateur soccer team defeated Bermuda 3-0 Sunday in the opening game of the Olympic Games preliminary series.

The score gave no indication of the run of play. Canadian goalkeeper Peter Greco came up with brilliant saves against what looked to be unstoppable shots.

The only scoring in the first half came in the eighth minute of play when Sergio Zanatti hit after a poor defensive display by Bermuda backs.

Seven minutes into the second half, Buzz Parsons scored from a Canadian throw-in.

Neither side displayed much imagination until the final minute when Zanatti passed to John Scherpers who beat Bermuda goalkeeper Sam Nunom.

The crowd numbered about 300.

Second Slam Bid Stopped

PARIS (AP) — Gail Chanfreau of France ruined Margaret Court's bid for a second consecutive tennis grand slam when she stopped the Australian 6-3, 6-4 Sunday in the third round of the French Open.

Only in the ninth game of the second set, when she won her service at love, did Mrs. Court show the form that won her the Australian, French, Wimbledon and Forest Hills championships last year. She already had won the Australian title this year in her quest for another slam.

Mrs. Chanfreau, an Australian who married Jean-Baptiste Chanfreau, one of France's top players, had Mrs. Court on the run throughout the match with drives deep to the baseline.

Earl Has Birds Flying

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We're rolling again and getting the right amount of runs," said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver after his Orioles continued their habit of beating Minnesota Twins with a 6-5 triumph Sunday to move within 2½ games of Boston Red Sox in the American League East Division.

The defending world champion Orioles also whipped the Twins without a loss in playoff series in 1969 and 1970, two on the rubber match of the three-game set.

The Red Sox lost a half game to the Orioles when their contest Sunday with, Oakland Athletics was postponed by rain. In other Sunday action, Chicago White Sox stopped Cleveland Indians 3-2, Detroit Tigers whacked Milwaukee Brewers 9-3 and New York Yankees clouted California Angels 7-1. Rain washed out the Kansas City Washington games.

In Saturday's games, Baltimore overcame Minnesota 11-8, New York dumped California 8-1, Milwaukee whipped Detroit 9-2, Oakland outlasted Boston 12-8 and Cleveland nipped Chicago 2-1. Kansas City and Washington were rained out.

"I'm very pleased about the weekend," said Weaver, who has been beleaguered with questions about his future.

Weaver should be pleased. The Orioles winged back from a 7-6 loss Friday night that shoved them four games behind the Red Sox, then bombed Minnesota Saturday before scoring the winning runs Sunday with the aid of three walks and a wild pitch.

The Orioles led only by 3-2 before putting the game away with their three-run eighth that helped winner Mike Cuellar withstand three runs by Tony Oliva and Steve Braun with relief help.

Baltimore loaded the bases against reliever Ron Perranoski with two walks and Brooks Robinson's base hit. The first run scored on Ellie Hendricks' out. Cuellar before throwing a wild pitch that allowed Robinson to race home with the clincher.

The winner rifled the basrt in the 10th on two walks and an infield single by pinch-hitter Tom Egan before Hennigan walked Johnstone.

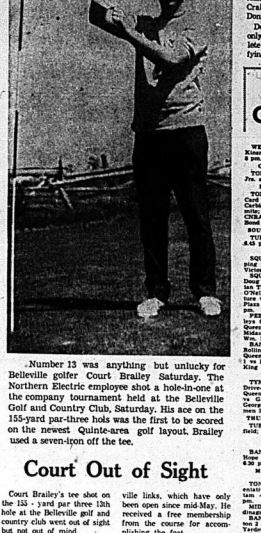
Trenton Enjoys Black Track Day at COSSA



It was a "black day" for the Central Ontario Secondary School Association track and field championships Saturday but no one from Trenton seemed to mind.

The most prominent color at the meet, which features the winning high school athletes from the Oshawa, Peterborough and Quinte districts, was the black uniforms of Trenton High School.

The Bay of Quinte champions piled up 88 points in the boys' section to give them the team title and also provide the bulk of the 106 combined points that gave them a victory in that category.

Ajax finished as runner-up in the boys section with 59 points, while the girls champions from Sir Thomas A. Stewart of Peterborough provided most of the 70 points they compiled to place second in the combined team event.

Senior sprinter Glen Milligan was the star Bay of Quinte performer qualifying for OFSAA in three events.

Milligan tied a Cossa record in winning the 100 metres in 11 seconds flat and added victories in the 200 metres (23.1) and long jump (21'7").

Teammate Duncan Armstrong also tied the 100 metres standard with an 11 flat clocking in his heat, but slipped to fourth in the final.

Armstrong did qualify for OFSAA in two other events, finishing third in the 200 metres and second in the triple jump with a leap of 42 feet. Only the winners and second place finishers who better a certain standard are eligible for OFSAA, but the Trenton runner managed to qualify in the 200 metres when Oshawa's Shawn Dawson elected to pass up the event at all-Ontario.

Central Secondary School's Pierre Salois was the other senior individual winner with a mark of 12 feet in the pole vault. Mike Kilpatrick of Trenton placed second with an 11'6" vault and will qualify for the all-Ontario meet to be held next Friday and Saturday at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds in Toronto.

Trenton's senior 4 x 400 relay team stepped off a 3:34.7 clocking to win that event. The team members included John Craig, Rick Noonan, Darrell Donnelly and Ray Walk.

Dennis Bowman was the only other Bay of Quinte athlete to meet the OFSAA qualifying standards in all three events. The junior competitor won the triple jump with a leap of 43 feet and placed second in the long jump and 110-metre hurdles.

Trenton middle distance man Dave Thompson raced to a 52.7 clocking to win the junior 400 metres crown and then added a second place finish in the 800 metres.

In the midget section Dale Best of Centennial Secondary School took first place ahead of Trenton's Mark Petrie who had moved up from freshmen for the event.

Joe Norman, also of Trenton, captured the midget 400 metres in 54.4 seconds and finished second in the 800 metres, while teammate Bob White paced the field in the triple jump with a 39' 2" effort.

Distance runner Paul Cory of Prince Edward Collegiate won the 1500 metres in 4:32.7 but was beaten out for first in the 3000 metres.

The final win in the boys category was recorded by the Centennial midget boys 4x100 metre relay team which covered the distance in 49.1 seconds.

Nellie Frair of Picton captured the senior girls 400 metres in 63.4 seconds while Charlene Quinn of Quinte took the junior javelin with a toss of 107' 8" and sprinter Nancy Ralston raced to a winning 6.1 second clocking in the 60-metre dash.

BCI's Maida LeBaron had a win in the midget 400 metres with a time of 64.2 seconds and Ellen Gollick of Centre Hastings had the other victory with a 91' 3" toss in the discus.

There is no all-Ontario competition in the girls' section.

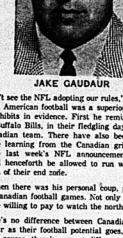
LONDON, Ont. — It's not often that league officers, team managements, and players in any sport find themselves in agreement. But just that rare sort of mind-meeting produced this consensus here Sunday: Canadian football is nothing to be ashamed of.



A panel comprised of Canadian Football League commissioner Jake Gaudaur, Hamilton Tiger Cats general manager Ralph Sazio, and Toronto Argonaut Mike Wadsworth went a giant step further. They left a meeting of Ontario sportswriters with the almost unheard of impression that a CFL all-star team would not necessarily be cannon fodder for National Football League counterparts.

Wadsworth, past-president of the CFL Players' Association, revealed that his group has considered such a game, and that the matter could come up at a CFL and NFL players get-together in Montreal later this year. "It would be very entertaining," the chunky Argo lineman predicted.

Ti-Cat boss Sazio was typically less reserved. "Early backfield motion is the main difference in the Canadian and American games. There's no way the NFL's 250-pound linebackers like Dick Butkus would ever catch some of our backfielders in motion. We might not run much at a guy like Butkus, but I bet we'd pass him silly."

Commissioner Gaudaur was also enthusiastic about the prospects of such a confrontation, noting that compromises could probably be worked out on rule differences like more American downs and longer Canadian fields. Gaudaur added that an all-star game would have to be played post-season, probably in January, but "if the date is the only major problem I can't see much standing in the way of it."

Tanned from a southern jaunt during which he sold a three-year package of CFL games to a U.S. cable television system that could bring the Canadian League half a million dollars, Gaudaur was cool to another suggestion, that of a "super game" between CFL and NFL sides. Making rule compromises for a single all-star game was one thing. Negotiating a permanent blend was something else.

JAKE GAUDAUR

"I can't see the NFL adopting our rules," he said. Not that he thought American football was a superior product. He had several exhibits in evidence. First he reminded his listeners that the Buffalo Bills, in their fledgling days, were trounced by a Canadian team. There have also been signs that the Yanks are learning from the Canadian grid experience. He pointed to last week's NFL announcement that defending teams will henceforth be allowed to run wide field goal attempts out of their end zone.

And then there was his personal coup, selling Americans tapes of Canadian football games. Not only are they interested, they're willing to pay to watch the northern novelty.

"There's no difference between Canadian and American boys as far as their football potential goes," Gaudaur maintained. "Of course, there's a great difference in training."

Nothing the calculating CFL commissioner says can be taken lightly. In 1962 he predicted the rebel AFL venture would pan out. At that time he also forecast an AFL-NFL merger by 1970. There was also a third bit of crystal-balling. "I thought that by 1975, there would be one continental Canadian-American football league," Gaudaur grinned. "But that was before I was commissioner."

In the face of recurrent NFL invasion rumblings, particularly in Montreal, Gaudaur views the television package sale as a counter-offensive. "Essentially, we get the benefits of putting our game on exhibit down there — it's a distinct recruiting aid for Canadian teams. American players won't think we're playing soccer or rugger up here."

Among those who have made that realization are such U.S. college notables as Joe Theissman and Jim Stillwagon, two of the more prominent names among an increasing stream of grid expatriates heading north. Ti-Cat boss Sazio mentioned them in pointing out that there are advantages to playing football in Canada.' Panel-member Wadsworth, he noted, would not have been able to combine law studies and an NFL career, as he did with the Argos. "We have a different set of ground rules here," said Sazio. "Players like John Barrow and Tommy-Joe Coffey had successes to run in Hamilton , as well as play football. They asked to be excused from one of our two daily practices, and they were. That doesn't happen in the States."

The fact that Harvard University wanted our coach (Joe Restic) to head up their football program, and the fact that Minnesota Vikings picked Bud Grant from Winnipeg as their coach — all these things help our recruiting. When I came up here 20 years ago, nobody knew anything about Canadian football. Things are different now."

Inclusion in the CFL has even created what commissioner Gaudaur called "lively interest" from a Detroit group, although he was personally opposed. "People don't have any idea how entertaining our game is. What would the prairies have in sport if it wasn't for football?" Gaudaur posed. "The longer I'm associated with it, the more I realize the game is a tremendous unifying force in the country. Politicians have referred to the Grey Cup as a cultural event of great significance."

Any expansion, therefore, will be limited to the leeward side of the Great Lakes, if Mr. Gaudaur has anything to say about it, and he did. "Halifax is destined from an aesthetic point of view, but they have only 200,000 people within 50 miles." By contrast London, from whom the CFL has on file "letters of intent," has a population of 750,000 to draw on from the same radius. Both prospective CFL additions are minus stadiums capable of averaging gates of 21,000, a minimum requirement set by the CFL. Groups interested in operating league franchises should also be prepared for an initial operating outlay crowding the million-dollar mark, Gaudaur added.

Economics is one area in which the panel conceded U.S. football has hands-down superiority. Pressed about the delicate topic of players' salaries, Wadsworth admitted CFL players receive no pension for a minimum wage, and the performers for the nine existing clubs average $13,000. No National Football League mercenary earns less than $12,000.

Quick Learner

The Belleville high school student, who took up the sport only three months ago captured the Ontario Junior Boys championship in London this weekend.

Thompson's performance was the best of the three Belleville competitors entered in the provincial championships as former Canadian champion Carol Armstrong placed third in the senior women's event and husband Floyd was eighth in the senior men's section.

Yardmen Top Sluggers

The CNR Yardmen proved to be the top sluggers in a 29-23 slugfest against the Harvey's Hamburg team in the Minor Baseball House League play.

Mike Calnan and Paul Dent gave up ten hits and 14 walks for the winners while Mark Pearson and Terry Kingsman were victimized for 23 hits and 11 free passes.

Paul Dent ripped out three singles and a double for the Yardmen followed by Curtis Labelle with two doubles and a single, Carleton and Wright with two singles and a double and McCrory with a homer and double.

In a tadpole contest Bob Sports held on to a 10-8 win over Plane's Concrete

Kevin Jones and Steve Molaski plotched eight - hit ball for the win, while losing hurlers Brian Cronkwright and Tony Parks gave up seven safeties as well. The winning pair struck out 19 batters, one less than Cronkwright and Parks.

Charlie Doran ripped a homer and single for the winners with Grant Scully getting two singles. For Plane's it was Brian Cronkwright powering a pair of homers and Tony Parks with a homer and single.

Court Out of Sight

Court Brailey's tee shot on the 155 - yard par three 13th hole at the Belleville golf and country club went out of sight but not out of mind.

"It hit the green and I lost sight of it so I thought that it must have rolled over, but I checked with the boys anyway and the ball was in there", was how the former Belleville Kinsmen senior baseball standout described his first-ever hole - in - one.

Brailey recorded the feat playing in the Northern Electric Golf Tournament Saturday, using a seven - iron, to finished the round with a score of 91.

The ace was also the first to be recorded at the Belle-

The tournament itself was won by Gus Jones. The coast of the Belleville Mo-Hawks carded a 73 to tie Fred Fisher for first place at the end of regulation 18 holes.

The pair then played a sudden - death playoff on number 18, with Jones carding a regulation par four to win the title, while Fisher took a bogey.

A total of 84 golfers took part in the event, which has been won by Jones eight times.

Ukraine Rebel Cause Shunned By Trudeau

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says anyone who breaks the law to assert his nationalism gets little sympathy from him.

CBC's Sunday Magazine broadcast an interview conducted with the prime minister on the plane while returning from his visit to the Soviet Union.

He said the matter of jailed Ukrainian nationalists was not brought up during his visit.

He said he mentioned Soviet Jews but as to the Ukrainians:

"I quite frankly avoided talking about that. I tried to get some data which would permit me to talk about it on a basis on which I felt really involved and convinced, and—quite frankly—couldn't take up the causes, several of which were put to me, that I should protest in favor of so-and-so and so-and-so who had been jailed because of their nationalistic beliefs.

"My position in the Soviet Union or Canada is that anyone who breaks the law to assert his nationalism doesn't get too much sympathy from me.

"I didn't particularly feel like bringing up any cases which would have caused Mr. Brezhnev or Mr. Kosygin to say: 'Well you know, why did you put in jail certain FLQ leaders? After all they think they are only fighting for the independence of Quebec. Our people say they are fighting for the independence of the Ukraine. Why should you put your revolutionaries in jail and we shouldn't put ours?'"

Scythians' Tomb Yields Artifacts

MOSCOW (AP) — Artifacts found recently in a 2,300-year-old tomb hold important keys to the culture of the ancient Scythians, a race of north Asian barbarians who dominated the Black Sea steppes for 600 years and then vanished.

Pravda reported Sunday the discovery was in a burial mound near the Ukrainian city of Ordzhonikidze, in the same region where Russian archeologists a century ago solved many of the mysteries of the Scythian nomads when they opened the now-famous mound near Chertomlyk.

In the Ordzhonikidze tomb, believed to date from the fourth century BC, an archeological team led by Prof. B. N. Mozolevsky found the remains of a queen, a small child and three servants whose execution by strangulation was required by Scythian custom when their mistress died.

On the queen's head were well preserved fragments of a gold conical hat and gold earrings. On her fingers were 11 gold rings and her wrists were enveloped in wide golden bracelets.

Pravda indicated the archeologists were especially interested in a gold ornament found around the neck. It was decorated with two crouched lions below a pair of strange animals which had not been found on any ornament unearthed since the Chertomlyk dig in 1862-63.

Typical of the Scythian culture, the queen's funeral robe was decorated with gold discs inscribed with the forms of animals. Among them were a griffin, a lion devouring deer and a female figure flying on a bird.

Several silver cups, an enamelled plate and weapons also were found in the alabaster-lined burial chamber.

Guerrillas Free Meat-packer After Treating Him Well

ROSARIO, Argentine (AP) — An Anglo-Argentine meat packing executive, freed by guerrilla kidnappers Sunday, says he was well treated during his week of captivity.

Stanley M. F. Sylvester even stopped to buy a newspaper while riding home in a taxi after his release.

"Please don't ask me any questions. I cannot compromise myself" Sylvester, 58, told reporters. "They treated me very well."

Sylvester, the honorary British consul in Rosario, was kidnapped by the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army. To ransom him the Swift De la Plata meat packing company, of which he is a director, distributed $25,000 worth of food, islankets and clothing to shantytown poor is Rosario.

The leftists said they kidnapped Sylvester to call attention to the "unimaginable anguish" which they alleged the Swift plant had caused its 6,000 workers and their families here.

Born in Argentina of British parents, Sylvester holds British and Argentine citizenship and has been honorary British consul in this city of one million people for eight years.

The distribution of food, clothes and blankets was made Friday and Saturday. Thousands massed before the trucks hired by Swift for the distribution.

The guerrillas also demanded the reinstatement of Swift workers laid off or suspended, reduction of minimum production scales in several sections of the packing house and an end to "police methods" allegedly used by the management in its relations with the workers.

B.C. NDP Chief Kept in Office But Criticized

VANCOUVER (CP) — Colin Gibson, social worker Dave Barrett was unanimously acclaimed as leader of the British Columbia New Democratic Party Saturday, but the party's radical Waffle wing strongly criticized him for his past "strong attacks" on labor and "the movement of the unemployed."

Waffle member Joyce Maisenheimer, author of the sharply-worded motion which passed 34-20, said the group's decision Friday not to run a leadership candidate against Mr. Barrett didn't mean it fully supported his policies.

The motion approved at a separate meeting of the Waffle group, singled out Mr. Barrett's attacks on the B.C. Federation of Labor and censured his "right-wing, anti - labor position."

Mr. Barrett told more than 400 delegates in his acceptance speech Saturday afternoon the NDP has less internal friction than any other party in the province.

The next provincial election will probably be in September, 1972. He said, "but I can make no great predictions on the outcome.

In a series of motions on taxation, finance and secondary industry, delegates opposed foreign control of secondary industry in B.C. Saturday and voted in favor of the NDP fighting to open the books of all foreign firms to the government, unions and other concerned groups. They also voted to establish committees to investigate current pollution-free processing and manufacturing processes.

Delegates supported a motion calling for a bill of rights to be entrenched in the Canadian constitution but not until a section calling for "the right to own personal property" was deleted.

A motion that the NDP establish a standing health committee to study an outline of a major new health service program for presentation at the province's next convention won heavy support from delegates.

The program, which would end payment of fees for service to most B.C. doctors, calls for all forms of health care, including dental work for people up to the age of 25, to be brought under the government medical insurance scheme.

The proposal, drawn up by Dr. R. G. Foulkes, executive director of New Westminster's Royal Columbian Hospital, calls for doctors to be paid an annual fee based on the number of patients under their care.

The convention voted on several youth resolutions, approving motions that the NDP urge all three levels of government to support a nation-wide system of year-round hostels and that the party work toward the establishment of permanent housing and free medical clinics for those unable to pay.

Man Lost 12 Days Is Found

Sunday, after 12 days lost in the woods without food, he was found by three neighboring farmers who were checking fences.

His brother Jerome, who has custody of the mentally-retarded Lawrence, said Lawrence did not appear to have lost weight but was tired.

The man spent the 12 days in one place—about a mile from home—after realizing he was lost. He covered himself with leaves on cool nights.

Jerome Stufko quoted his brother as saying he did not eat anything during the 12 days but did find some water to drink.

Relatives, neighbors and police had conducted several searches for the young man.

Ontario Place Busy

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Place had its best two-day turnout Sunday and Saturday since its opening May 2. About 54,000 visitors filed through the grounds on the sunny weekend.

The large disc-screened movie theatre called Cinesphere was so busy people had to line up for as long as 90 minutes.

Total attendance up to Sunday afternoon was 165,182, including guests, dignitaries, newsmen and about 2,000 school-children admitted free during weekdays.

Equal Pay Way to End Apartheid

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Alan Paton, 68, a South African novelist, says Canadian and other foreign companies could make a significant contribution to breaking down apartheid by paying proper wages to African workers in their South African branch plants.

Mr. Paton, regarded as a spokesman for liberalism since the publication of his Cry the Beloved Country in 1948, received an honorary doctorate degree at Trent University Saturday.

In an interview later, he said that although foreign firms are bound by many legal restrictions while operating in South Africa, they "also conform to things they don't have to conform to, including the wage differentials between white and African workers."

School System Seen On Collision Course

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP) — Canada's school system is on a "collision course with a stone wall" unless it changes its approach to young people, State Secretary Gerard Pelletier told the YMCA's annual meeting Saturday night.

Noting that the national school enrolment for next fall is below expectations, Mr. Pelletier warned that "the divorce between youth and the educational system is becoming more and more complete."

Youth and the problems of youth dominated the 2½ day meeting, which ended Sunday in this resort area eight miles northeast of Orillia.

The closing session, held behind closed doors, gave unanimous approval to a motion protesting the "retrograde aspects" of the Young Offenders Act, now before the Commons standing committee on justice and legal affairs.

Sunday, national president Holbrook K. Davis promised that the YMCA will "increasingly take forceful public stands on the issues of the day."

He said the YMCA will increasingly go to "risk-type" projects and, more than in the past, "venture into the unknown."

HELP WANTED

Are You Tired Of Working Within The System ?

The system of working the same hours every day. For the same pay. Are you part of a system that isn't really a part of you?

Well it's going to be tough to change. Don't let anybody kid you about that. Habits like to stick like glue. But it can be done. And I'm looking for one or two people who would like to do it through life insurance sales.

If you enjoy both people and hard work, but most of all want to put your Intelligence to full test; you can have your own system. Your own hours. And money that will more than match your effort.

The toughest part will be picking up the phone and calling me. Because that first step will mean you want to find out if you've got what it takes. And to do that will take all the desire, drive, and ambition you've got.

Mr. R. A. Lothian,
Manager ,Canada Life,

Engineering Career 'Rewarding for Girls'

PETERBOROUGH (Staff)— A career in professional engineering can be both rewarding and challenging, Professor Marion Currie, P. Eng., from the University of Toronto, told guests at the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Section of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers held at the Holiday Haven Motor Hotel Thursday night.

"Any girl who really thinks she would like to take up a professional engineering career can have every reward in any career in the field and it's up to her to decide what she wants to do with her life and to set about doing it." she told guests at the ladies night dinner meeting which brought members from Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough and surrounding centres.

She told institute members girls should rely on their own initiative and not blame others for failure. The major block for a girl is not necessarily a social, not professional, she said.

When she first expressed interest in such a career, her guidance teachers and "young ladies don't take electrical engineering" and suggested she teach science in high school. Mrs. W. G. Bassett, who still uses her maiden name for business purposes, said counsellors in schools "should counsel from knowledge rather than prejudice."

A former employee with Ontario Hydro and the General Electric Company in England, before returning to assume her position in a teaching career, Prof. Currie told the electrical and electronic engineers present that she was not pessimistic about recreation, but at the same time, was not shown any animosity during her 21 years in the profession.

"I highly recommend it to any serious girl who wants to take it up as a career," she said.

Professor Currie, whose specialty is in the field of illumination and lighting system designs, stressed schools and universities can't spend enough time being people oriented.

"I think it's very worthwhile for people to learn to question, learn to wonder whether you are given the impossible task to do and perhaps if people learn to wonder more about these things when they're young, then we'll maybe have an improvement in our engineering solutions to our problems."

She believes that good work habits are not being developed in present day students entering university and suggested the inquisitive approach as a possible way of self-governing in an attempt to overcome this deficiency.

During the meeting, the IEEE, under the chairmanship of Harry Dulmage of Belleville, elected its 1971-72 executive.

Peter Cassidy, of Belleville's Northern Electric was elected to serve as vice-chairman for the Belleville district: Ken Fox, CGE Peterborough, was elected section chairman; Professor Harold Stewart, Queen's University, Kingston, was elected vice-chairman; Luc Matteau, CGE Peterborough was chosen secretary-treasurer. Lt. - Commander Stan Buxcey, RMC Kingston, was elected program chairman for Kingston and John McKelvie, CGE Peterborough, was selected program chairman for Peterborough.

Soft Touch for Cows

Ken Swain, an official of North-West Rubber Mats of Haney, B.C., inspects a rubber mat designed by the company to prevent injuries to cows stumbling in their stalls. 23 Bodies Found

Mass Planned For Victims And For Man Held as Slayer

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A Memorial Day mass is scheduled tonight for Juan Corona, his family and the 23 transients whose bodies have been found in graves among the trees of this California orchard community. Corona is charged with 10 of the deaths.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Roy Whitaker ordered a 25-man search force to comb two ranches adjoining the J. L. Sullivan ranch, burial site of 21 of the 23 bodies found thus far.

All of the victims had been stabbed and hacked to death with a machete or similar weapon.

Deputies spent 7½ hours Sunday digging at three possible gravesites among peach trees on the Sullivan property, but found no more bodies.

"I don't believe the end is in sight," Whitaker said. "I think there are more bodies out there."

The special mass is scheduled at St. Isadores Roman Catholic Church to offer prayers for the victims, Corona and his family. The Coronas often attended services there.

Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor in this fruit-growing region for the last 15 years, was charged last week with 10 of the slayings. Charges in the other deaths probably will be filed when the final body toll is reached. G. Dave Teja, Sutter County district attorney, said.

Asked why Corona was included in the mass, Rev. Joseph Bishop, St. Isadores' pastor, said: "Whether he's sane or insane, he still needs our prayers. And the poor victims, they're still part of the human race."

Corona's family—a second wife and four girls aged four through eight—need all the spiritual help they can get, he added.

"Just think of the suffering they are undergoing," Father Bishop said.

Corona's wife Gloria, his brother Pedro and his mother, Mrs. Candida Corona of Aulan, Jalpco, Mexico, visited Corona for about two hours Sunday morning in the jail in Marysville just across the Feather River from Yuba City.

Corona was moved during the weekend to the Marysville jail because, the sheriff said, security provisions there are better than in the old Yuba jail where he has been held since his arrest Wednesday.

Four miles north of town deputies dug up muddy orchard areas which appeared sunken in by recent rain, as were the earlier graves.

No more bodies were discovered and the only remaining part of the Sullivan land left to be searched was the northeast corner, under eight to 12 inches of irrigation water.

Man Accused as Mass Killer Family Man Who Kept to Self

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Juan Vallejo Corona was a familiar figure in the cantinas and skid-row bars of Marysville and Yuba City, a muscular, businesslike man scouting for farm workers.

He was a familiar figure in the good neighborhood where he owned a $22,000 home, and at the church to which he took his family every Sunday.

But Juan never stopped for a drink in the cantinas and never said more than a word or two to his neighbors. He worked long hours and was something of a mystery to many who dealt with him.

Today, Corona sits in jail, charged with 10 murders in connection with the discovery of more than 20 bodies buried in the fruit orchards near here.

His wife Gloria said: "He couldn't have done anything like this."

She said her husband "always treated me right and was never violent with me or our four children. . . . I love him and always will want him back home."

The operator of a second hand store on the prairie street where Corona, a farm labor recruiter, hired workers for the orchards, said: "It's well known that he was very mean tempered. A vicious man and a fighter."

In most Mexican families, the oldest brother is automatically the leader. But Juan, second oldest of four Corona brothers who were farm labor contractors in the area, was clearly the leader within his tightly-knit family.

His hard work seemed to have paid off. The 37-year-old Corona had a 2½-year-old home for Gloria, his Indian-born second wife, and four daughters. They were the only Mexican-American family in the neighborhood.

In the community, Corona was known as a man who kept to himself and his family. He took his family to church every Sunday and to Spanish-language films at a theatre in the area where he recruited his crews.

Shift Change Opposed

Airport Firefighters Strike

EDMONTON (CP) — Supervisors manned firefighting equipment at Edmonton International Airport Sunday night as 38 firefighters refused to work a new three-shift system.

The men were to begin working under the experimental system Sunday morning but ignored the federal transport department order and reported for their usual shifts. When they arrived at work they found five supervisors handling their jobs.

Cliff Jones of the Union of Canadian Transport Employees said Sunday the firemen have been promised a national protest if disciplinary action is taken against them.

Mr. Jones said the Edmonton firemen have received telegrams of support from firefighters at all major Canadian airports and some smaller ones.

The telegrams do not represent an official union stand, he said, but indicate the feeling of other Canadian airport firemen.

The national headquarters of the union has said it cannot back the Edmonton action, he said.

Mr. Jones said no disciplinary action has been taken against the men yet.

The firemen claim they were locked out and are continuing to report for work according to their old schedule.

Under the old system a man worked 10 to 14 hours and then had long periods off. The experimental system calls for a man to work one eight-hour shift.

Both systems work out to a 42 hour work week.

The union says the shift change is illegal because contracts do not expire until the fall.

Mr. Jones also said the transport department does not plan the new shift system as a six-month experiment.

"They have a year-long schedule posted," he said.

Edmonton International is the only airport where the experiment is being tried. However, firemen at Halifax International have said they will back the Edmonton workers if the protest continues.

J. E. Goulet, manager of Montreal International Airport, said Sunday he has not heard any strike talk and a spokesman for firemen at Toronto International said no action will be taken until a national decision is made.

A union official in Vancouver said firefighters at the airport there will halt work if the federal government does not intervene in the Edmonton dispute.

Syd J. Sillett, president of the Vancouver local, said Sunday night that the firefighters' action could close down operations at six airports in Canada.

He said union locals at Vancouver, Winnipeg, London, Ont., Toronto, Montreal and Gonse Bay, Nfld., will meet today to discuss the situation and issue a statement.

Oceans Able to Supply Minerals for 100 Years

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Experts in science from 18 countries say there is growing evidence that the world's oceans contain sufficient minerals to meet the world's needs for at least a century.

In a report to the UN Economic and Social Council, the council's advisory committee on the application of science and technology to development cites estimates that:

—The oceans contain 330 million cubic miles of sea water contains an astronomical amount of dissolved solids.

—More than $7 billion worth of minerals were produced from the sea in 1969.

—Oil and gas deposits under the seabed may exceed those available on land.

"Recent discoveries point to the possibility of exploring and exploiting new resources of minerals in the future," the committee says.

It notes that a U.S. project has shown that a hole drilled in the ocean floor more than three miles under water can be used again and again in exploring for oil.

It mentions the discovery more than a mile down in the Red Sea of three pools of hot brine estimated to contain over $2.3 billion in gold, copper, zinc and silver dissolved in the top layer alone.

The heavy investment needed for undersea mining has retarded its development, the report says, but "a pattern of technological feasibility and profitability is emerging, especially for the petroleum industry."

Undersea wells now produced 17 per cent of the world's crude oil, the experts report, and by 1980 they are expected to be producing upward of 33 per cent.

Minerals are harder to find the farther out they are from shore, the committee says, so "improved techniques are required for offshore explora tion."

"Base maps and accurate marine data are required for the exploitation of mineral resources of the sea," it says. "No significant areas of the oceans have as yet been surveyed thoroughly enough to produce a detailed picture of the bottom."

Discounted Cash Sold

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP) — Cash—$10,000 of it—was on sale at a 20 per-cent discount in a shopping centre here Saturday.

The South Mall Merchants Association figured that was a better idea than hiring a celebrity to publicize the centre.

"It would have cost us $2,000 to hire a name personality," said an association spokesman. "So instead, we decided to spend the same amount selling cut rate cash."

More than 1,00 persons agreed and stood in a lineup that started forming at 5 p.m. Friday for the 11 a.m. Saturday "sale." When an armored car rolled up filled with assorted bills, the first-comers got a $100 bill in exchange for $80.

Students Thomas Cusano, 19, and William Harrigan, 17, first in line after an 18 hour wait, made a $20 profit each on an $80 "purchase" and said they'd use the money for a summer trip to Canada.

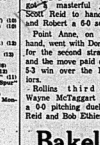
Rollins Turn Trick with Second Ace

Rollins Construction played their second ace, while Point Anne elected to stand pat as both clubs recorded their second Commercial Softball League victories of the season Sunday.

The—Constructionmen, who received shutout hurling from Scott Reid Monday, opened their opening game last Thursday, 5-3 masterful job from Scott Reid. Alfie Ashton downed and Robert a 6-0 setback.

Point Anne, on the other hand, went with Don Holoway for the second straight time and the move paid off with a 5-3 win over the Ellis Juniors.



Rollins third baseman Wayne McTaggart broke up 0-0 pitching duel between Reid and Bob Ethier of Howard Robert by slamming a home run shot into the trees in left field in the top of the fifth inning.

McTaggart came through again in the sixth frame delivering a two-run double after an error, hit batsman and fielders choice had filled the bases.

Wes May drove in a run with a single in the sixth inning and Jerry Hill delivered the other two markers with a base knock in the seventh. The second three - base hit of the night for Hill, who was thrown out trying to stretch his double and frame triple into a homer.

Reid allowed only singles to Larry Potter and Rusty Garvin in the seven innings that he worked, striking out ten batters and walking three.

Ethier was touched for eight safeties, throwing third and Robert by slamming a home run shot into the strikes past seven opposing batsmen and issuing one free pass.

The Rollins hitters were led by McTaggart who had a homer, double and single in three trips to the plate. Hill collected his two triples and Ralph Plane singled and doubled for the winners.

Rick Rosebush provided the hitting heroics to back Holoway's four - hit hurling as the Constructionmen grabbed a share of the league lead with their 5-3 win.

Rosebush capped a three-run third inning for the winners by delivering a two-run double and then provided the eventual winner with a circuit blast in the sixth inning after the Juniors had battled back to knot the game at 3-3.

Rick Graham's single, a walk and a two-run double by Neil Goyer in the bottom of the third had pulled the Ellis crew to within one run, after the Rollins had jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Rosebush touched reliever Ted Waite for his game winning homer and then Vern Whalen's triple and a double by Mike Cooke provided an insurance marker in the top of the seventh.

Holoway allowed a double to Goyer and singles by Graham, Lapeordre and Peter Stallkovich in going the route for Point Anne. He struck out seven batters and gave up three walks.

Ron Rodgers started for the Juniors, giving way to Waite in the third inning. Between them they allowed eight hits and one walk, while fanning seven men.

Rosebush crashed a homer and double for Point Anne, while Larry Mavety was the only other batsman to connect more than once, with a pair of singles.

Bakelite Softballers Haven't Changed

Deloro Slellite had a drastic change of form from their 1970 Industrial Softball League record, but Deloro Carbide showed that things haven't changed much in some quarters.

Deloro, which finished in the basement in last season, took a 10-9 win from Bell Northern in their initial outing.

Mailer and Howard hurled the win allowing nine hits and eight walks while fanning six batters. Sonny Holoway and Paul Williams took the loss yielding nine safeties, walking seven and fanning 15.

A three - run homer by Wayne Craig was the big blow for the winners while Trumpour, Lane and Skelly had two hits apiece.

The defending champion Union Carbide squad showed that they are once again a force to be reckoned with as they clobbered the Intelligencer 19-7.

Ken Osborne threw a seven-hitter for the winners, fanning eight batters while Bruce Culloden and Harold Redquest toiled for the Intield issuing 10 safeties and 12 walks, while whiffing one batter.

Bill Hoard had a homer and two singles for the losers.

GLEN CARLETON

Butter Cost Up

The Belleville Kinsmen Juniors suffered from butterflies in the first inning and butter fingers in the eighth as they dropped the opening game of their Lakeshore Intermediate schedule 10-3 to Kendal.

The visitors managed four hits and a walk off starter Gamie Adams in the first inning to plate four runs, and then came back with a pair in the second before the Kinsmen hurler was able to settle down.

Kendal inflicted the only other serious damage in the eighth inning after Glenn Carlton had taken over on the Belleville mound. A bunt single, two walks, an error and two bases on balls allowed the visitors to push across their final three tallies.

All of the home team's scoring came in the first two innings as Kendal hurler Ralph Kennedy was able to effectively stifle them over the remainder of the route.

An error, a walk and another error on Steve Bedard's pop fly shortstop gave the Kinsmen a pair of uncarned runs in the first game. Their other tally came in the second inning when Randy Burke punched a triple down the right field line and then rode home on Terry Meagher's single. Burke was later pulled for a pinch hitter in his second appearance at the plate.

Adams worked the first seven innings for the losers, hurling well after his shaky start with Carleton taking over for the final two frames. Between them they gave up 11 hits and three walks while fanning 11 batters.

Kennedy, a tall righthand hurler, gave up eight hits and five walk while setting 13 down on strikes.

Lead-off batter Grant Yeo had a perfect five-for-five day to lead the Kendal batting attack.

For the Kinsmen, Glenn Carleton picked up a double and two singles as the only Belleville batsman with more than one safety. Carleton is tonsured in the best defensive play for the home team firing a strike from right field to shortstop Terry Meagher. The relay nailed Kendal's Kennedy who was trying to advance from first to third on a single by Yeo.

The next home game for the Kinsmen will be Wednesday night when they meet the Kingston Seniors in an 6 p.m. contest.

Shannonville Shakes While Reserve Quakes

Shannonville shook off a 7-3 loss to Plane's Concrete Saturday night by hammering the Reserve into 22-1 submission in a Sunday afternoon South Hastings Baseball bout. In the other weekend game played, Latta downed Read 8-3.

Ted Abrams hurled the victory for Plane's Saturday allowing five hits, whiffing ten and walking four batters. Dave Lewis was tagged with the loss giving up nine hits and one walk while fanning three batters past eight batters.

John Tweedy had a double and single for Plane's with Larry Abrams picking up a homer. The nine hits, all singles, went to Bob Neilson, Abrams, Warren Hay, Dave Lewis and Ron Urch. Bill Barberstock homered and Lewis had a double for the losers.

Shannonville set the tone of Sunday's game in the second inning when they plated nine tallies en route to their 22-1 win over the Reserve.

Bob Reid pitched the win with last inning relief help from Robert Barberstock. They allowed only three hits, while striking out 13 batters. George Hill took the loss giving up eight safeties and fanning seven.

Dennis Goodreau had a homer and single for the winners with Bud Hill notching two doubles and Dave Lewis a home run. Blaine Loft, Reid and Jason Morris all had singles.

The Reserve hits went to Maracle, Saunders and O'Conner.

Terry McTaggart fired five-hit ball in Latta's 8-3 win over Read. He struck out 11 batters and walked seven.

On the Read mound it was Frank Farrell starting, giving way to Carm Milligan in the fourth. They allowed five safeties, walking five and striking out the same number.

Mike Musclow homered and singled for Latta with Scott McLaren adding two safeties and Doug Geen one.

Riverview Drivers Sharing the Wealth

TRENTON — The second week's pace of the new "diamond" class cars at Riverview Speedway has borne out predictions of keen, and at times furious competition than ever before at the local stock car oval.

After an opening week sweep of the 8-cylinder events by driver Gerry Diamond it appears that the drivers of the big eights are going to have to face competition like anything they have encountered before.

Saturday's well balanced field, was led in prize money by the popular driver of car 11, Larry Stanley, who took home $1,250. After a first, a second and a third in the qualifying heats, he battled his way into second place in the "Diamond" Feature race, behind Bob Prudhomme, in car 71. Prudhomme had managed the second in the qualifiers, before leading the field across the line in the feature.

The "B" class, 6-cylinder races were beefed up by the addition of the two more cars registered in that class, with two of the drivers placing in the front three in qualifying events.

Car 8 in the 6-cylinder races finished in the front three in all runs, and earned driver Wayne Foster top prize money of $130 in his category. Wayne, however, placed third in the six-cylinder feature race behind John Wonks and John Sinclair. Winners of the "B" class heats were John Sinclair, Sam Bingham, in car 40 and Wayne Foster.

Wrong Turn Wins

BRIGHTON — Ron Yarrow literally backed into a win at the Brighton Speedway Saturday night. Battling for the lead in a six - lap feature heat Yarrow swerved to avoid a collision in the final turn and wound up facing in the wrong direction. He managed to put his car in reverse gear and back across the finish line for the first of his two victories.

The big winner for the night was Jim Wood who included the Super Feature among his three victories for the night.

Ray Cormier won the other six - cylinder feature staged while George Langlaine came out ahead of the field in the eight - cylinder feature. A total of 38 drivers competed in the events.

Trailer Tykes Survive Homers

Gib Waite Trailer Sales survived three-run homers by David Gee and Todd Stallkovich to hand the Kinsmen Bobcats a 20-13 loss in a tyke contest in the Belleville Minor Softball Association Saturday.

In a squirt contest Canadian Tire got a strong relief pitching performance from Bob Strahan as they took a 13-8 victory from O'Neil Stationery.

Canada Out

SAPPORO, Japan (Reuter) — Eleven countries will take part in hockey at the 1972 Winter Olympic Games here next February, the organizing committee announced today.

Six countries headed by the Soviet Union, defending champions will compete in the championship play while five countries are entered in the Group B section.

In Group A are Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden Finland, West Germany and Switzerland. The United States, France, Japan, Norway and Yugoslavia are entered in Group B.

Canada withdrew from international competition in 1970 and has said it will not have a team in the 1972 Games.

Baseball Reps Up with the Sun

Belleville's Minor Baseball Representative teams were later than the weather this weekend, winning four and drawing one of the five contests that they participated in.

The Belleville Lions midgets recorded a pair of wins, edging Whitby 6-5 Saturday and then downing Deseronto 7-6 in a Sunday contest.

Ron McTaggart and Dale Bamber hurled the win over Whitby blanking 11 batters and walking three. Bob Forder was the top batter lacing four singles while John Masterson and Don McTaggart had two each.

Against Deseronto it was Bamber and John Masterson looking after the hurling, allowing five hits and nine walks while whiffing 12 men.

The Towers Food City Tykes managed a 4-4 split with Oshawa Saturday and then came back in trounce Port Hope 14-9 the following day.

Dale McTaggart threw a three-hitter for Belleville, striking out nine and walking four, Peter Manderville's double was the only extra base hit for Belleville.

Greg McEachern and McTaggart split the mound chores in Sunday's win over Deseronto. They yielded eight hits and five walks, getting 10, men on strikers.

In the other weekend contest the Conductor and Brakemen peewees halted Oshawa 9-4.

Peter Hall and Bill Whelan allowed eight hits, while striking out five and walking three. Mike Burke, Scott Bowes and Paul Weeks all had three hits for Belleville.

United Church Minister Asks Catholics to End Ban on Pill

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — The Roman Catholic Church's ban against use of birth control pills by its members should be lifted to help control the world's growing population problem, a United Church clergyman said Sunday.

Rev. Sanford R. Lucky of Hamilton told the annual meeting of the United Church's Maritime conference that the church should be preparing to meet the social and ethical problems of the year 2000, including overpopulation.

"If the Pope's prohibition against the pill isn't given a decent burial and the population bomb defused, we'll have cities with mile-high housing units, a kind of human rabbit warren," Mr. Lucky said in an ordination address.

Rev. Garth W. Legge of Toronto, Association secretary of the United Church's board of world missions, said the economic gap between the rich and poor nations is widening and affluent countries should provide more foreign aid.

Dr. Legge said Saturday the citizens of rich countries should be shocked by the fact that 80 per cent of the world's resources are used by 20 per cent of its population.

He also said 200 million children are permanently retarded because of the lack of protein in their diet.

"The sense of impotence, desperation and injustice shared by the populations of the underdeveloped countries is some day going to devour us, unless Christians and other men of good will begin to realize we are all members of one human family."

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: A high school friend tells me that there is a lot of venereal disease around. I told her she must be mistaken. I've read that penicillin cures it just like that. Tuberculosis is no longer a problem; it must be the same with gonorrhea.— Miss R.

COMMENT: I'm sorry, but you're wrong on both counts. TB and VD are still problems. One reason is the wrong idea many people have that we have wiped them out. But this is not so, and you may well ask why.

Admittedly, sufficient doses of antibiotics can cure gonorrhea and syphilis if administered early enough. The problem is that people are careless. Either they are unaware they have venereal disease; or knowing it, procrastinate about treating it.

If they engage in sexual intercourse, they spread the infection and it zooms to the head of the statistical columns of communicable diseases. For example, one estimate puts VD in the U.S. at about 25 million cases a year. (Gonorrhea cases outnumber syphilis about 20 to 1.) And the number keeps spreading to many others.

Venereal diseases outnumber all other contagious diseases combined (TB, scarlet fever, pneumonia, typhoid, etc.) It is especially common between the ages of 20 and 30. Teenagers are also victims. During one period of five years the increase of the venereal diseases was at least 1,000 per cent among adolescents.

• • •

So you see, Miss R., the VD problem is with us and getting larger. It will not disappear by itself. Neither do we (unfortunately) have any vaccines to prevent it from recurring. As the saying goes: "It all depends on you." Knowledge is our first defence. Venereal disease is caused by germs. They pass from person to person, and sexual contact is the usual method of transference.

Gonorrhea (sometimes called "the clap") is often considered a minor nuisance. But it is much more than that. Unsuspected in the mother, it may cause blindness in the newborn baby. It may also cause blood stream infections resulting in arthritis or heart disease, or may cause prostatis, or may even make both men and women sterile.

Untreated gonorrhea can produce lifelong unhappiness. Youngsters should know these unpalatable facts. But so should grownups.

Effective Drugs Fail to End VD

Many women who are symptomless may have gonorrhea. And they may spread the infection because of unawareness. Smear tests are not always reliable. The more accurate test is a smear culture.

In the male, gonorrhea is more evident. There is an evident discharge, painful, burning urination. He can prevent spread by not having sexual intercourse until fully treated and cured.

You haven't mentioned the dangers of syphilis, Miss R. That's an even greater, more serious problem which I will not take up today. As I said, knowledge about VD — and lack of procrastination is seeking preventies and treatment — are the main weapons we have in preventing the spread of VD.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Reference Book Faulty

How does the ordinary person judge a new reference work? Unless you are something of a scholar, and already have a considerable library, how can you tell if a reference book really fulfills your needs, or even lives up to its own professed aims?

The answer is that you can not, until you have bought it and found it unsatisfactory, and then it is too late. Unless you know what to look for while browsing through it, which is a rare critical faculty not commonly found in the ordinary book-buyer.

I thought of these hazards the other day, while leafing through a copy of "Webster's Dictionary of Proper Names" just published by Merriam-Webster, as the first American adaptation of Geoffrey Payton's British reference book, "Proper Names."

The first thing that struck me was the dust-cover, containing dozens of names of entries in the book. One that leaped to the eye was "Grannon Foundation," the centre for drug treatment, since I had just written a column on the subject.

There is no entry in the book under that name; an inexcusable omission, especially in view of the proclamation on the dust-jacket. This prompted me to look more closely into the book's contents.

Opening the pages at random, my eye fell on "Clemence Dane," an obscure playwright of no consequence but I failed to find "Covenanters," a most important group in Scottish history. On another page I found the "Dallas Cowboys" as a football team, but no reference to the Dandies, the 50 daughters of the King of Argos, all but one of whom murdered their husbands on their wedding night.

Scanning through the "A's" alone, here are some of the entries and omissions: "Abercrombie and Fitch," a sporting goods shop, but no "Abolitionists"; the Academy Awards" of Hollywood, but no Academy of Plato (indeed, neither Plato nor "Platonic Love" is listed); "Mrs. Aling," but nothing about "St. Ambrose"; the "Advocates' Library," but no "Devil's Advocate" (not under "Devil," either); and, most appalling of all, "Alice's Restaurant," a trivial film, but no entry at all for "Allah."!

Now a book of this sort cannot include everything, its editor must be selective in a single-volume; and no two persons will agree on all candidates for admission to its pages. But this is even more reason for good judgment, relevance, taste, erudition and discrimination between the pertinent and the fleetingly popular.

On what basis include "Bloomer Girl," admittedly "an indistinguished musical," and omit Kurt Weill's "Knickerbocker Holiday"? Only Allah knows the answer to that.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For June 1

Your birthday today: Your increased understanding of people and their needs leads to forward success in serving those needs on the one hand. On the other is an urge to withdraw much of your personal affairs from general public view. Less exposure is desired as your feelings continue to be normally modest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your initiative inspires others. An early start is more important than extra help late in the day. Find time for serious study, meditation, inner guidance for a complex tomorrow.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Resolve to be practical in the month ahead; begin by not taking on more than you are reasonably sure of finishing this week.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Jumping to conclusions is easy — and most likely completely wrong on all counts. Pay little attention to wild stories and provocation.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Investigation in your own special interests promises results; nobody tells you out of making a search or a fact finding journey. Your thinking goes on apace.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Support for your views and activities comes from unexpected directions. Brief moments of coincidence lend dramatic overtones to events.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Change your thinking regarding work and career opportunity. You have not tried certain things you did perhaps should. A general house-cleaning, both real and symbolic, is in order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Avoid excess in anything, including promises for the future. A turning point is surprisingly near, but is not quite within sight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23— ov. 21): This is a slow or uphill sort of day if you do not exert your mind to its fullest and seek the broadest range of vision. Try to understand why others disagree.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Social life, perhaps personal affairs, overtake general notice. Speculation may replace definite facts. Much depends on what you do next; the face you present to the world.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You dwell too firmly and overlong on details which later turn out not to be the main issues. Think big and expand your range a bit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your bright personality sets a good pace. Enlist others in additional activities, diversification of normal schedules.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Whatever social or political connections you have should be definitely reminded that you are still around. Show off your progress; announce short-range plans.

Angry Mob of Turks Surrounds Men Holding Girl, 14, Hostage

ISTANBUL (Reuter) — An angry crowd of Turks surrounded a building where a young girl was being held captive by two armed gunmen today, wailing to lynch the gunmen if she is harmed.

The ominous word "idam" (execution) rose from the throats of hundreds of men calling the curse of Allah on the pair holding 14-year-old Sibel Erkan, daughter of an army officer.

The men, believed to be members of the so-called Turkish Liberation Army, are suspected of being connected with the murder last week of Israeli diplomat Ephraim Elrom.

Istanbul's military commander, Gen. Faik Turun, warned them he would have no hesitation in handing them over to the mob for lynching if Sibel is harmed. More than 1,000 police and troops are ringing the building.

Army officers watched through field glasses today and saw Sibel bound to an armchair. They caught glimpses of the men who have held her for nearly 24 hours.

During a rain-sodden night of talks between security forces and the gunmen, through the smashed windows of the three-storey building, the men offered to free the girl in exchange for their freedom, safe-conduct and passports to leave the country.

But the Army is in no mood to bargain, Gen. Turun said grimly.

"We shall not use force. There is a life at stake, we shall wait patiently, but we will take them two—either dead or alive."

The girl's father is Maj. Dincer Erkan.

Maj. Erkan paced restlessly among the forward troops in the area, sometimes anxiously peering at the house.

"If they kill her (Sibel) I will personally kill them," he angrily declared.

The officer who was given the ransom terms said the man he spoke to identified himself as Nahir Saydam and named his colleague as Huseyin Chelsvit.

The gunmen moved in Sunday morning when a group of four people, including a woman, were challenged by night-watchmen and asked for their identification papers. Istanbul has been under martial law for some time now, with tension running high following a series of letting kidnappings and robberies.

One of the group drew a pistol and wounded one of the watchmen. One of the men and the woman escaped but the other two burst into the house where Erkan has an apartment.

Sevim Erkan, 32, the mother, and Sibel's 10-year-old brother Tanar, were also in the house when Seyhan and Cebavir moved in but were freed a few hours later.

Elrom was kidnapped May 17 by the Turkish People's Liberation Army, a leftist group, and was killed five days later after the government refused the group's demand to free all political prisoners.

What A Load!

This string of vehicles formed one of the 23 loads placed aboard a Lockheed C-5 during tests at Fort Hood, Texas. Tracked and wheeled vehicles were driven in through the huge rear opening, were tied down for a simulated overseas mission and then driven off through the raised visor nose opening at the front of the aircraft. Loads totalling 3,718,660 pounds were loaded, tied down, untied and unloaded during tests.

Landsmen Kill Over Half Seals

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Landsmen now are accounting for more than half of the seals killed in the annual hunt, says T. J. Hughes, secretary of a committee investigating the hunts off Canada's East Coast.

"This year landsmen realized a quota of 30,000 seals against the 30,000 taken by ships," said Mr. Hughes, who is also general manager of the Ontario Humane Society.

He said the society's annual meeting Saturday that the greatest problem with landsmen is the Magdalens.

He said contrary to the belief that many of these landsmen are impoverished, many own snowmobiles to hunt the seals.

"During this season people, who live in the Maritime provinces and are licensed to kill seals by either walking over the ice or by using boats under 65 feet in length, were able to participate on such a large scale in seal hunting that they can no longer be considered a relatively unimportant segment of the over-all hunt," Mr. Hughes said.

Veteran Pickets Legion Gathering

WATERLOO (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion received praise from Ontario's leader-ant-governor and criticism from a lone picketer at the opening of its provincial convention Sunday.

The picketer, who identified himself as John E. McRae of Toronto, made his appearance as about 1,000 veterans paraded through the city.

One side of his sign charged that the Toronto district of the legion was "more interested in real estate and trust funds, booze and bingo profits, than in our veterans."

The other side asked what financial deal had been made between the University of Toronto and the department of veterans affairs.

Mr. McRae said in an interview the financial deal was the transfer of "Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital from the veterans affairs department to the university.

The university took over the veterans' hospital from the department in 1966 for one dollar, a token of purchase, but said veterans would continue to get priority treatment.

Mr. McRae said the legion made him a life member for his service as treasurer of three Toronto branches.

W. Ross Macdonald, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, officially opened the 37th biennial convention of the legion's Ontario Command.

He called Canada's Veterans Charter "one of the finest in the world today" and praised the members of the legion for inspiring and recommending many of the items of legislation in the charter.

He also said:

"You are to be admired for keeping ever green in the minds of all Canadians the sacrifices made on their behalf by their fellow citizens in the wars in which Canada has been engaged."

Mr. Macdonald said the legion has demonstrated an outstanding interest in youth activities including sports, boy scouts, cubs and cadets.

Hellyer Will Seek Support From MPs

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Paul Hellyer, who quit the Liberal party a week ago and resigned his federal cabinet position two years ago, said Saturday he hopes to drum up support from other members of Parliament for his newly-formed political movement, Action Canada.

Mr. Hellyer said in an interview he has not discussed the movement with other MP's yet, but thinks some will eventually join him.

"Our procedure," he said, "is that we would like to hear from their constituents rather than approach them directly."

He said he received "extremely good reaction" to Action Canada during a trip last week to Vancouver.

Mr. Hellyer was in Simcoe to celebrate his parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

Match Tossed Out of Window Blows Back and Starts Fire

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

"Would you please write something about careless smoking in cars.

"Recently I was driving in the city and a front seat passenger lit a cigarette and tossed the match out the window. Either the match did not go right out of the car or it was blown back in through one of the rear windows, because shortly after the passenger got out I smelled smoke in the car.

"I stopped and found the rear seat smouldering. After pouring water on the part of the cushion that was on fire, I assumed the fire was out and parked the car for about an hour. But, when I returned the car was filled with smoke and the red glow had started again in the same spot.

"This time I removed the seat cushion from the car and soaked it with water until I was certain the fire was out.

"Instead of putting cigarettes or matches in the ash tray, careless smokers often throw a glowing butt or match out the window, not realizing that the wind can blow them back into the car.

"I am sure the readers would appreciate your advice about how to deal with careless smokers." — Mr. J. J., Toronto

When fighting a fire in the upholstery, the only way to be certain it will not flare up again after it appears to be extinguished is to dig away the padding in the immediate area of the fire.

It is alarming how careless some smokers can be when discarding a glowing cigarette butt or a lighted match. I make a point of opening the front and rear seat ash trays and make sure my smoking passengers are aware of their location.

A cigarette thoughtlessly thrown from a moving vehicle can easily be drawn back inside the passenger area or carried into a passing car by wind turbulence.

Forgetting to empty the ash trays or allowing them to be used as a place to dump any form of refuse can prove hazardous. Such things as discarded note paper and candy wrappers should never be placed in ash trays. Various types of low priced car litter baskets are available at accessory stores for this purpose.

Ash trays are far from fireproof and when filled with debris, a glowing match or butt can trigger a serious fire. I know of several instances where the smouldering contents of the ash tray burst into flames when the vehicle was parked, completely destroying the car.

When the car is parked, especially on a busy street, all the windows should be closed. Even in hot weather, to allow a passage of air through the passenger area, they should only be left open a fraction. Doing this will prevent a carelessly discarded butt from either a pedestrian or motorist entering the vehicle.

It is a good idea to equip your vehicle with a liter basket of some kind and make a practice of emptying the ash trays into it when necessary. However, never dump ash trays into the litter basket. If there is the slightest chance of a live butt — to do so could start a fire in the basket. The best time to do this house cleaning is before starting out in the mmorning or after the car has been parked all day.

Audie Murphy Missing On Chartered Aircraft

ATLANTA (AP) — Actor Audie Murphy, a baby-faced Texan whose heroism as an infantryman earned him 23 decorations during the Second World War, is missing on a chartered airplane flight.

The twin-engined Aero Commander in which the most-decorated U.S. soldier of the Second World War and a friend met left Atlanta Friday morning was last heard from as it passed near Roanoke, Va.

The Federal Aviation Administration said had weather was reported in the Roanoke area at the time. The pilot, Herman Butler, radioed the FAA's flight service station at Roanoke Friday and indicated he would land there at 11:40 a.m. Nothing more was heard from the craft, the FAA said Sunday.

Murphy, a post-war movie actor whose military decorations included the Medal of Honor, the highest U.S. award for valor, was en route to Martinsville, Va., to inspect a plant owned by Modular Properties, Inc., of Atlanta.

Bill Spoon, sales manager of the firm, said the 46-year-old Murphy was considering investing in the company. It specializes in factory-built homes, motels and other structures.

The FAA said a search for the plane began late because the pilot failed to file a flight plan. The flight service station at Roanoke would not, necessarily have expected further contact with the plane and this made no report, the FAA said.

With Murphy were Claude Crosby, president of Modular Management, a subsidiary of Modular Properties; Jack Tillleton, representing a group of investors from California; Raymond Fiter, a Chatanooga Tenn., lawyer representing Modular Development, and Butler, of Denver, Colo.

A number of residents of the Galax area of mountainous Carroll County, Va., about 60 miles west of Martinsville, telephoned the Roanoke Times Friday to report hearing a plane in trouble during a rainstorm. Their reports did not reach the FAA until Sunday.

Typhoid Fever Feared on Ship

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A Liberian tanker has been quarantined at the Sault Ste. Marie harbor because of the possibility of typhoid fever aboard.

U.S. Coast Guard authorities said the wife of the ship's chief engineer, Mrs. Basso Dratsopoulos, was taken off the ship Saturday in Chicago. After the vessel—the Bert Michael—had left Chicago, doctors confirmed Mrs. Dratsopoulos had typhoid fever, the coast guard said.

The 4,656-ton tanker anchored in Sault Ste. Marie Sunday afternoon and U.S. Public Health Service officials were to conduct tests today on all persons aboard, the spokesman said.

Authorities said no one other than Mrs. Dratsopoulos has shown symptoms of illness.

The ship was unbound from the Chicago to Thunder Bay before being notified to stop in Sault Ste. Marie, the coast guard said.
